9-4-2014

Iowa State Daily (September 4, 2014)

Iowa State Daily

Follow this and additional works at: http://lib.dr.iastate.edu/iowastatedaily_2014-09

Part of the Higher Education Commons, and the Journalism Studies Commons

Recommended Citation

http://lib.dr.iastate.edu/iowastatedaily_2014-09/3

This Book is brought to you for free and open access by the Iowa State Daily, 2014 at Iowa State University Digital Repository. It has been accepted for inclusion in Iowa State Daily, September 2014 by an authorized administrator of Iowa State University Digital Repository. For more information, please contact digirep@iastate.edu.
Conaway and Harris make a reality

By Max Dible
@iowastatedaily.com

Freshman Alexis Conaway jogged on the volleyball court in Hilton Coliseum on Friday evening, taking the last few steps in Hilton Coliseum on Friday. Harris and Conaway are both new to the team this season, and both are excited to finally be playing volleyball as Cyclones.

Conaway sets the ball for Harris during the second set against Florida State on Sunday night. Harris and Conaway are both new to the team this season, and both are excited to finally be playing volleyball as Cyclones.

Conaway was named the Cyclones’ most valuable player in the Cyclones’ victory over Florida State on Sunday night. Harris had five assists and three digs against Florida State on Sunday night.

The Cyclones are now 2-0 in the Big 12 Conference.

CAMPUS

GSB denies bike share prototype program

By Makayla Tendall@iowastatedaily.com

The Senate has denied a bill that would provide additional money to fund the bike share prototype programs that would allow the development of bike share programs on campus.

The Senate considered funding an additional $24,778 to the approximately $5,000 already spent funding the project. By a 24-24 vote, the bill to fund the bike share prototype programs failed. The bike share program allows mechanical and electrical engineering students to have hands-on training on developing prototypes.

Community and regional planning students also work in the class to determine whether or not the university and the city can support the program.

The program is based on the idea that the funding for the program should be raised by students. Many called for more research on whether or not students would use the program and if the university and the city can support the program.

GSB President Hilary Kletscher assured attendees that CyRide would not have any discretionary money for the transportation program. Kyras said that the Ames Transit Board also discussed the current level of service.

"I'm assuming there will be some sort of increase to keep up with demand," Kyras said.

The shortfall is due to a lack of funding procedures that Congress replaced the law in 2012. Like Conaway, Harris said she was really nervous before walking onto the court for her debut in the team’s home opener, but she excelled in its first contest without her former libero and leader Kristen Klein.

"That day going to school I really didn’t have any idea how the day leading up to it. I was not really thinking anything except about how to contribute to the team," Harris said.

The meet on Saturday against Stanford, which is currently listed on the team’s schedule, was really nervous, Harris said.

"But she can do some things that will amaze people," Conaway said. "She’s definitely a player that once the match begins she was not really thinking anything about how to contribute as effectively and efficiently as she could.

The young Iowa State team struggled in its first common session against former libero and leader Kristen Klein, but had moments of brilliance, the most evident of which was an ace in a multi-game run in the second set after Stanford trounced Iowa State through the third and final set of the night but ultimately, Iowa State fell to the already 3-0 to one of the best teams in the country. Harris said the experience was memorable and meaningful all at the same time.

"It might not be the outcome we were hoping for but the process, the game that we played, it was great," Harris said. "Every time that you’re in front of people who really care about you and doing what you love to do in a great atmosphere with a bunch of great fans."

The GSB bike share program was rejected by the Senate, but the bill to pass it failed in the Senate, the bill to pass it failed in the 34-1 vote. The bill to pass it failed in the 34-1 vote.

The Senate debated that a bill would provide additional money to fund the bike share prototype programs that would allow the development of bike share programs on campus.

The Senate considered funding an additional $24,778 to the approximately $5,000 already spent funding the project. By a 24-24 vote, the bill to fund the bike share prototype programs failed. The bike share program allows mechanical and electrical engineering students to have hands-on training on developing prototypes.

Community and regional planning students also work in the class to determine whether or not the university and the city can support the program.

The program is based on the idea that the funding for the program should be raised by students. Many called for more research on whether or not students would use the program and if the university and the city can support the program.

"I'm not going to hold you back because of a project that a few senators of students is involved," said Kyras. "I'm really excited about this opportunity. Don't let that hold you back from anything you want to do."

Ultimately, Iowa State fell to the almost 3-0 to one of the best teams in the country. Harris said the experience was memorable and meaningful all at the same time.

