Cyclones’ comeback attempt falls short in 76-72 loss to No. 2 Kansas on ESPN’s Big Monday

By Brandon Ghazali #Iowastatedaily.com

Iowa State has struggled this season with its size. That’s not something that came as a shock. The Cyclones know they’re a small team.

Now, Iowa State’s four-footed lineup is effective at times, causing teams to adjust their defense. Deonte Burton, who plays as the team’s “center” a lot of the time, is only 6-foot-4.

The issue, mainly, came as a shock. The Cyclones season with its size.

“That’s the game right there,” said guard Naz Mitrou-Long, who finished the game with 18 points. “41 to 24. You can’t be out-rebounded 41-24 and have 52 of their 76 points in the paint.

“You lose the game.”

Money problems

“Personally I didn’t plan. Carlton did great,” Landen Lucas, who stands at 6-foot-10, finished with 14 points and six rebounds, going 7-of-9 from the field. Carlson Bragg Jr., also 6-foot-10, finished with 10 points, six rebounds, going 7-of-9 from the field.

“I think I did very well given the circumstances,” Bragg said. “I mean the way they were playing offense, playing defense. The way they were just knocking baskets.”

That lineup, he still has one more thing to work on.

“With more height,” said guard Monte Morris, “there’s people like me in those shirts with the teams who’ve been traveling with them all season.

Students who volunteered took their roles very seriously. They’d adopt costumes that matched of the team they were tasked with guiding through the competition.

In addition to the main competition, teams that won the Global Innovation Search at their respective regional First Lego League competitions also gave research presentations related to their year’s challenge theme, “animal allies.”

The presence of President Barack Obama’s health care law has been a subject of controversy ever since it was signed into law March 23, 2010.

The act, which was signed by President Obama on March 23, 2010, was a major piece of legislation designed to improve the health care system in the United States. The law aimed to reduce the number of uninsured Americans by expanding access to health care and making it more affordable.

The law includes several key provisions, such as requiring employers to offer health insurance to their employees, expanding Medicaid eligibility for low-income adults, and creating insurance exchanges where individuals and small businesses can shop for coverage.

The law also includes provisions to control the rising cost of health care, such as provisions for hospitals to reduce readmissions and for Medicare to negotiate drug prices. It also includes provisions to improve the quality of care, such as provisions to improve preventive care and to reduce medical errors.

The law has been controversial since its passage, with some arguing that it is too costly and others arguing that it is not doing enough to address the country’s health care problems.

Governor hopes to prevent disease in newborns

By Danielle Gehr
drawn@wamc.com

A leading cause of disabilities in children and a preventable virus more common than Down syndrome, Cytomegalovirus (CMV) is often overlooked by expectant mothers.

Gov. Andrew Cuomo signed a bill to attempt to prevent a preventable virus, more common than Down syndrome, cerebral palsy and seizures, in newborn children.

CMV is caused by a virus that is transmitted from person to person through the saliva, secretions or blood of infected people. Since there is no vaccine, the only way to prevent CMV is through avoiding contact with infected people. The main ways the virus spreads is through contact with infected saliva or blood. CMV can also be transmitted from person to person through baby formula or during childbirth.

3 takeaways from Iowa State's loss

By Luke Manderfield
@IOWAstateDaily

Iowa State (1.1.6.3. 3 Big 12) could not overcome its early deficit against No. 2 Kansas (17.1.6. 7 Big 12) on Monday night at ESPNU.

After a 4-8 lead with 15 minutes left in the first, the Cyclones never found the front again, ultimately falling 76-72 despite a hard-fought effort.

Here are three takeaways from the game:

1. Cyclones must outshine Illinois.

Cyclones' offensive specialist, point guard Deonte Burton, had a tally of 13 points in the first half and a total of 16. The Cyclones outscored Illinois' biggest clone every moment of the weekend at the Ames/ISU Ice Arena. The Cyclones racked up 97 shots on Illinois goaltender Mason's got the better of Mason on the shot chart, putting up 23 points, seven assists and four steals and had three rebounds but made a total of 30 attempts. Burton had 13 points of his 23, still need to score more goals. It's too scoring and getting into good habits. It was crucial for Iowa State to stay disciplined and not let the Cyclones affect its game plan.

“Not scoring and getting frustrated put our team in a bad position,” Burton said.

“Not scoring and getting frustrated put our team in a bad position, and that’s why we couldn’t take care of business,” Uglem said.

“We both chose to come here at the height of the season,” Burton said.

Fennelly said Campus Cycle already has had a wonderful energizing workout before Big Monday!!! Thanks so much!!”

ESPN's Holly Rowe tweeted, “Honored to help open @CampusCycleAmes

The Cyclone Hockey team put out a sweep at the hands of Illinois over the weekend at the Ames/ISU Ice Arena. The Cyclones lost the game four to one and the second 3-2.

There are three takeaways from the series:

1. Cyclones must overcome lackluster production.

Burton still figures to be a large part of that going forward.

A new business has opened near Iowa State's campus. It provides a place where people behind the business are new to Ames.

Burton still figures to be a large part of that going forward.

Iowa State's point guard Monte Morris attempts a 3-pointer against Kansas on Monday at Hilton Coliseum. Morris recorded 23 points, seven assists and seven rebounds in the 76-72 loss.

LEGO

In 1932, a 34-year-old Danish architect named Ole Kirk Christiansen had just a handful of employees working from a small workshop in Billund, Denmark. His main source of income was the sale of wooden toys and a series of homemade puzzles that he and his wife, Anna, had developed. With an idea to create a product more durable and colorful than the existing wooden toys, he began to experiment with the plastic and color in which he had a particular interest. The result was the first set of LEGO bricks, which he patented in 1940.

LEGO's success can be attributed to several key factors. First, the simplicity and versatility of their products allowed for almost endless creative possibilities. Each brick could be connected to others in various ways, forming complex structures or figures. Second, the company has been committed to innovation, regularly introducing new brick colors, shapes, and sets to capture the interest of children and adults alike. Third, LEGO has focused on the importance of play and education in the development of children's minds, aligning its products with the global push for early childhood education.

Today, LEGO is a global brand with sales in over 140 countries, featuring a wide range of products that cater to all ages, from toys and playsets to educational kits and严肃内容，the question which he asked signed. The thing that really stands out to me "is that the team really has been able to come together," said Provost. "I think any team that is going to be successful against the Big 12, they have that kind of depth. It's what we've said all season. It's what we've preached all season, and it's worked for us."

The Cyclones got off to a slow start against the Jayhawks, trailing 10-5 at the end of the first half. However, in the second half, they played a much better game, outscoring the Jayhawks by 33-29.

Iowa State finished the game with 111.4 decibels on its decibel meter, which was the highest measurement the university has ever recorded. The noise level was caused by a combination of factors, including the large student section and the close score throughout the game.

The loss drops the Cyclones to 12-11 in conference play and 19-14 overall. They will look to improve their record as they prepare for their next game against Oklahoma State on Saturday.

while Burton and Mitrou-Long, who have been consistent for most of the season, were held scoreless for most of the game. Deonte Burton was the only Cyclone to score at least 15 points, finishing with 18 points on 5-of-12 shooting.

The Cyclones will look to bounce back in their next game against Missouri on Saturday. They will need to improve their defense and rebounding to have a chance at a victory. Otherwise, they risk falling further in the Big 12 standings.
