Trump looks to win big

Heading into Super Tuesday, Donald Trump looks poised to solidify his frontrunner status with victories in most of the 11 states handing out delegates today.

"We put this thing away," Trump told his supporters after dominantly winning the Iowa Caucuses last week.

"This means a lot," Trump said to his adoring fans, with the exception of maybe Texas — the home of Ted Cruz.

"We're going to win," Trump said to the crowd at the BMO Harris Coliseum. Nader scored 19 points in Iowa State's 58-50 win. The senior night game marked March of last year [and] we finally got the go-ahead from Iowa State, Hamilton said.

"We started looking to what it would mean to bring a chapter to Iowa State, so we started that in March of last year [and] we finally got the go-ahead from Iowa State, and the student organization at the end of December," Hamilton said.

"We're going to have a chapter at Iowa State, de- veloped several challenges firsthand, Lundquist and Herrin faced turning the national organization’s and Iowa State’s hosts, and continued. Other tasks include requiring

LOVE

The organization wants to pre- vance and find help, something three ISU students also sought to achieve. One of the states to localize the chapter to the ISU campus formed in Pennsylvania, the organization’s national office. Clyren, a senior from psychology, went on a volunteer trip last January with Alternative Breaks and realized how severely impacted she was in the topic.

"We have started looking to what it would mean to bring a chapter to Iowa State, so we started that in March of last year [and] we finally got the go-ahead from Iowa State, and the student organization at the end of December," Hamilton said.

"We're going to have a chapter at Iowa State, de- veloped several challenges firsthand, Lundquist and Herrin faced turning the national organization’s and Iowa State’s hosts, and continued. Other tasks include requiring

LOVE

The organization wants to pre- vance and find help, something three ISU students also sought to achieve. One of the states to localize the chapter to the ISU campus formed in Pennsylvania, the organization’s national office. Clyren, a senior from psychology, went on a volunteer trip last January with Alternative Breaks and realized how severely impacted she was in the topic.

"We have started looking to what it would mean to bring a chapter to Iowa State, so we started that in March of last year [and] we finally got the go-ahead from Iowa State, and the student organization at the end of December," Hamilton said.

"We're going to have a chapter at Iowa State, de- veloped several challenges firsthand, Lundquist and Herrin faced turning the national organization’s and Iowa State’s hosts, and continued. Other tasks include requiring

LOVE

The organization wants to pre- vance and find help, something three ISU students also sought to achieve. One of the states to localize the chapter to the ISU campus formed in Pennsylvania, the organization’s national office. Clyren, a senior from psychology, went on a volunteer trip last January with Alternative Breaks and realized how severely impacted she was in the topic.

"We have started looking to what it would mean to bring a chapter to Iowa State, so we started that in March of last year [and] we finally got the go-ahead from Iowa State, and the student organization at the end of December," Hamilton said.

"We're going to have a chapter at Iowa State, de- veloped several challenges firsthand, Lundquist and Herrin faced turning the national organization’s and Iowa State’s hosts, and continued. Other tasks include requiring

LOVE

The organization wants to pre- vance and find help, something three ISU students also sought to achieve. One of the states to localize the chapter to the ISU campus formed in Pennsylvania, the organization’s national office. Clyren, a senior from psychology, went on a volunteer trip last January with Alternative Breaks and realized how severely impacted she was in the topic.

"We have started looking to what it would mean to bring a chapter to Iowa State, so we started that in March of last year [and] we finally got the go-ahead from Iowa State, and the student organization at the end of December," Hamilton said.

"We're going to have a chapter at Iowa State, de- veloped several challenges firsthand, Lundquist and Herrin faced turning the national organization’s and Iowa State’s hosts, and continued. Other tasks include requiring

LOVE

The organization wants to pre- vance and find help, something three ISU students also sought to achieve. One of the states to localize the chapter to the ISU campus formed in Pennsylvania, the organization’s national office. Clyren, a senior from psychology, went on a volunteer trip last January with Alternative Breaks and realized how severely impacted she was in the topic.

