SAF Groundhog Day Racquetball Tournament

Meg Sweeney with Mr. Groundhog Racquetball 2003: Spencer Wicks

Joe Herring-loves racquetball, loves groundhogs.

The Society of American Foresters held the first annual Groundhog Day racquetball tournament on February 2nd at Beyer Hall. Despite the bad news that Punxsutawney Phil saw his shadow (a sure sign of six more weeks of winter), a considerable amount of talent was displayed as each player went head-to-head for the championship. The whole tournament lasted four hours and many beads of sweat were shed.

Both students and faculty participated in the fun. The faculty members were Dr. Rick Hall and Dr. Steven Jungst, and the students that participated were: Joe Herring, Lydia Brawner, Megan Sweeney, Spencer Wicks, and Nicky Webb as "photographer." In the end, only one man was left standing, and he was Spencer Wicks. Congratulations to Spencer for earning the title of 2003 Groundhog Day Racquetball Tournament Champion, and thanks to all who participated in the event.
