Grads Gain Goals

By Faithe Danielson

Now that vacations are over the thoughts of many people have turned to work. All colleges and schools throughout the United States have begun with increased enrollments, and many demands have come for Iowa State graduates.

Placements from the Child Development Department are: Irene Liebig, M.S. '36, Ellendale Normal and Industrial School, Ellendale, South Dakota; Ula Purefoy, M.S. '36, Dell Nursery School, Des Moines; Evalyn Erwin, '34, graduate assistant, Univ. of Tenn., Knoxville; Lucille Manchester, '36, Emergency Nursery School, Des Moines; Louise Pattengill, '36, Convalescent Home operated by the Junior League, Des Moines.

Most of the Foods and Nutrition grads are also busy. Vera Tiede, '34, is dietitian in the Tubercular Sanitarium, Northville, Michigan; Helen Wellman, M.S. '36, teaches and has charge of the cafeteria in the Whitehall, Montana School, Ellendale, South Dakota; Elizabeth Rogosheski, M.S. '36, is on the staff at Purdue University, Lafayette, Ind.; Ruth Blanshan, '21, M.S. '28, has filled a vacancy in the Foods and Nutrition Department, Ohio State Univ., Columbus; Nellie DeKalb, '35, is completing training at Beth Israel Hospital, Newark, N.J., and has accepted a position as dietitian at St. Joseph's Hospital, Lewiston, Montana; Edda Mason, '19, is employed as dietitian by the Board of National Missions, at Santa Fe, N. Mex.

Virginia Smith, '35, completed training at Walter Reed Hospital, Washington, D. C., and has accepted a position as dietitian at the Savery Hotel in Des Moines; Claribel Albright, '34, who majored in Foods Chemistry, completed her work for her master's degree this summer at Chicago University and is now employed by the Quaker Oats Company, St. Joseph, Mo.

The graduates choosing Home Economics Education for their major have all been placed; in fact, many more could have been used in this field.

Delta Neuman, M.S. '36, has been placed as assistant teacher trainer, Texas State College for Women, Denton, Texas. Other placements are as follows: Gladys Olson, '26, M.S. '36, Des Moines Public Schools; Eileen Flinspach, M.S.
