

Sketch

Volume 66, Number 2

2002

Article 4

Generation 90s

Denise Kamm*

*Iowa State University

Copyright ©2002 by the authors. Sketch is produced by The Berkeley Electronic Press (bepress).
<http://lib.dr.iastate.edu/sketch>

Generation 90s

By Denise Kamm

I

We were all happy. All of us.
Except the Republicans.
Who turned green with the thoughts of their
Rival Democrats getting blow jobs in the Oval Office.

Oh Bill Clinton, you changed our world.
You made our dollars stretch
So we could afford the luxuries
All Americans were supposed to have.

You played your sexy saxophone,
And flaunted your red, white and blue,
While we drank, smoked, and fornicated freely.
Thank you for the freedom! It was sinfully great!

II

We were all happy. All of us.
Except Nicole Simpson and Ronald Goldman
Who bled to death at the hands of a football superstar
Who showed us celebrities can get away with murder.

Oh OJ Simpson, you changed our world.
You made our minds stretch
So we could understand you were not at the crime scene
And Fuhrman was just a keystone cop.

You played and repeated your sob story
And showed us your black skin
Was the whole reason we wrongly thought you had killed
Thank you for the trial of the century. Have fun golfing.