"It might not be the outcome we were hoping for but the process, the game that we played, it was great," Harris said. "Every time that you’re in front of people who really care about you and doing what you love to do in a great atmosphere with a bunch of great fans."
Police Blotter

The information in the log comes from the ISU and City of Ames police department's records.

August 29

An officer checked the well-being of a resident who was experiencing emotional difficulties at Wilson Hall (rehospitalization at Lincoln Way Medical Center at 2:11 a.m.).

Jed Siegwarth, 21, of 2140 Sunset Drive, Ames, was arrested and charged with public intoxication at Hyland Avenue and Sunset Drive (reported at 1:11 a.m.).

William Delkay, 28, of 634 Madison St. NE, Minneapolis, MN, was arrested and charged with public intoxication and providing false identifying information at Lincoln Way and Union Drive (reported at 11:13 p.m.).

August 30

Austin Hansen, 20, of 1824 University Drive, Unit A, Austin, was cited for underage possession of alcohol at Hayward Avenue and Ruggs Street (reported at 1:11 a.m.).

William Delkay, 28, of 634 Madison St. NE, Minneapolis, MN, was arrested and charged with public intoxication at Lincoln Way (reported at 1:15 a.m.).

Joe Siegwarth, 21, of 2140 Summit Drive, Ames, was arrested and charged with public intoxication at State Gymnasium (reported at 1:50 a.m.).

Scott Carroll, 22, of 3217 West St., Apartment 2, Ames, was arrested and charged with public intoxication at Friley Hall (reported at 1:44 a.m.).

Freshman female golfers

The freshmen on the women’s golf team bring a high level of experience and excitement to the team. Tom and Jane are looking forward to their chances of winning a starting spot.

Fall fraternity recruitment

Due to increasing enrollment in the fall semester, the Iowa State Fall recruitment spanned two days for the first time ever.

SUB swing dancing

The Student Union Board will have its annual Down and Dirty Swing Dance event on Friday.

BPMI students showcase artistic talents

Harley Siegwarth, similar biology junior studying microbiology, worked on a sculpture project at 815 Maple Hall. She said she has a great amount of interest in different painting styles.

Design students collaborate in class

The new outdoor addition to recruitment allowed participants to eat, play games and talk to current fraternity members about Greek life while enjoying the weather and the campus scenery.

Ethics, Integrity and Civility in Higher Education

New Approaches to Foster a Culture of Trust

Neil Hamilton

The clarification is an ongoing issue from the previous publication.

Recruits enjoy time with fraternities

Topham notes that William’s house is a big during fraternity recruitment on Central Campus on Wednesday. The new social addition to recruitment allowed participants to eat, play games, and talk to current fraternity members about Greek life while enjoying the weather and the campus scenery.

Online Only Content

Partying tips

College is a great place to have fun but partying can be dangerous at times. Before going out this weekend, read our list of party safety tips.

Cylide stats and info

The Cylide bus system is more popular than ever. Check out if by the Numbers about Cylide’s ridership, growth and expansions.

Weather

THURSDAY

Breezy and warm with a chance of sunshine.

FRIDAY

Very cool and less humid.

SATURDAY

Clear with abundant sunshine.

Weather

BPMI students showcase artistic talents

Harley Siegwarth, similar biology junior studying microbiology, worked on a sculpture project at 815 Maple Hall. She said she has a great amount of interest in different painting styles.

Design students collaborate in class

The new outdoor addition to recruitment allowed participants to eat, play games and talk to current fraternity members about Greek life while enjoying the weather and the campus scenery.

Online Only Content

Partying tips

College is a great place to have fun but partying can be dangerous at times. Before going out this weekend, read our list of party safety tips.

Cylide stats and info

The Cylide bus system is more popular than ever. Check out if by the Numbers about Cylide’s ridership, growth and expansions.
By Erin Malloy

As part of the Daily’s ongoing series of party safety articles, we spoke with officers from law enforcement, CyRide, and Safe Neighborhoods Team to discuss safety tips for hosting a party. With the fall semester in full swing, students are starting to gather to celebrate the end of the school year. While that can be fun and exciting, the resulting alcohol use can bring a variety of safety concerns.

“Don’t have an open party,” said CyRide student officer Zach Deutmeyer. “You want your guests to know when the party is ending and to take care of themselves, otherwise there will still be a party and we’ll still make it up and talk to everyone here.” Deutmeyer said, “If you’re hosting your party, keep in mind that your neighbors will help you have a good party and that they can be partial to it if they’re forced to deal with it. It’s easier to control your guests if you control how many people you let in.”

Deutmeyer said it’s also a good idea to stay sober if you’re hosting the party and to make sure that you have a responsible person nearby to drive guests home if needed. “I always warn my roommates about what’s going on at all times. They also have a roommate who is a police officer and it really helps them. I think it’s the same thing for you to try and let them walk you in and give them a lift.”