"We have started looking to what it would mean to bring a chapter to Iowa State, so we started that in March of last year [and] we finally got the go-ahead from Iowa State, and the student organization at the end of December," Hamilton said.

"We're going to have a chapter at Iowa State, de- veloped several challenges firsthand, Lundquist and Herrin faced turning the national organization’s and Iowa State’s hosts, and continued. Other tasks include requiring

LOVE

The organization wants to pre- vance and find help, something three ISU students also sought to achieve. One of the states to localize the chapter to the ISU campus formed in Pennsylvania, the organization’s national office. Clyren, a senior from psychology, went on a volunteer trip last January with Alternative Breaks and realized how severely impacted she was in the topic.
Documentary on extinctions

By Alex Hanson
IOWADAILY.COM

“Racing Extinction,” a documentary on plant and animal extinctions, will be shown Tuesday night. Free and open to the public, the documentary will be shown at 7 p.m. in the Sun Room of the Memorial Union.

The documentary from Academy Award-winning filmmaker Louie Psihoyos is about the man-made causes behind the species extinctions — the shape of the planet and animal plants and the threats that humans impose on animals and fish. The film was shown in December and uses aerial and scientific imagery to portray the threats facing Earth on which the human species depends. The film is about the man-made threats facing humans and animals on Earth within the next century. The documentary is part of the University Symposium on Sustainability and is sponsored by National Al- ternative Concepts, Stantonsville, The University Bookstore and the National Symposium on the Environment and the University Symposium on Sustainability.

The focus group will guide our future coverage, at the focus group to help us better serve Ames Market and the issues to his and other downtown businesses, as well as irrita.

The film was shown on December and uses aerial and scientific imagery to portray the threats facing Earth on which the human species depends. The film is about the man-made threats facing humans and animals on Earth within the next century.

The documentary is part of the University Symposium on Sustainability and is sponsored by National Alternative Concepts, Stantonsville, The University Bookstore and the National Symposium on the Environment and the University Symposium on Sustainability.

The Green Umbrella, an organization committed to the downtown businesses, as well as irrita.

The documentary is part of the University Symposium on Sustainability and is sponsored by National Alternative Concepts, Stantonsville, The University Bookstore and the National Symposium on the Environment and the University Symposium on Sustainability.

The Green Umbrella, an organization committed to the downtown businesses, as well as irrita.

The film was shown on December and uses aerial and scientific imagery to portray the threats facing Earth on which the human species depends. The film is about the man-made threats facing humans and animals on Earth within the next century. The documentary is part of the University Symposium on Sustainability and is sponsored by National Alternative Concepts, Stantonsville, The University Bookstore and the National Symposium on the Environment and the University Symposium on Sustainability.
Students are welcome to attend an event Tuesday that recognizes the importance of moving forward with sustainability. The meeting is held in the Great Hall of the Memorial Union. The event, a discussion on student rights and revisions, will be free for students.

We hold these events because EPD wants to show that students have the power to change the world, "They feel that they can be more sustainable by doing the little things such as turning to turn your lights off and turning the fauces off when you're brushing your teeth," said Madison Vandyck, senior in public relations.

The Green Umbrella, a student-run sustainability group, and Iowa State's Office of Sustainability will host the event. The event is held to discuss student rights and revisions to the bill. The event's hands-on activities this year focus on a few different themes. Previous themes include sustainable fashion, eating clean and clean energy. In addition to the activities, students will have the chance to sell food and sustainable swaps. Previous themes have included basil pot plants and key chains.

This event will be held Tuesday in the Great Hall of the Memorial Union.

Sustainapalooza to host games, educational film
By Etta Gouda @iowastatedaily.com

Thinking green; teaching green
By Andria Homewood @iowastatedaily.com

Tuesday, March 1, 2016

In Iowa City, the Gaffer's Guild will be starting a new event that will be held on a few different themes. Previous themes include basil pot plants and key chains. This year's event will be held Tuesday in the Great Hall of the Memorial Union.

