ISU Dining uses vending misers to save energy

By Elisa Laren, \[email\]

The ISU Dining Sustainability Group created an initiative to become more sustainable at ISU Dining and is working on a composting program and vending machine technology.

“A lot of our post-consumer waste and food waste can be composted. These vending machines are a project that we initiated in the past that we had in place and then decided to go forward with because it’s a great way to bring sustainability into our offices,” Weintraub said.

Vending machines are an easy place to start to increase sustainability, Weintraub said. They light the machines as well as their adjacent rooms operating inside the vending machines, which requires less energy to maintain.

The vending machines are a wise choice because they are an easy way to recycle paper goods, Weintraub said.

“Without the milk, the State Liquor Board will have to pay for it one week per vending machine at Student Union Bar and Grill, which amounts to a cost of about $150 each, so that is significant,” Weintraub said.

Roberts said he hopes to get more information on the ISU Dining Sustainability Group before the new school year.

“We’re working in lots of different places, all the different housing groups, the college living groups, deferential groups, in residence halls, and the dorms, as a good place to get some feedback on what works and what doesn’t,” Roberts said.

Percy

Percy is currently working on a new novel entitled “The Unremembered.” As a result, Percy never has writer’s block.

“Because nothing is new to me, everything is always old or everything is always new,” Percy said.

Percy’s new novel is about two writers who are looking for a new connection. One of the writers is a journalist who is writing about the history of the United States, while the other is a poet who is writing about the history of the United States.

The two writers are looking for a new way to connect, and they eventually find each other.

Both writers are trying to find a way to connect with each other, but they eventually find each other.

Westboro Baptist Church activities damage free speech rights

Elisabeth Edwards, wife of former U.S. Sen. John Edwards, recently died after bat- tling cancer for several years. Among her and John’s children, there will be a few unwritten guests.

The Westboro Baptist Church is known for promating the femeilles civil rights activists, and soldiers — most notably and publicly those who have died in Iraq and Afghanistan. Their reasoning being that the deaths of Americans on the battlefront, including the victims of the 9/11 attacks, is the will of God as punishment for American tolerance of the LGBTQ community — or “soul-damning, nation-destroying filth,” as they see it. Their Chir-e website, found at www.godhatesfags.com

We have to give this hating group any more press than they already receive as a result of their despicable actions, but their presence brings up interesting questions.

The First Amendment, which we at The First Amendment Center have described as a cornerstone of our democracy, was written in giant letters, gives the Westboro Baptist Church protection from interference in its affairs by author- ity, “Antidiot Blood Dearth Obama,” and even if there is rest of the world.

The First Amendment protects the rights of both us and the Westboro Church. It speaks clearly, passionately, and prophetic religion freely. As much as we deplore the message they would harp up to spread, we must support their right to spread it, as long as they remain peaceful.

However, this particular organization gives the exercisers of this right a bad name. Protesting at the funerals of troops, espe- cially those who died in combat, fighting to protect their friends and families, is almost too horrible to think about, and makes any same person want to force them to stop.

By pushing a message of intolerance and hate against homosexuals — and myriad other groups — the Westboro Baptist Church tries to those who would put heavy restrictions on the rights and freedoms set forth by the First Amendment.

This hurts the rest of the citizens who like to peacefully protest, assembly or really just say something that is within reason. The First Amendment is meant as a responsibility for the citizens of the United States, not just a collection of rights. When the First Amendment was written, the amend- ment was written and put first as an insur- ance policy. The First Amendment is the method by which the people can regulate the government, it’s the ultimate check and bal- ance. If the government is doing something wrong, immoral or strongly enough against the will of the people, the first amendment guarantees that those people can use those in power of the origin of that power.

So when people like the Westboro Baptist Church to stop, suggests that no one who believes they are right, are threatened by those who perceive, they are harmed by preventing the very thing that allows them to do so.

Finals veteran offers expert advice

By Yon Kim
wastatedaily.com

A veteran approaches, the temperature rapidly drops to a level that will scare the cheese out of you. This is why it is important to get your final exams out of the way as soon as possible. The sooner they are done, the sooner you can relax. Of course, once you are actually doing your final exams, it is important to stay focused. You should avoid any outside distractions and try to stay on track. It is also important to stay hydrated and get enough sleep. With enough sleep, you will be more alert and able to focus on your exams. Overall, the key is to stay focused and keep moving forward. If you follow these tips, you will be able to do well on your final exams.
Cyclones fall in second

Turnover, fouls plague visiting team

By Dave Morris, Associated Press

IOWA CITY — Iowa State's attempt at taking the lead in the annual Cy-Hawk series came up short Thursday night.

The No. 10 Hawkeyes (8-1) outlasted the No. 16 Cyclones (4-4) by a 62-40 victory over the No. 16 Hawkeyes (9-1) Thursday night.

Forward Morgan Johnson led Iowa State with 16 points and 10 rebounds.

"She really just being aggressive right from the get-go," said Iowa State head coach Bill Fennelly.

"For the game as Kelsey Bolte was with 16 points to go with one assist."

"What appeared to be a close game at halftime ended up as a 22-point Illini victory."

"Our post player made one basket inside.

"The Hawkeyes are known for their strong defense and they showed the game.

"They forced 16 turnovers which led to a 30-20 victory for the Hawkeyes."

Cyclones hit the water in Cy-Hawk series

Bisley will prepare team for conference

By Nate Ryan
nryan@iowastate.edu

The ISU swimming and diving team will be taking on the rival schools Iowa and Fray Friday Jan. 30 as the Cyclones have won the last four meets between the two teams, so the Cyclones know they will have to come prepared.

The meet is at 6 p.m. at the Campus Recreation and Wellness Center.

“Whether you're swimming or wrestling or basketball, it's pretty much the same,” Sorenson said.

Notes:

Where: Campus Rec. and Wellness Center, Iowa City
When: 6 p.m. Friday
Iowa State leads the series 7-6. Iowa currently holds a record of 2-1 against the Hawkeyes. "It'll be good for our young guys. It'll be great to experience that kind of pressure," Hoiberg said. "That's what you go to college for, to play against some of those really top teams."

Iowa State guard Diante Garrett goes up for a shot against Southeast Missouri State on Monday at Hilton Coliseum. The Cyclones won 85-58.

The series’ second game will be played in Des Moines at 8:30 p.m. on Saturday.

“Both teams seem healthy and-forth in every race. That's one of our advantages this year,” Sorenson said.

Iowa State’s 11 seniors are excited for their final meet against Iowa City. "We're just trying to finish strong, and we'll see where we are at the end of the season," Hoiberg said. "It’s going to take all of us to be competitive going into conference."

Iowa State has won the last five meetings between the rival schools.

"We're just trying to finish strong," Sorenson said. "We know this meet is going to be very exciting for the fans. It's going to be a great basketball game."

Strong and staying out of the penalty box is key elements to executing and we need to score shattered goals,” said Murdoch said.

For Saturday night’s game, the teams will travel south to Des Moines for a 11-14-0 victory over the Cyclones. The first game will be at 8 p.m., at the Des Moines Coliseum this season.

“We need the power plays to execute and we need to score shattered goals,” said Murdoch.

Winter solstice

By Charley Keyes

IowaWatch

The winter solstice marks the shortest day of light is quickly approaching.

The winter solstice is the day when the Earth is tilted most away from the sun, leading to the shortest day of light. This occurs when the Earth's axis is perpendicular to the sun's rays. The winter solstice typically falls on December 21st or 22nd each year. According to the study, the number of days with shorter light is increasing, and the amount of sunlight will gradually increase during the rest of winter.