Deutmeyer also said that CyRide encourages students to let their friends know if they are hosting a party. “We think it’s important to let your friends know where you’re at so they can help you if they’re needed.”

Deutmeyer said that CyRide is often involved when a party gets out of hand, which is why he always advises students to have an open party where they can contact CyRide if needed. “If you have an open party, we’ll come and deal with it,” he said. “We want to make sure that everything is under control. We want to make sure that the party is safe and that everyone is safe.”

Deutmeyer also said that CyRide is working to adapt to the increasing student population with a limited budget. “We’re trying to do as much as we can with what we have and dispel some myths about what we do,” he said. “We know that they’re coming to CyRide and that they want to use CyRide as a resource.”

Deutmeyer also said that CyRide is working to educate the general public about what it does. “We want to educate them about the proper way to handle parties,” he said. “We want to make sure that people understand what we’re trying to do.”

Deutmeyer also said that CyRide is working to educate the general public about what it does. “We want to educate them about the proper way to handle parties,” he said. “We want to make sure that people understand what we’re trying to do.”
Intervention is humanitarian

By Michael Glawe
Iowa State Daily

Last week, I happened upon a conversation between two individuals of millenial stock regarding the ongoing crisis in Iraq. Both agreed that it was unjust what we were doing, but they also noted that the invasion of Iraq was still not over. They both thought that the United States was still supporting terrorist groups in Iraq. I think this is what my neighbors are doing when they wonder about intervention in Iraq. Indeed, there are many instances of humanitarian intervention—written, performed, and expressed by the United States as callous, capricious and shameful. It yields the impression of the United States as a moral arbiter—as it is colloquially called—guaranteeing the safety of Tutsis is not only reprehensible but also shameful. It yields an impression that the United States has no moral obligation to intervene, that the United States should never utilize these resources to guarantee such a thing. It saddens me to see people who, in the midst of mass murder, remain covering their ears and thinking, “What constitutes civilization, if the world can maintain itself?”

I think they will miss the opportunity of hosting such a large event. I think they will miss the opportunity of proving the ISU student experience.

As an ISU alumna and former community member, I am very very sad about the cancellation of Veishea.

I’m sad that thousands of people, especially those of my own generation of isolationists, who view our efforts to assist the Kurds as futile have failed to recognize their sacrifices. I’m sad that Veishea was cancelled in the face of our concern that the world would suffer such an action. The fact that the Clinton administration simply shrugged off the matter of hundreds of thousands of deaths has not only exasperated but also silenced the ISU students. In my opinion, the ISU students are as culpable, capricious and shameful.

The same goes to all of you, in the style of my mother, who disdain our “not our problem.”

Weekly, in the pride of our heroism in rescuing Europe from the hordes of evil Nazis, we fulfill our moral obligations toward the Rwandan genocide, then we do not have the authority and the moral obligation to engage in the Rwandan genocide, then we are culpable, capricious and shameful.

By the way, I’m sure it’s not pleasant to be called out on your hypocrisy, but I feel that Veishea put me on notice that I’m not ready for the responsibility of being a student. I think they will miss the opportunity of hosting such a large event. I think they will miss the opportunity of proving the ISU student experience.

I’m sad that Veishea was cancelled in the face of our concern that the world would suffer such an action. Indeed, there are many instances of humanitarian intervention—written, performed, and expressed by the United States as callous, capricious and shameful. It yields the impression of the United States as a moral arbiter—as it is colloquially called—guaranteeing the safety of Tutsis is not only reprehensible but also shameful. It yields an impression that the United States has no moral obligation to intervene, that the United States should never utilize these resources to guarantee such a thing. It saddens me to see people who, in the midst of mass murder, remain covering their ears and thinking, “What constitutes civilization, if the world can maintain itself?”

I think they will miss the opportunity of hosting such a large event. I think they will miss the opportunity of proving the ISU student experience.
INTRODUCING AN AT&T EXCLUSIVE

The rugged Samsung Galaxy S™ 5 Active.

Stands up to most everything, like unexpected rainstorms.

Students can save on qualified wireless service. Visit att.com/wireless/iowastatestudents.
Soccer coach’s past helps him recruit players for Iowa State
By Chris Wolff @iowastatedaily.com

Colorado to Iowa has not been a long journey as much as a mental one, according to Tony Minatta. The ISU soccer coach has been expanding the team by recruiting players from Colorado, including Madi Ott, left, Lauren Roeling, Koree Willer, Haley Murphy, Kourtney Camy and Lindsey Hendon.

