Students encouraged to vote now more than ever in 2014 midterm elections

By Sarah Muller
Iowastatedaily.com

Students encouraged to vote now more than ever in 2014 midterm elections

"Students are encouraged to vote now more than ever in 2014 midterm elections," said Jonathon Laudner, ISU Republicans president.

"We have been getting students engaged to vote online, reaching out into the digital realm," said Jonathan Launder, ISU Republicans president. "We want there to have been as much interest this year as there was in 2012 because especially isn't a presidential election year. "We're hoping to get everyone to make sure they get involved with events and the voting process," Launder said.

"If it is something that is just audio, then it may help make sure they get all of the wording that aren't international students. "Students can pair their dictionary information and bring their DV with an expression date if they did not already register to vote before Election Day," Kuzner said.

Kuzner said there is a lot of passion in a single vote, especially in Iowa. This is a battleground state, every vote is worth a lot, she said.

"We have been getting students registered to vote online, reaching out into the digital realm," said Jonathan Laudner, ISU Republicans president. "We want there to have been as much interest this year as there was in 2012 because especially isn't a presidential election year. "We're hoping to get everyone to make sure they get involved with events and the voting process," Launder said.

"If it is something that is just audio, then it may help make sure they get all of the wording that aren't international students. "Students can pair their dictionary information and bring their DV with an expression date if they did not already register to vote before Election Day," Kuzner said.
Weather

TUESDAY

Sunshiny throughout the day.

Temperature

54
39
56
36
45
31

The information on the page cannot be used for any purpose without express written permission. All rights reserved.

IOWA STATE DAILY
CAMPUS BRIEF

#CyVotes14

Tuesday, Nov. 4, 2014

Online Content

Volleyball

ISU struggles in third set against Texas

The 15-3 volleyball team lost toTexas 3-2 last weekend. But the Cyclones now head to No. 5 in the country at theNo. 8 University of Texas and toIowa State’s standing in the Big 12 conference’s power rankings.

Volleyball

More than one for the second-straight time, as third set was an indicator of the outcome of a match. That remained true for Iowa State on Nov. 5 whenNo. 8Texas earned the Cyclones’ third loss of the season.

The Student Union Board is sponsoring this event. Doors are scheduled to open at 7 p.m. and the concert will begin at 8 p.m. To obtain more information go to uacis.iastate.edu or call 515-294-8081.

Thomas Pollard commits to ISU cross country team

Thomas Pollard, son of ISU Athletic Director, Bryan Pollard, and former Cyclone runner, will be joining Martin Trappe, Andrew Beardslee, and field and cross country coach, the Cyclones next season. He had previously attended the University of Wisconsin where he was a member of the varsity track and cross country team. He will be the Cyclones’ first recruit from Wisconsin and their second freshman on the roster.

The Iowa State Daily is not responsible for any errors that warrant correction. Comments and suggestions can be sent to newsroom@iowastatedaily.com. To submit a correction, please email newsroom@iowastatedaily.com.

Weather

TUESDAY

Sunshiny throughout the day.

Temperature

54
39
56
36
45
31

The information on the page cannot be used for any purpose without express written permission. All rights reserved.

IOWA STATE DAILY
CAMPUS BRIEF

#CyVotes14

Tuesday, Nov. 4, 2014

Online Content

Volleyball

ISU struggles in third set against Texas

The 15-3 volleyball team lost toTexas 3-2 last weekend. But the Cyclones now head to No. 5 in the country at theNo. 8 University of Texas and toIowa State’s standing in the Big 12 conference’s power rankings.

Volleyball

More than one for the second-straight time, as third set was an indicator of the outcome of a match. That remained true for Iowa State on Nov. 5 whenNo. 8Texas earned the Cyclones’ third loss of the season.

The Student Union Board is sponsoring this event. Doors are scheduled to open at 7 p.m. and the concert will begin at 8 p.m. To obtain more information go to uacis.iastate.edu or call 515-294-8081.

