With the coming of another summer it seems the time to celebrate past joys, just in case well you know...

With the coming of another summer it seems the time to celebrate past joys, just in case well you know . . .

by John T. Mellors

The sky (chuckling)
Diving madly (laughing)
Tilting
Beneath our bellies, heads, knees
As we stood staggering,
Staggering, laughing

(Consumed by joy
Strong as our young bodies)
In the grass
Laughing
We rolled down slopes
Arms flopping
