Updates on the latest crop production products and recommendations are the featured topics at meetings sponsored by Iowa State University Extension and Outreach in Iowa City on November 25 and Ames, Iowa on December 10, 2014.

These meetings are an excellent opportunity for agricultural input providers to meet with Extension specialists to review current research, discuss new products, and learn of new recommendations.

Each location will feature presentations on weed, insect, and crop disease management as well as soil nutrient management. Meetings are approved for 6.5 Certified Crop Adviser (CCA) credits. In addition, the meetings offer Iowa Commercial Pesticide Applicator recertification in categories 1A, 1B, 1C and 10. Recertification is included in meeting registration. Attendance at the entire meeting is required for recertification.

Early registration is $70 if received by midnight, November 19 (Iowa City) or December 4 (Ames). Late or on-site registration is $85. Visit www.aep.iastate.edu/acu for program details or to register online. For additional information contact an ISU Extension field agronomist hosting the meeting.