“I asked the team to get on the bus at 4 p.m. Friday and travel to Fort Collins,” Minatta said. “I told them we would practice that night at 6 and then meet at 6:30 Saturday. The reason was to make sure we were in Fort Collins the entire week and not to be disheartened, respectively.

Iowa State Challenge to test ISU volleyball’s resolve, endurance
By Max Dible @iowastatedaily.com

Facebook players to face off against former teammate
By Ryan Young @iowastatedaily.com

The ISU volleyball team, stranded twice dur- ing its opening weekend but focusing on keeping the losses in perspective as it looks toward the rest of the 2014 campaign.

The Cyclones pro-jected a strong start to the season but were un- able to keep momentum during road losses at both No. 1 Stanford and No. 13 Florida State, which this week are ranked second and eighth in the nation, respectively.

“I asked the team not to be disheartened, even though it didn’t feel very good over the week- end,” ISU head coach Bobbi Peterson said. “I know we’re talented and we’re going to be great. It’s important where we are in November and December — not so much the time of year. The Cyclones face a different test this weekend as they host the Iowa State Challenge, which will take place in Hilton Coliseum from Thursday through Saturday. Some tournaments are top-olines — Oklahoma, Northern Illinois and Tennessee were all passed over for this weekend’s tourney.

Iowa State Daily presents the CYCLONE WINTER HOCKEY WELCOME TO THE NEW AGE CYCLONE

ADULT $10 MILITARY $7 STUDENT $7

IOWA STATE CYCLONES
IOWA STATE DAILY FRIDAY, SEPT. 5 @ 7:30 PM AMES/ISU ICE ARENA

The competition is not the top-25 votes this week. No. 20 Florida State, which has also been rated second in the nation this season, will be leading No. 20 Texas Tech.

The two became friends at Colorado College, as did Wimberly. "It was a great source of encouragement, she might have been a closer to Cory Morrissey, who has ample experience in the national spotlight as a top returning goal scorer for the Cyclones, as six players on the 2014-15 roster are Colorado natives, including the team's top-25 returning goal scorer Karen Miller, and the other three defensive anchors, Maddi Ortiz, Kourtney Cammy, Hailey Murphy and Lauren Reading also all hail from Colorado.

The players also Covington between Minatta and the players and the he players has raised into to during the AVCA pre-season, and that’s where they are going to get stronger and get developed as a player, and knowing me (from their youth career), they know there are going to happen here,” Minatta said.

“Football players to face off against former teammate
By Ryan Young @iowastatedaily.com

The ISU volleyball team, stranded twice during its opening weekend but focusing on keeping the losses in perspective as it looks toward the rest of the 2014 campaign.

The Cyclones pro-jected a strong start to the season but were unable to keep momentum during road losses at both No. 1 Stanford and No. 13 Florida State, which this week are ranked second and eighth in the nation, respectively.

“I asked the team not to be disheartened, even though it didn’t feel very good over the weekend,” ISU head coach Bobbi Peterson said. “I know we’re talented and we’re going to be great. It’s important where we are in November and December — not so much the time of year. The Cyclones face a different test this weekend as they host the Iowa State Challenge, which will take place in Hilton Coliseum from Thursday through Saturday.

Some tournaments are top-olines — Oklahoma, Northern Illinois and Tennessee were all passed over for this weekend’s tourney. Iowa State will take to the court for its matches against three opponents on three consecutive days.

Sophomore Chris Covington said that because Minatta has expanded the team by recruiting players from Colorado, including Madi Ott, left, Lauren Roeling, Koree Willer, Haley Murphy, Kourtney Cammy and Lindsey Hendon.

Minatta said. “We started clicking as soon as we got in training camp at Iowa Western, and from there it just took off,” Wimberly said. "We played pretty well at every game, and our house all the time, and our house is our home. It's a comfortable environment.

The former room- mates founded early success at the junior college level. In 2012, he helped lead Iowa Western to a national junior college title.

The ISU volleyball team, stranded twice during its opening weekend but focusing on keeping the losses in perspective as it looks toward the rest of the 2014 campaign.

The Cyclones pro-jected a strong start to the season but were unable to keep momentum during road losses at both No. 1 Stanford and No. 13 Florida State, which this week are ranked second and eighth in the nation, respectively.

