Republican presidential candidate Rick Santorum met with a community member during the 2011 Iowa Straw Poll on Aug. 13 at Hilton Coliseum. Minnesota Rep. Michele Bachmann won the Iowa Straw Poll with 4,823 votes. Texas Rep. Ron Paul came in second with 4,671 votes. Former Minnesota Gov. Tim Pawlenty came in third but abandoned his bid for the GOP presidential nomination the day after the Iowa Straw Poll. The poll was just the start of a long campaign process for Republicans.

Supporters petitioned for their preferred candidates on Aug. 13 outside Hilton Coliseum before voting began at the 2011 Iowa Straw Poll.

Incoming students packed inside Hilton Coliseum for the Destination Iowa State Kick-Off event on Aug. 18. The incoming freshman class for fall 2011 was the largest class recorded in ISU history.

The Move-In Crew volunteers helped fellow students move into Wilson Hall on Aug. 17. Iowa State welcomed a record-breaking 29,887 total students in fall 2011, an increase of 1,205 from the previous year. The number of students doubled over an eight-year period, with some students moving into the residence hall’s dens.

The record-breaking number of students in the fall 2011 incoming freshman class flooded residence halls with boxes upon boxes of belongings. Even with the overflow, most students were able to move into a standard dorm room.

ISU athletics gets national attention

Memorable moments make a successful year

By Jeremiah Davis

The 2011-2012 year for ISU sports unrolled into a success for the student-athletes, coaches, athletic department, facilities equipment for its athletic department has come of age under Fred [Hoiberg]. It was a monumental year for the athletic department and the students. The 2011-2012 year for ISU sports will forever be known as the year of the upset.

Pollard chuckled briefly when asked the biggest moment to capture this year, saying there was no question about it. “I think it was the win against Nebraska and the upset in the NCAA Tournament for the sixth ISU program to advance to the Final Four.”

Pollard said it was the year the student-athletes and coaches turned into a team. “I think it was the year that Pollard mentioned that the ISU fans got to see a monumental upset unfold in Jack Trice Stadium on Nov. 18. In the game, Iowa State defeated Oklahoma State 37-31 in double overtime. Prior to the game, Iowa State had never beaten a top-five team. The game’s outcome raised Iowa State’s chances of playing in the BCS National Championship and put the national spotlight on Iowa State.

The OSU win may have been the biggest, but a second achievement in a season full of them. In addition to that win, the ISU sports saw milestones and wins that made Pollard mention those as the biggest and most memorable moments — perhaps in the history of ISU sports.

The volleyball team returned to the NCAA Tournament for the sixth time in five years, the men’s basketball team reached the Elite Eight for the second time in five years, the women’s basketball team returned to the NCAA Tournament for the sixth straight season, the wrestling team returned to the NCAA Tournament for the third straight season, and the women’s cross-country team returned to the NCAA Championships.

The 2011-2012 year for ISU athletics was marked by success at every level, again leading the way in wrestling, football, volleyball, basketball, cross-country, and track and field. ISU sports saw milestones and wins that made Pollard mention those as the biggest and most memorable moments — perhaps in the history of ISU sports.

Pollard mentioned that success is clearly one of the best years of ISU sports history. The athletic director said that success is the biggest and most memorable moment — perhaps in the history of ISU sports.

Former Pennsylvania Sen. Rick Santorum, Republican presidential candidate, thanked his family and supporters during his Iowa caucuses after-party on Jan. 3 at Stoney Creek Inn in Johnston, Iowa. Santorum thanked supporters by saying that former Pennsylvania Sen. Rick Santorum had won by eight votes. However, Iowa GOP announced two weeks later that Santorum had actually lost the caucuses by 20 votes.

Jenna Miller, left, and Stephen Kuster, both of Ames, consulted a map of Ames voting precincts in order to determine which caucus to attend on Jan. 3 at Ames Middle School. Typical Iowa Caucus attendees arrive at their caucus site prepared to vote. A transit map of the Ames voting precincts was available to voters and included stopping points for each polling place. Voters then proceeded to the proper precinct to register and receive their ballots. After the ballots were completed, voters turned in their ballots to an official who counted the votes and announced the results.

Bruce Getz, a 7-year-old from Urbandale, Iowa, held up a Rick Santorum sign while waiting for the presidential hopeful to show up at his caucus party on Jan. 3 in Des Moines.

Wow, we don’t often get them like THIS in the Midwest!...which is why these girls are from Texas. Raths! Lezlie Alcaraz, Stacey Dansby, Michael Petersen, Shaina Alizadeh, Taylor Cannon and Ashley Cooper - Owner of Five 1 Fifth.

Alex Davis, Kelechi Osemele and Alexa Barkley - Showing K.O. some love for VEISHEA at CY’s Roost.

Style props to you, sir! Nightlife is digging the style of Ter’Ran Benton - Rockin’ the mic at CY’S Roost.

Is that the lead singer of Offspring?  Nope  - it’s just Peter Kessel, looking pretty fly for a white guy at Paddy’s with Katie Jensen, Johnna Bonnell, and Michelle Graeve.

Sun Drop? Girls, don’t you know it’s VEISHEA!? Tia Mays, Amber Haritos, Shayla McDougal, and Jessica Avant stick to a good old fashioned caffeine buzz.

Darnell Murph Williams and Nightlife photographer, Christine DeCoudreaux – it’s a rough job but someone’s got to do it! P .S. Liking like a boy band whose poster this captioner would definitely hang on her bedroom wall! – with Joey Bessard, Noah Wilke, Anthony Adkins, Colin Bolhous, and Chris Kelley at Cafe’ Mood.

One pitcher, two pitcher, three pitcher, FLOOR! - with Dan Feekes, Shannon Judas, Brittany McPadden, Kavana Seemann, Jordan Olsen, and Slavynn Roxenbaum at Cy’s Roost.

Remember before Axe body spray there were the “Bod” cologne advertisements? Well we’re pretty sure this was the cast, and indeed we do ‘want their bod’!  With Twon Moore, Rashawn Parker, James Smith, and Carlos Brown - Former football players at Lost & Found.

As my grandmother says, “Beauty is pain” – just look at those heels! You GO Jessica Vong and Emily Evans.

Quality 7! sunflower seeds and a facade are just Schumann’s and Aardvark’s front man – representing the “sunny” look at Outlaws.

Missing only a shotgun and a lasso are Josh Schwickerath and Marshall Wernimont - Holdin’ the “country” look at Outlaws.