Thomas Pollard commits to ISU cross country team

Thomas Pollard, son of ISU Athletic Director, Bryan Pollard, and former Cyclone runner, will be joining Martin Trappe, Andrew Beardslee, and field and cross country coach, the Cyclones next season. He had previously attended the University of Wisconsin where he was a member of the varsity track and cross country team. He will be the Cyclones’ first recruit from Wisconsin and their second freshman on the roster.

The Iowa State Daily is not responsible for any errors that warrant correction. Comments and suggestions can be sent to newsroom@iowastatedaily.com. To submit a correction, please email newsroom@iowastatedaily.com.

Weather

TUESDAY

Sunshiny throughout the day.

Temperature

54
39
56
36
45
31

The information on the page cannot be used for any purpose without express written permission. All rights reserved.

IOWA STATE DAILY
CAMPUS BRIEF

#CyVotes14

Tuesday, Nov. 4, 2014

Online Content

Volleyball

ISU struggles in third set against Texas

The 15-3 volleyball team lost toTexas 3-2 last weekend. But the Cyclones now head to No. 5 in the country at theNo. 8 University of Texas and toIowa State’s standing in the Big 12 conference’s power rankings.

Volleyball

More than one for the second-straight time, as third set was an indicator of the outcome of a match. That remained true for Iowa State on Nov. 5 whenNo. 8Texas earned the Cyclones’ third loss of the season.

The Student Union Board is sponsoring this event. Doors are scheduled to open at 7 p.m. and the concert will begin at 8 p.m. To obtain more information go to uacis.iastate.edu or call 515-294-8081.

Thomas Pollard commits to ISU cross country team

Thomas Pollard, son of ISU Athletic Director, Bryan Pollard, and former Cyclone runner, will be joining Martin Trappe, Andrew Beardslee, and field and cross country coach, the Cyclones next season. He had previously attended the University of Wisconsin where he was a member of the varsity track and cross country team. He will be the Cyclones’ first recruit from Wisconsin and their second freshman on the roster.

The Iowa State Daily is not responsible for any errors that warrant correction. Comments and suggestions can be sent to newsroom@iowastatedaily.com. To submit a correction, please email newsroom@iowastatedaily.com.

Weather

TUESDAY

Sunshiny throughout the day.

Temperature

54
39
56
36
45
31

The information on the page cannot be used for any purpose without express written permission. All rights reserved.

IOWA STATE DAILY
CAMPUS BRIEF

#CyVotes14

Tuesday, Nov. 4, 2014

Online Content

Volleyball

ISU struggles in third set against Texas

The 15-3 volleyball team lost toTexas 3-2 last weekend. But the Cyclones now head to No. 5 in the country at theNo. 8 University of Texas and toIowa State’s standing in the Big 12 conference’s power rankings.

Volleyball

More than one for the second-straight time, as third set was an indicator of the outcome of a match. That remained true for Iowa State on Nov. 5 whenNo. 8Texas earned the Cyclones’ third loss of the season.

The Student Union Board is sponsoring this event. Doors are scheduled to open at 7 p.m. and the concert will begin at 8 p.m. To obtain more information go to uacis.iastate.edu or call 515-294-8081.

Thomas Pollard commits to ISU cross country team

Thomas Pollard, son of ISU Athletic Director, Bryan Pollard, and former Cyclone runner, will be joining Martin Trappe, Andrew Beardslee, and field and cross country coach, the Cyclones next season. He had previously attended the University of Wisconsin where he was a member of the varsity track and cross country team. He will be the Cyclones’ first recruit from Wisconsin and their second freshman on the roster.

The Iowa State Daily is not responsible for any errors that warrant correction. Comments and suggestions can be sent to newsroom@iowastatedaily.com. To submit a correction, please email newsroom@iowastatedaily.com.

Weather

TUESDAY

Sunshiny throughout the day.

Temperature

54
39
56
36
45
31

The information on the page cannot be used for any purpose without express written permission. All rights reserved.

