unfamiliar and expensive and thus might be easy to pass by. The Amsterdam Concertgebouw sounds forbidding and perhaps the inexperienced and broke of pocket book would not be likely to try this great orchestra. The purpose of the Lottery is to give two people free tickets while simultaneously reminding several dozen others that an event worth experiencing is at hand.

After eight years of watching the Larsen Arts Lottery I can say that I am glad that I had Skipper Larsen as a model when I was a student and that Iowa Staters had C.Y. Stephens as a fellow alumnus. It's Stephens' statement that you can read in the Auditorium named for him the next time you are there:

"I would have liked to write a fine poem or a great book or possibly made a worthy discovery in science but since all of these accomplishments have been denied me I shall use my ability to accumulate money in such a manner as to make it possible to train many others to do the things I would have done."

Perhaps the Lottery is a small memorial to two ordinary men who had an extraordinary perception of what is important. ■

FORESTRY CLUB

by Maureen Connolly

During the 1983-84 school year, forestry club members were involved in a number of activities. October was Conclave month. Fall Forester's Day took place at Iden Farm, providing practice time for Conclave hopefuls. Sharon Baas, Janel Peterson, Dora Schrod, and Barbara Zylstra represented Iowa State University at the Midwest Conclave, held at the University of Illinois in late October. We finished twelfth out of twelve schools and received the booby prize — a toy chain saw.

Additional activities occurred early in the fall semester. A firewood cut at Saylorville Lake in September was sponsored by the Club and the SAF Student Chapter. Reinee Hildebrandt organized volunteers to help with old time logger events and educational displays for Scout Day at Adventureland Park. Sixteen members enjoyed a club-sponsored canoe trip down the Des Moines River between Holst State Forest and Ledges State Park.

Activities for the rest of the year included an appearance on the Floppy show to promote the annual Christmas tree sales, fire-sides at professors' homes for talk and munchies, a t-shirt design contest, the Game Banquet, and work on VEISHEA displays.