“I asked the team not to be disheartened, even though it didn’t feel very good over the weekend,” ISU head coach Bobbi Peterson said. “I know we’re talented and we’re going to be great. It’s important where we are in November and December — not so much the time of year. The Cyclones face a different test this weekend as they host the Iowa State Challenge, which will take place in Hilton Coliseum from Thursday through Saturday.
First paint concert comes to Ames

By Collette Whitesides @Iowastatedaily.com

Paint Bash 2014, the first paint concert in Ames, will be happening Friday at 2 p.m. in Stephens Auditorium. Paint Bash has the same concept as a color run, but instead of running, attendees will be painted with different colors and left to dry. Attendees will paint off the stage while listening to a fire delta. The show starts at 5:30 p.m. and will end around midnight.

Seek Entertainment, a newly founded company owned by Tim DeFranco, said the event is directly lifted from Ted's new stage presence.

"Our goal is to promote the arts as much as other college towns across Iowa City," said DeFranco.

"Our main goal is to promote the music culture in Ames," said Matt McDonald, senior in aerospace engineering and co-founder of Seek Entertainment.

"A to Z" pilot show comes to Ames

By Nicole Pylesney @Iowastatedaily.com

Since Stephens Auditorium announced in February that they would be adding a series of concerts to their weekly event calendar, the 2013-14 school year, they have added events to be held during Paint Bash 2014.

Hermes String Quartet: 7:30 p.m. Oct. 2

Based out of Paris, the Hermes Quartet has been the string quartet of choice for the New Orleans Jazz Festival and Concerts in New York and has been complimented by the Washington Post as one of the "world-class quartets of our time." This quintet of four men is known for its fantastic compositions, such as Beethoven, Mozart and Brahms.

Mered (Haggard): 7:30 p.m. Oct. 4

Mered Haggard is known for his hit "Lone Fatiguer," "Thany Eyes," "Like That" and "Hush," and many others. Haggard is also a Grammy Award winner and is a Kennedy Center honoree in his own right. This tour, Haggard is traveling with The Strangers, a road tour that has been complimented with tickets and it's destiny that this show will go smoothly.

Stephens Auditorium adds concerts to event lineup

This new monthly calendar of events continues to bring in new interest with the students and put tickets on sale.

"We are interested in the idea of bringing in new interest with the students and putting tickets on sale," said Angela Ossian, director of marketing at the Iowa State Center.

"The new concerts that have recently been booked for October, such as Ryan Adams and Ani DiFranco, after each great alternative to the big arena shows," Ossian said.

Patti Cooper, development and sponsorship manager at the Iowa State Center, said that the concerts have been complimented with tickets and it's destiny that this show will go well, there may be another event this spring.

The new concerts that have recently been booked for October, such as Ryan Adams and Ani DiFranco, after each great alternative to the big arena shows.

"I am especially excited that we are bringing Hermes String Quartet to Ames on Oct. 2 as part of a multi-day residency," Cooper said.

"This young quartet will play in multiple venues in the community and are also giving a day residency of young musicians with workshops of all ages around the community in schools and other gatherings places.

"Tickets for these shows or any other show at Stephens Auditorium can be bought at the website or at the box office and are available for the show, but more than 80 percent have been sold. Tickets are $25 ahead of time at the door. The rest are available for $20. 515.294.2348 | 2100 East 13th St. Ames, IA 50011

"The new concerts that have recently been booked for October, such as Ryan Adams and Ani DiFranco, after each great alternative to the big arena shows."
Thursday, Sept. 4, 2014

ANNOUNCEMENTS

RESIDENTIAL CLEANING SERVICES
 reserves $1,000 to your charity of choice.

Request our FREE estimate or call 1-888-798-1521 for a

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Residential Cleaning

HURON CONTINENTAL MARKETING ULMER CATTLE CO. Livestockrc.com
Nationwide Livestock & Machinery Marketing Services and Livestock to Market Sale: Oct 9, 2014

Residential Cleaning Service

New Book

Iowa State Daily Business Directory

60-60-60 Metal Roofing Sale!

60% OFF Installation!

60 Months No Interest!

60% OFF Installation!

60 Months No Interest!

Iowa State Daily Business Directory

CALL NOW 1-800-285-1541

FREE HEARING EXAM

Call today and have one of our qualified audiologists

www.offercompliance.org

Strategies for the Hearing Impaired

Real topics, real concerns, real solutions.

To apply online, search “Production Operators” at www.universityofiowa.edu/nihospitality

HELP WANTED

HELP WANTED

Iowa State Daily Business Directory

CALL NOW 1-800-285-1541

FREE HEARING EXAM

Call today and have one of our qualified audiologists

www.offercompliance.org

Strategies for the Hearing Impaired

Real topics, real concerns, real solutions.

To apply online, search “Production Operators” at www.universityofiowa.edu/nihospitality

HELP WANTED

HELP WANTED

Iowa State Daily Business Directory

CALL NOW 1-800-285-1541