IOWA STATE DAILY
CAMPUS BRIEF

#CyVotes14

Tuesday, Nov. 4, 2014

Online Content

Volleyball

ISU struggles in third set against Texas

The 15-3 volleyball team lost toTexas 3-2 last weekend. But the Cyclones now head to No. 5 in the country at theNo. 8 University of Texas and toIowa State’s standing in the Big 12 conference’s power rankings.

Volleyball

More than one for the second-straight time, as third set was an indicator of the outcome of a match. That remained true for Iowa State on Nov. 5 whenNo. 8Texas earned the Cyclones’ third loss of the season.

The Student Union Board is sponsoring this event. Doors are scheduled to open at 7 p.m. and the concert will begin at 8 p.m. To obtain more information go to uacis.iastate.edu or call 515-294-8081.

Thomas Pollard commits to ISU cross country team

Thomas Pollard, son of ISU Athletic Director, Bryan Pollard, and former Cyclone runner, will be joining Martin Trappe, Andrew Beardslee, and field and cross country coach, the Cyclones next season. He had previously attended the University of Wisconsin where he was a member of the varsity track and cross country team. He will be the Cyclones’ first recruit from Wisconsin and their second freshman on the roster.

The Iowa State Daily is not responsible for any errors that warrant correction. Comments and suggestions can be sent to newsroom@iowastatedaily.com. To submit a correction, please email newsroom@iowastatedaily.com.

Weather

TUESDAY

Sunshiny throughout the day.

Temperature

54
39
56
36
45
31

The information on the page cannot be used for any purpose without express written permission. All rights reserved.

IOWA STATE DAILY
CAMPUS BRIEF

#CyVotes14

Tuesday, Nov. 4, 2014

Online Content

Volleyball

ISU struggles in third set against Texas

The 15-3 volleyball team lost toTexas 3-2 last weekend. But the Cyclones now head to No. 5 in the country at theNo. 8 University of Texas and toIowa State’s standing in the Big 12 conference’s power rankings.

Volleyball

More than one for the second-straight time, as third set was an indicator of the outcome of a match. That remained true for Iowa State on Nov. 5 whenNo. 8Texas earned the Cyclones’ third loss of the season.

The Student Union Board is sponsoring this event. Doors are scheduled to open at 7 p.m. and the concert will begin at 8 p.m. To obtain more information go to uacis.iastate.edu or call 515-294-8081.

Thomas Pollard commits to ISU cross country team

Thomas Pollard, son of ISU Athletic Director, Bryan Pollard, and former Cyclone runner, will be joining Martin Trappe, Andrew Beardslee, and field and cross country coach, the Cyclones next season. He had previously attended the University of Wisconsin where he was a member of the varsity track and cross country team. He will be the Cyclones’ first recruit from Wisconsin and their second freshman on the roster.

The Iowa State Daily is not responsible for any errors that warrant correction. Comments and suggestions can be sent to newsroom@iowastatedaily.com. To submit a correction, please email newsroom@iowastatedaily.com.
Joni Ernst visits Iowa State, attracts protestors

By Makayla Tendall
@Iowastatedaily.com

As Joni Ernst began to speak at Alpha Gamma Rho Fraternity at Iowa State on Monday, protestors scattered across the room stood up and began to yell. "People in, money out!" Ernst came to the stage, which was her last stop on her 24-hour tour across Iowa before election day. As a mix of activists and Story County residents began to shout over Ernst, attendees of the rally ushered them out the door, clapping and chanting, "Jim."

"I see worse fora in the U.S." Ernst laughed as she continued her speech.

Protestors stood in the public sidewalk outside the fraternity for the remainder of Ernst’s speech.

Jonathan Lauder, president of ISU College Republicans, said he thought the protestors were not representing their constituents in their best interest.

"The protestors at an event, that's not an uncommon thing. But to come inside private property of somebody who's hosting an event, it's completely disrespectful," Lauder said. "It's completely out-of-order. They are accomplishing nothing, making fools of themselves and proving their point. They need to do that somewhere else and do it in a way that's productive and done with proper legal means."

On Sept. 28, Jari Tenbrook said they would like to see the protestors have a map of all gender-neutral restrooms on campus.