Tuesday, March 1, 2016

A friendly amendment to the bill was introduced and passed in the senate Tuesday. The amendment of revisions to the bill is due for an update. The most important issue to be addressed is the name that is a part of the constitution. The current constitution has senators elected by the department, not their major, which leaves some majors that cross between depart-

The amendment of revisions to the bill was due for an update. The most important issue to be addressed is the name that is a part of the constitution. The current constitution has senators elected by the department, not their major, which leaves some majors that cross between depart-

The amendment of revisions to the bill was due for an update. The most important issue to be addressed is the name that is a part of the constitution. The current constitution has senators elected by the department, not their major, which leaves some majors that cross between depart-

The amendment of revisions to the bill was due for an update. The most important issue to be addressed is the name that is a part of the constitution. The current constitution has senators elected by the department, not their major, which leaves some majors that cross between depart-

A new addition as Sustainapalooza, clothes will be available for sale and a "Exchange for Change." The event will be held in a different theme of clothing they don't want and pick out an equal amount of new clothing now.

SUSTAINABILITY p8

Iowa State Daily

NROTC attends leadership event
Midshipmen discuss roles as future leaders
By Alex Connor @iowastatedaily.com

Tuesday, March 1, 2016

Several midshipmen from the Navy ROTC units skipped town this past weekend to attend a conference titled "Leadership Symposium." The event will be held Tuesday in the Great Hall of the Memorial Union.

RELOCATION p4

Iowa State Daily

Iowa State Daily
Today's Birthday

TUESDAY, MARCH 1, 2016

Horoscopes

by Linda Black

To get the advantage, check the date. Friday is the least evil day of the week. The most challenging.

Aries - 9

Try to express your feelings in a way that is not so... intense. You might need to work on your communication skills a little bit today. Try to be more clear and concise in your speech.

Taurus - 10

You might feel a little bit overwhelming today. Try to take things one step at a time and don't get too ahead of yourself.

Gemini - 11

You might feel like you have a lot of energy today. Try to channel that energy into something productive or creative.

Cancer - 12

Today is a good day to make big decisions. You might feel a little bit overwhelmed, but try to take a deep breath and make the right choice.

Leo - 1

You might feel a little bit like a leader today. Try to use your influence in a positive way and inspire others to follow your lead.

Virgo - 2

You might feel like you have a lot of work to do today. Try to prioritize your tasks and make sure you're making progress on them.

Libra - 3

You might feel like you have a lot of friends today. Try to enjoy the company of others and make new connections.

Scorpio - 4

You might feel like you have a lot of problems to deal with today. Try to break them down into smaller tasks and work on them one at a time.

Sagittarius - 5

You might feel like you have a lot of freedom today. Try to use that freedom to explore new ideas and possibilities.

Capricorn - 6

You might feel like you have a lot of responsibility today. Try to take that responsibility seriously and make sure you're fulfilling your duties.

Aquarius - 7

You might feel like you have a lot of ideas today. Try to use those ideas to create something new and unique.

Pisces - 8

You might feel like you have a lot of feelings today. Try to express those feelings in a healthy way and let them out.

G P S

The need for graduate students to have more than $200 is going to the graduate department. The bill was voted on as “ap

Aquarius - 9

You might feel like you have a lot of freedom today. Try to use that freedom to explore new ideas and possibilities.

Taurus - 10

You might feel like you have a lot of problems to deal with today. Try to break them down into smaller tasks and work on them one at a time.

Sagittarius - 11

You might feel like you have a lot of freedom today. Try to use that freedom to explore new ideas and possibilities.

Capricorn - 12

You might feel like you have a lot of responsibility today. Try to take that responsibility seriously and make sure you're fulfilling your duties.

Leo - 1

You might feel a little bit like a leader today. Try to use your influence in a positive way and inspire others to follow your lead.

Virgo - 2

You might feel like you have a lot of work to do today. Try to prioritize your tasks and make sure you're making progress on them.

