February 2003

Top Seven Signs You've Just Challenged Cael Sanderson to a Bar Fight

Paul Kix

Iowa State University

Follow this and additional works at: http://lib.dr.iastate.edu/ethos

Recommended Citation
Available at: http://lib.dr.iastate.edu/ethos/vol2003/iss3/3

This Article is brought to you for free and open access by the Student Publications at Iowa State University Digital Repository. It has been accepted for inclusion in Ethos by an authorized editor of Iowa State University Digital Repository. For more information, please contact digirep@iastate.edu.
Top Seven Signs You've Just Challenged Cael Sanderson to a Bar Fight

7. Between swigs of ale, he bounces on the balls of his feet and rolls his neck.
6. He's bigger than you.
5. Your joke, "Aside from cauliflower ears, what other body part looks like a shrunken vegetable?" does not settle well with him.
4. He's wearing Asics.
3. He uses terms like "high crotch" earnestly; never in a joke about three blonds, a rabbi and a car muffler.
2. When he's not drinking or bouncing on his feet, a small, overly muscular man is forever rubbing Cael's shoulders and whispering into his ear.
1. You say, "Let's do this, punk!" and break your bottle over the bar. He, in response, gets on all fours and stares straight ahead.

by Paul Kix

Illustrations by NATHAN THRAILLKELL

Top Seven Signs You're Now Losing to Cael Sanderson in a Bar Fight

7. What appears to be your knee is touching your spine.
6. Wrestling head coach Bobby Douglas is in the corner, coaching only sporadically.
5. You've lost your voice yelling "Uncle!"
4. Your eyes have never had this sort of access to your armpits before.
3. You haven't heard something snap in what — three seconds now?
2. You can't feel your toes.
1. Make that your legs.