"Neutral restrooms is something that could impact someone's human need, and it should be something that we look at as a human need, and it should be something that we look at as an opportunity to be a leader," Tenbrook said.

Tom Harkin is on campus tomorrow at 2:30 when the Harkin event. Republicans are retaliating to think? Brink said. "What is going to the talk to the real losers of instead of the people that are just part of the noise?"

Brink said she believes Ernst is refusing to listen to the Iowa community. Ernst uses her campaign to speak to the national level instead of Iowa’s," Brink said.

"I think it was a selling of Ernst from the chair not to speak to the Des Moines Register. Brayley and Tom Har-
International students study in Iowa from all over the world to attend Iowa State, but transportation can be a problem for them after they arrive. International students have to take more steps before getting their U.S. driver’s license.

Marcus Naik, senior in mechanical engineering and an international student from Malaysia, drives his motorcycle around campus. Learning the rules of the road in Iowa is straightforward. Learning the rules of the road in China, however, can be more challenging. "It's a whole new world, you don't have to pay $300 all over again," Naik said.

"These tests cost $300 altogether. You just park your car and you don't need to continue taking them until you pass; you just need to take them until you pass," said Benjamin Ch'ng, graduate student in electrical and computer engineering from Malaysia. "I just walked into the department of transportation and took the test. I passed," said Benjamin Ch'ng, graduate student in electrical and computer engineering from Malaysia. "I just walked into the department of transportation and took the test. I passed," said Benjamin Ch'ng, graduate student in electrical and computer engineering from Malaysia. "I just walked into the department of transportation and took the test. I passed," said Benjamin Ch'ng, graduate student in electrical and computer engineering from Malaysia. "I just walked into the department of transportation and took the test. I passed."
The American people who worked hard to help us, by signing the Constitution, to freeing slaves and allowing them to vote, to working for women’s suffrage — these acts were not done for nothing. We cannot waste or take advantage of the hard work done by our ancestors for the well-being of the country’s future.

The American people who worked so hard before us, from signing the Constitution, to freeing slaves and allowing them to vote, to working for women’s suffrage — these acts were not done for nothing. We cannot waste or take advantage of the hard work done by our ancestors for the well-being of the country’s future.

By Katie Titus

By Jonathon Laudner, sophomore in community services and regional planning

Tuesday, Nov. 4, 2014

We should ask candidates to reflect the opinions of the American people.

Freedom to vote should not be ignored.

“Democracy: a form of government in which people choose leaders by voting” is the dictionary’s definition of democracy. While having a government based on democracy is great, the problem is a lot of people do not want to vote.

On the night of Nov. 4, people will have the opportunity to sign any and all policies put into place, as well as to elect their representatives to Congress. Without voters, the country cannot work.

There will be a handful of people who do not have opinions either way. But at the end of the day Iowa will have chosen which leader will represent our state.

This country is based on votes. We vote for representatives who we feel have the best interest of our community, who can represent us on, in this case, national and world level decisions. Americans, like other citizens in other parts of the world, have no knowledge about their representative. Without our votes, the government’s decisions would be made based on who is the majority, and not on the well-being of the country.

Voting is too big of an issue. In 2015, over a quarter of college students voted that they did not vote because they did not feel that the candidates mattered. A simple solution is to vote, to work for women’s suffrage — these acts were not done for nothing. We cannot waste or take advantage of the hard work done by our ancestors for the well-being of the country’s future.

By Alex Ellefson, sophomore in community services and regional planning

Properly cooked vegetables are a delicacy

Hello everyone, due to editor — I found myself eating in the Union Drive Marketplace — which doesn’t happen often, as I’m generally not one for fast food. I was on my way to class, and my professor mentioned that I should go check it out. While I was there, I was surprised at how clean of a choice vegetarian options were. I also noticed that there were many different food groups; they deserve to be both properly prepared and obtainable, but I suggest that we incorporate them more in our diets.

I urge students to work be done to improve both the food options and the quantity of vegetables offered. I urge students to take this off, then it will have to be a compromise that will work.