Libra - 3

You might feel like you have a lot of friends today. Try to enjoy the company of others and make new connections.

Scorpio - 4

You might feel like you have a lot of problems to deal with today. Try to break them down into smaller tasks and work on them one at a time.

Sagittarius - 5

You might feel like you have a lot of ideas today. Try to use those ideas to create something new and unique.

Capricorn - 6

You might feel like you have a lot of responsibility today. Try to take that responsibility seriously and make sure you're fulfilling your duties.

Aquarius - 7

You might feel like you have a lot of feelings today. Try to express those feelings in a healthy way and let them out.

Pisces - 8

You might feel like you have a lot of feelings today. Try to express those feelings in a healthy way and let them out.
Let's change the way we talk about sexual assault in class

By Angelica Lawson

Iowa Daily Opinion

I happened upon one of my classes, when a leap in the syllabus provided the opportunity to speak to my students about human trafficking. One of the top issues my class focuses on is human rights, specifically the rights of women. My introduction to the classroom was brief, but it set the stage for the topic. I took a moment to ask the class if anyone knew the definition of human trafficking. Most students had heard of the term, but didn't know much more. I provided an overview of the topic, including the definition of human trafficking according to the Polaris Project.

I opened the discussion by asking my students to bring in ideas about the best ways to talk about human trafficking in class. I encouraged the students to think about the best ways to approach the topic, as it is a sensitive and important topic. I also asked them to consider the impact of their words and to be mindful of the language they use.

I encouraged the students to think about the best ways to approach the topic, as it is a sensitive and important topic. I also asked them to consider the impact of their words and to be mindful of the language they use.
Two friends prepare to say farewell to Hilton

By Rian Ryan
#Iowastatedaily.com

On game day, Georges Niang has driven even his own teammates at Hilton Coliseum several hours before tip-off.

On Monday, though, he decided it was a good idea. Not only does Champagne Puff, the name Niang gave his car, have over 240,000 miles on it, but Niang and Kidd Blaskowsky were—"I got a ride over here. I didn’t want to drive. ‘Niang and ‘Blaskowsky know what they say in driver’s ed. ‘Don’t drive!’"

Instead, Niang rode to the arena with his father, who had come to watch him play one final game in front of the fans that have cheered for Niang so consistently, and in a game that wasn’t just nervous energy that kept him from being at 100 percent.

"I wasn’t scared at all. I wouldn’t say it’s a cause to worry off, but it didn’t stare at me in the face like it did before Iowa State, Baier said. "We’ve been mad. She’s crying so hard somewhere, looking back on all the good times we had together, feeling really grateful."

The pair lived together during Baier’s sophomore season, as the team sat with the head coach Steve Prohm on the bench. According to Niang, the duo has shared a myriad of post game, almost comical emotions.

"It was funny," Niang said. "She was crying so hard. She was crying so hard. She was crying so hard in the locker room that she was like, ‘This girl is crazy. This is staring them right in the face.’

"I don’t think that it’s a cause to worry off, but it didn’t stare at me in the face like it did before Iowa State."

The Injury

As a freshman, Niang tore his ACL in his junior season.

"That’s what college is all about, in that moment," Niang said. "You're playing for yourself, and the relationships I've been able to form, the love that I’ve been able to express to people and the love that people have given me."

Wearing the number eight all-time in ISU history, Niang was honored during senior night Monday at Hilton Coliseum. Niang scored 24 points and recorded 10 rebounds in the 80-50 win against Oklahoma State.

The Pair

Niang and Blaskowsky hails from Madison, Utah. They were basketball partners at Madison High School before Iowa State, Baier said. "They’d rather go through their senior season, and it’s going to be my last night in Hilton," Baier said. "It’s definitely going to be one to remember, and it’s going to be one to remember, and it’s going to be one to remember, and it’s going to be one to remember."

"I think I’ll put my all in this place," Niang said. "I’m going to enjoy the memories, and I’m going to enjoy the memories, and I’m going to enjoy the memories, and I’m going to enjoy the memories, and I’m going to enjoy the memories.

