Nineteen eighty-nine was year of change for the College of Veterinary Medicine at Iowa State University. Dr. Philip Pearson resigned as Dean and returned to teaching, research, and service duties in the Department of Veterinary Clinical Sciences. Dr. Oscar Fletcher from the College of Veterinary Medicine at the University of Georgia assumed the duties of Dean of the College effective July 1. Dean Fletcher has attended many national, state and local functions since that time and has actively supported the alumni and outreach programs of the College.

The Iowa State University Veterinary Medical Alumni Association had a membership of 1680 on December 31, 1989. For the past several years, the association has actively pursued a program of outreach to graduates throughout the country. One of the main formats has been hosting of alumni receptions sponsored at the American Animal Hospital Association, Western States Veterinary Medical Association, Eastern States Veterinary Medical Association, and the American Veterinary Medical Association. These receptions give alumni a chance to meet colleagues from across the country, and to visit with faculty and administrators from the College.

Homecoming is still one of the largest events that ISUVMAA sponsors. With help from the Student Chapter of the AVMA and the Student Chapter Auxiliary, this event has been a successful celebration every year. Several classes use Homecoming as an opportunity for reunions. ISUVMAA assists these classes in arranging homecoming reunion events.

Each spring during Alumni Days, ISUVMAA sponsors the annual Veterinary Medicine Awards banquet, honoring recipients of the Stange Award for meritorious Service in Veterinary Medicine. In 1989 Dr. Murray Fowler, Davis California; Dr. Roy Schultz, Avoca, Iowa, and Dr. Gary VanGelder, Houston, Texas, received the prestigious Stange Award. Faculty and staff who received other awards throughout the year were also recognized at this banquet. The association presented the ISUVMAA Scholarship Award to Kevin Spellman and the Gentle Doctor Award to Kathleen Berge.

The 1990 recipient of the Outstanding Service Award was presented to Dr. William Hoefle, Veterinary Clinical Sciences, at the annual meeting and luncheon held in conjunction with the annual meeting of the Iowa Veterinary Medical Association. The award, initiated four years ago by ISUVMAA, is presented to faculty of the College of Veterinary Medicine who have demonstrated outstanding service to their colleagues, the profession, and the College. Previous recipients of the award were Dr. Paul Eness in 1986, Dr. Lorraine Hoffman in 1987, Dr. Robert Carithers in 1988, and Dr. George Daniels in 1989. The Outstanding Service Award includes a cash award of $1000 from the Alumni Association.