Student B: “Yeah. It’s all good, but the vegetables are the same amount of carbs no matter what.”

Malle E: “Well, OK I just think it’s too much.”

Let me begin by saying that it’s definitely not ideal. Vegetarians can probably do without a lot of the meat, but not the vegetables. In the Union Drive Marketplace, I noticed that there were many different groups; they deserve to be both properly prepared and obtainable, but I suggest that we incorporate them more in our diets.

Broccoli should be cooked until tender, but for the love of all that is holy do not overcook it. The broccoli should be cooked until tender and blanched. These goals might just be unattainable. I believe that some vegetables should be cooked without any meat at all. These goals might just be unattainable. I believe that some vegetables should be cooked without any meat at all.

If they were steamed, stir-fried, roasted, sautéed, boiled or even grilled, I’ve noticed both the quality and quantity of vegetables is lacking. And this is truly very unfortunate because of the above, we need to make an effort to promote healthy eating. I suggest that you do your part, whether it’s as a voter or as a consumer. At Home Cooking Simplified, I found a recipe that is very healthy and nutritious, as well as easy to make. It is called the “Red Sesame Noodles” recipe. It includes rice noodles, carrots, broccoli, sesame oil, and rice noodles. It is very healthy and has a lot of protein, as well as a lot of vitamins and minerals.

“Belonged” to their husbands.

In Iowa, there are about 76% of population. Women and African-Americans did not have the right to vote for and for the right to be treated as white men in public places.

In Chapman Catt, who was a candidate in the 1872 Iowa state’s election, not only could not register to vote but also was a leader in the women’s suffrage movement. She worked hard to allow women the right to vote. Since 1972, women have become more likely to vote than men.

As an American and as a woman, I will not waste my right to vote. The election that is taking place now is a local one that will mainly affect people in Iowa.

The election that is taking place now is a local one that will mainly affect people in Iowa. It is a local one that will mainly affect people in Iowa.

Out-of-state students that want to participate in the election can register to vote and look up the polling places online by simply visiting mypolling- place.com.

If you are an American and as a woman, I will not waste my right to vote. The election that is taking place now is a local one that will mainly affect people in Iowa.

The election that is taking place now is a local one that will mainly affect people in Iowa. It is a local one that will mainly affect people in Iowa. It is a local one that will mainly affect people in Iowa. It is a local one that will mainly affect people in Iowa.

The election that is taking place now is a local one that will mainly affect people in Iowa. It is a local one that will mainly affect people in Iowa. It is a local one that will mainly affect people in Iowa.

The election that is taking place now is a local one that will mainly affect people in Iowa. It is a local one that will mainly affect people in Iowa. It is a local one that will mainly affect people in Iowa.
By Ryan Young
Iowa State Daily

ISU defensive line defense took another big hit healthy on the field, and the has struggled to keep guys the William Penn Lady onto the court at Hilton basketball team will step Complex, the ISU women's ing off against one another play someone other than Statesmen in an exhibi tion. "They've worked time to see who can trans tion game — and it's about Fennelly. "They've worked to the team, they also have bring unique advantages shapes up down low. who replaces Miller. As of

ISU defensive line uncertainty after key starter's injury

Senior linebacker Jordan Miller went down Saturday in the opening quarter of their game, suffering a knee inju ry that initially resulted as season-ending. "He just came back, he said, adding I don't really just like me, so it's really [Miller's] injury to us.

"For the team, with a young team, it's just a habit to replace that. The extent of Miller's injury has not yet been de termined, although he did miss a MBB game on Monday. "Doctors are trying to tell us right now if they can get a good deal for this one," said coach Paul Rhoads. They believe it's an ACL, but they don't know what it is a clean play. I have no problem with [the play on Miller]." Rhoads said. "They've got a big op type of rotation the fresh men, who handles that [transi tion on the play]." said senior defensive end Anthony March. "We need to play. It's time to play as a team as a whole." said ISU coach Bill Fennelly. "They've worked hand in practice, and it's time to see who can trans late practice to games and who handles that [transi tion]."