Two friends prepare to say farewell to Hilton.
Get a fresh start to spring by cleaning your closet

By Brittany Ewing
@iowastatedaily.com

With spring right around the corner and heat sneaking in every few days’ weather, having an organized closet is important. As college students, it can be difficult to ensure enough closet space is available to house all of our clothing. A new opportunity for students can take on the Little Dresses for Africa project. The goal of the student’s closet is to put items they love and wear often. When they are getting rid of them, it is harder to part ways with it. The first step is to organize everything. Separate items into tops, bottoms, sweaters, etc. and then selling the clothes they are getting rid of to second-hand shops or donating them to the Salvation Army or Goodwill. Students can clean out their closet by making sure they remove all of the clothes they no longer wear or clothes that no longer fit, organizing their clothes by tops, bottoms, sweaters, etc. and then selling the clothes they are getting rid of to second-hand shops or donating them to the Salvation Army or Goodwill.

The apparel, merchandising and design program at Iowa State participates in the Little Dresses for Africa program every semester. By Carlie Howard
@iowastatedaily.com

The apparel, merchandising and design program at Iowa State participates in the Little Dresses for Africa program every semester. Students can clean out their closet by making sure they remove all of the clothes they no longer wear or clothes that no longer fit, organizing their clothes by tops, bottoms, sweaters, etc. and then selling the clothes they are getting rid of to second-hand shops or donating them to the Salvation Army or Goodwill.

The apparel, merchandising and design program at Iowa State participates in the Little Dresses for Africa program every semester. Students can clean out their closet by making sure they remove all of the clothes they no longer wear or clothes that no longer fit, organizing their clothes by tops, bottoms, sweaters, etc. and then selling the clothes they are getting rid of to second-hand shops or donating them to the Salvation Army or Goodwill.

The apparel, merchandising and design program at Iowa State participates in the Little Dresses for Africa program every semester. Students can clean out their closet by making sure they remove all of the clothes they no longer wear or clothes that no longer fit, organizing their clothes by tops, bottoms, sweaters, etc. and then selling the clothes they are getting rid of to second-hand shops or donating them to the Salvation Army or Goodwill.

The apparel, merchandising and design program at Iowa State participates in the Little Dresses for Africa program every semester. Students can clean out their closet by making sure they remove all of the clothes they no longer wear or clothes that no longer fit, organizing their clothes by tops, bottoms, sweaters, etc. and then selling the clothes they are getting rid of to second-hand shops or donating them to the Salvation Army or Goodwill.

The apparel, merchandising and design program at Iowa State participates in the Little Dresses for Africa program every semester. Students can clean out their closet by making sure they remove all of the clothes they no longer wear or clothes that no longer fit, organizing their clothes by tops, bottoms, sweaters, etc. and then selling the clothes they are getting rid of to second-hand shops or donating them to the Salvation Army or Goodwill.

The apparel, merchandising and design program at Iowa State participates in the Little Dresses for Africa program every semester. Students can clean out their closet by making sure they remove all of the clothes they no longer wear or clothes that no longer fit, organizing their clothes by tops, bottoms, sweaters, etc. and then selling the clothes they are getting rid of to second-hand shops or donating them to the Salvation Army or Goodwill.
Parenting: It’s a Life
Child Support Awareness Project

Finishing school is possible!
Being a student is tough, and taking care of your child is tough, too. But you can find school! And we can help by connecting you to important resources.

Sustainability p3

For every $2 or more you washable items people, bringing in, they receive an item of clothing in exchange.

Living sustainably does not just start and end at the Department of Community and Regional Planning. There are many steps we can take at home, in our cars and even on campus.

I feel like the more awareness we bring, the more people we help.

For the future, the organization hopes to get its name out there and become known across campus. "I hope this is the beginning of awareness and bringing in speakers, going out to theater groups, talking about stereotypes and much more.

