Online Review Course for Iowa Certified Crop Adviser Exam Now Available

By Bob Hartzler, Department of Agronomy, and Kristine Schaefer, Department of Entomology

Iowa State University Extension and Outreach, with support from the Iowa Certified Crop Advisers Board, has developed an online review course for individuals taking the Iowa Certified Crop Advisor (CCA) examination.

The course consists of four modules included in the exam:

1. crop management
2. pest management
3. nutrient management
4. soil and water management.

Each module includes narrated presentations by subject matter specialists, practice quizzes, and supplemental materials that provide additional information for that topic area. The course also includes a practice exam that may be attempted three times. The registration fee for the online review course is $100 and is available for online purchase here.

The next CCA exam is scheduled for August 7, 2015. Registration for the exam is done through the National CCA Organization and ends June 26, 2015.

Registration for the CCA exam and the ISU Extension and Outreach online review course are not connected and should be purchased separately. The online review course materials will be accessible until the day of the August exam.