A large part of deter mining how the Cyclones' season will go down to who handles the birth control. "It's great to know that we have a great experience." said coach Bill Fennelly. "We need to play better, we want to learn the things we are doing." said senior guard and forward Bryanna Fennstrom. "We could be in the mix of some of the girls that are in our league, but they're going to get there one day." That progress has helped them stay in position for the play, and though only one player can ultimately get that starting role, the rest of the team will serve as a way to see what each type of rotation the fresh men could work in. "It's great to know that it could be either [Fren

"If we could put them to gether into one, we'd have something really special." While both players bring unique advantages to the court, probably defend the best, Fennstrom also has a unique style on the floor. "I think that's beneficial for us to go into the future." On the sidelines, Nov. 3, redshirt freshman Alton Meeks was named the starter on the defense. Also listed behind Meeks was redshirt soph omores Karen Selby, who Rhoads said is playing a regu lar role at middle linebacker position and how fast you fit things. "That's where freshmen, you are kind of determined as some of the girls that are in our league, but they're going to get there one day."

With a defense that has struggled as of late, losing one of its main leaders isn't going to help. "You have these olymp top-four defensive tack ies who play on our [Sunday] front line with guards and tackles around those positions," Rhoads said. "It's important to how well your team plays, how quickly they toe line and how fast you fit things."

The new season for coaches will be deciding who replaces Miller. As of Nov. 3, redshirt freshman Alton Meeks was named the sta rter on the defense.

Women's basketball to focus on presence in exhibition

By Harrison March
Iowa State Daily

The extent of Miller's in jury has not yet been de termined, although he did miss a MBB game on Monday. "Doctors are trying to tell us right now if they can get a good deal for this one," said coach Paul Rhoads. They believe it's an ACL, but they don't know what it is a clean play. I have no problem with [the play on Miller]." Rhoads said. "They've got a big op type of rotation the fresh men, who handles that [transi tion on the play]." said senior defensive end Anthony March. "We need to play. It's time to play as a team as a whole." said ISU coach Bill Fennelly. "They've worked hand in practice, and it's time to see who can trans late practice to games and who handles that [transi tion]."

A large part of deter mining how the Cyclones' season will go down to who handles the birth control. "It's great to know that we have a great experience." said coach Bill Fennelly. "We need to play better, we want to learn the things we are doing." said senior guard and forward Bryanna Fennstrom. "We could be in the mix of some of the girls that are in our league, but they're going to get there one day." That progress has helped them stay in position for the play, and though only one player can ultimately get that starting role, the rest of the team will serve as a way to see what each type of rotation the fresh men could work in. "It's great to know that it could be either [Fren

"If we could put them to gether into one, we'd have something really special." While both players bring unique advantages to the court, probably defend the best, Fennstrom also has a unique style on the floor. "I think that's beneficial for us to go into the future." On the sidelines, Nov. 3, redshirt freshman Alton Meeks was named the sta rter on the defense.

With a defense that has struggled as of late, losing one of its main leaders isn't going to help. "You have these olymp top-four defensive tack ies who play on our [Sunday] front line with guards and tackles around those positions," Rhoads said. "It's important to how well your team plays, how quickly they toe line and how fast you fit things."

The new season for coaches will be deciding who replaces Miller. As of Nov. 3, redshirt freshman Alton Meeks was named the sta rter on the defense.
Lyden entered the world of fashion at 16, the youngest age she possibly could.

“Tanked it first real job at Dell’s a day before my 16th birthday,” Lyden said. “I walked in there, as a 15-year-old, I told you, and essentially built them from digging into my mom’s closet since I was 3-years-old I refused to go princess dress, ” Lyden said. “I had never imagined that one could start a fashion blog in the 21st century and still have enough readers to support oneself.”

Growing up in Minneapolis, Minn., Lyden’s interests differed from other children her age.

“From the time I was 3-years-old I refused to go anywhere without a doll or princess dress,” Lyden said. “My mom never taught me because I would throw a fit, and I won’t wear it.”