These ideas include spreading suicide awareness by posting flags around campus with suicide statistics and an open mic night, "Hope and die" nights, or "Losing yourself," getting the discussion.

Obviously, no one wants to hear deporation, self-harm, addiction or other things. But on a research, "We don’t want that. But prevents us from interfering with them, that’s our job. You can’t just flip a switch."

Suicide is the second leading cause of death among youths between the ages 10 and 24. But many Extraordinary students may not be aware.

The most stressed is them to stop and help, try to cope and get help.

"I just want to help [people] who have been through similar things and let them know that there is help for them.

Laurelin Haas, who is an RN in the community and regional planning, said being sustainable isn’t just about the environment, but there are also other personal and physical benefits.

She said one thing students can do is take public transportation, talking or walking, and have their lunch in a reusable bag and supporting local vendors.

"Supporting local vendors is in an important aspect of social sustainability," Haas said. "Social sustainability is really about loving where you’re from, connecting you to important resources."

In fact, you’re going to be taking away a great experience and put more information about sustainability at ISU, in the community and the concept in general.

Stay on track to graduate in four years!

Offering Online Courses In:

- U.S. Diversity
- International Perspectives
- World Languages
- Communications
- Humanities

Mathematics and Statistics
Natural Sciences
Social Sciences

IOWA STATE UNIVERSITY
College of Liberal Arts and Sciences

www.las.iastate.edu

DISCOVER SUMMER ONLINE

Looking for things to do this summer? Head over to www.las.iastate.edu to learn more about our courses offered online!

University Plains Community Housing

By 2016 University Plains Housing in town

Pet friendly with on-call emergency service

Visit us at the Housing Fair for your entry into our drawing!!

Play Prize Pit at the 2016 University Plains Community Housing Fair for a $500 Best Gift card by April 1 for pre-fall housing fair.

Sign up for our wish list at www.las.iastate.edu/socialhousing

Visit us at the Housing Fair for your entry into our drawing!!

Play Prize Pit at the 2016 University Plains Community Housing Fair for a $500 Best Gift card by April 1 for pre-fall housing fair.

Sign up for our wish list at www.las.iastate.edu/socialhousing

Students can find the Housing Fair also has online-Rental

$1500 a month...

Note on Wish List Application Eligible: $1500 a month...

For a $500 Best Gift card by April 1 for pre-fall housing fair.

Come see us at the Student Housing Fair Saturday, April 1, 2017

From 11 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Child Support Awareness Project

\( \text{Sustainability p3} \)

For every $2 or more washable items people bring in, they receive an item of clothing in exchange.

Living sustainably does not just start and end at the Department of Community and Regional Planning. There are many steps we can take at home, in our cars and even on campus.

I feel like the more awareness we bring, the more people we help.

For the future, the organization hopes to get its name out there and become known across campus. "I hope this is the beginning of awareness and bringing in speakers, going out to theater groups, talking about stereotypes and much more.

These ideas include spreading suicide awareness by posting flags around campus with suicide statistics and an open mic night, "Hope and die" nights, or "Losing yourself," getting the discussion.

Obviously, no one wants to hear deporation, self-harm, addiction or other things. But on a research, "We don’t want that. But prevents us from interfering with them, that’s our job. You can’t just flip a switch."

Suicide is the second leading cause of death among youths between the ages 10 and 24. But many Extraordinary students may not be aware.

The most stressed is them to stop and help, try to cope and get help.

"I just want to help [people] who have been through similar things and let them know that there is help for them.

Laurelin Haas, who is an RN in the community and regional planning, said being sustainable isn’t just about the environment, but there are also other personal and physical benefits.

She said one thing students can do is take public transportation, talking or walking, and have their lunch in a reusable bag and supporting local vendors.

"Supporting local vendors is in an important aspect of social sustainability," Haas said. "Social sustainability is really about loving where you’re from, connecting you to important resources."

In fact, you’re going to be taking away a great experience and put more information about sustainability at ISU, in the community and the concept in general.