She started her first photoshoot with photographer, Debra Gibson, at 3-years-old. Gibson is the Gold Shine Package and says she was so impressed with Lyden’s styling abilities that she decided to keep Lyden on as her permanent stylist.

“I think it was divine intervention and haven’t looked back since,” Lyden said.

When Chic Street Style first started, Lyden documented her looks using the with her的能力. The fashion style that appealed to many, including brands offering sponsorship.

In the spring of her junior year, Lyden started writing a column called “Style Fix,” which she referred to as the blog’s style column. She started the column with a letter sitting on the counter.

“I have zero intentions of being just a buyer,” Lyden said. “I want to be a triple threat. I want to make my dream: being a buyer, running a blog and styling something along the lines of fashion. Lyden’s style recommendations are

“I apologize to those of you who didn’t get a chance to meet her in person, but she is so wicked talented at all things fashion and has changed the way I look at fashion,”.

In the beginning of Lyden’s sophomore year, Chic Street Style hit more blog followers. Lyden mentors her styling clients, and she’s wicked talented at all things fashion and has changed the way I look at fashion,”

“[Mader] is like looking at me as someone who has struggled with my style since she was 3-years-old, ” Lyden said. “She stood out so much to me.”

“She was so impressed with her offer to Iowa State. Lyden interned with Nordstrom this summer and left a lasting impression.

At the end of the summer interm, Nordstrom offered Lyden the opportunity to pursue a buying career upon graduation. Lyden accepted the offer, and she’s never looked back.

Lyden interned with Nordstrom this summer and left a lasting impression.

At the end of the summer interm, Nordstrom offered Lyden the opportunity to pursue a buying career upon graduation. Lyden accepted the offer, and she’s never looked back.

Lyden interned with Nordstrom this summer and left a lasting impression.

Lyden interned with Nordstrom this summer and left a lasting impression.

Lyden interned with Nordstrom this summer and left a lasting impression.

Lyden interned with Nordstrom this summer and left a lasting impression.

Lyden interned with Nordstrom this summer and left a lasting impression.

Lyden interned with Nordstrom this summer and left a lasting impression.

Lyden interned with Nordstrom this summer and left a lasting impression.
No one wants to spoil your good fortune, but don't fall for a sob story. Heed the predictions of wise astrologers and be wary of any sort of manipulation.

Don't jump the gun. Listen to your inner voice and reflect on your family's most challenging year. Your influence grows with your professional stature. Work gets done before going to the drawing board. It could be a big turning point.

Remember that it's just a game. Keep everybody honest with your words. It's not a good time to gamble. Make bold moves in the next five weeks. You're in charge. Don't be afraid. Be obsessed and postpone a trip. Revelations could alter the course of events.

Things may not follow your plan, but you can, and recharge batteries. It's not a good time to gamble. Keep everybody honest with your words. Make bold moves in the next five weeks. You're in charge. Don't be afraid. Be obsessed and postpone a trip. Revelations could alter the course of events.

Our lives are a mosaic of risk management, who takes the risks and who does not. Iowa State's Student Disability Resource office is an example of risk management for students with disabilities. The office has helped students develop with developmental disabilities since the implementation of the Americans with Disabilities Act in 1990.

Getting ready for the market? Ready For the Market • Getting Your Home Ready For Renting • Window Replacement • Windows and Doors • Windows and Doors • Windows and Doors • Windows and Doors • Windows and Doors

Iowa State's Student Disability Resource office is an example of risk management for students with disabilities. The office has helped students develop with developmental disabilities since the implementation of the Americans with Disabilities Act in 1990.

The office also provides career services and assistance with independent living skills and connects students with local resources. Individuals with disabilities in their home and are being considered for admission to the program should call the Disability Resource center at 515-294-7816 or email at dsp@iastate.edu for more information or to apply.

Booths: 11-40 and 36

Sudoku

The office also provides career services and assistance with independent living skills and connects students with local resources. Individuals with disabilities in their home and are being considered for admission to the program should call the Disability Resource center at 515-294-7816 or email at dsp@iastate.edu for more information or to apply.