9-11-2012

Iowa State Daily (09-11-2012)

Iowa State Daily

Follow this and additional works at: http://lib.dr.iastate.edu/iowastatedaily_2012-09

Part of the Higher Education Commons, and the Journalism Studies Commons

Recommended Citation

http://lib.dr.iastate.edu/iowastatedaily_2012-09/18

This Book is brought to you for free and open access by the Iowa State Daily, 2012 at Iowa State University Digital Repository. It has been accepted for inclusion in Iowa State Daily, September 2012 by an authorized administrator of Iowa State University Digital Repository. For more information, please contact digirep@iastate.edu.
Opinion ....................................... 3

Servin, also of the Daily Iowan.

players celebrating was taken Ian

Daily Iowan, and the photo of the taken by Adam Wesley of the of the Cy-Hawk trophy was Iowan. For clarification, the photo

page were attributed to the Daily

the two photos on the front

ClarIFI Ca tI On:

Online:

iowastatedaily.com/opinion

LETTER: DAIL Y NEWS

TUESDAY, SEPT. 11, 2012

Volume 258 | Number 16 | 40 cents | An independent student newspaper serving Iowa State since 1930 | A 2010-11 APC Pacemaker Award winner

America became his new home

Exchange student finds new life, love during time at ISU

By Myra Knipper-Gorn

Daily Iowan staff writer

When he received the letter of approval to the ISU Study Abroad program, Flinn Milligan's heart stumbled. He clinched the piece of paper in his hands as his thoughts suddenly

rumbled somewhere behind his

"It was proper dream, coming to

America," he said. "Everything I was

expecting came from various films

from the past 40 years. I was expecting a lot of different things, coming

from England."

One of the things he had not expected to do while in America was his ball cap on, and his horse

Bailey Finn, recent graduate of

Iowa State's culinary science program, remembers their first conversation, or reflect argument. "It was silent," she laughed. "I was insisting that the best cheese in the world came from

Wisconsin. Then he kept calling me a home-country major. Even though he came off a little bit of a jerk, it was an endearing way. I kind of already

liked him."

When they met up, Milligan received a proposal in a certain type of engagement."

Coffee

By Frances Myers

Daily staff writer

Danny O'Neill has had a lot of experiences, followed by some time in the corporate world,

which ended with him as a self-described "corporate dropout."

"It was a proper dream, coming to

America," he said. "Everything I was

expecting came from various films

from the past 40 years. I was expect-
ing a lot of different things, coming from England." He clenched the piece of paper in his hands as his thoughts suddenly

rumbled somewhere behind his

"It was proper dream, coming to

America," he said. "Everything I was

expecting came from various films

from the past 40 years. I was expect-
ing a lot of different things, coming

from England."

One of the things he had not expected to do while in America was

his ball cap on, and his horse

Bailey Finn, recent graduate of

Iowa State's culinary science program, remembers their first conversation, or reflect argument. "It was silent," she laughed. "I was insisting that the best cheese in the world came from

Wisconsin. Then he kept calling me a home-country major. Even though

he came off a little bit of a jerk, it was an endearing way. I kind of already

liked him."

When they met up, Milligan received a proposal in a certain type of

engagement."

ISU alumni roasts up

school-inspired brew

By Katelyn McCollough

McCollough@iowastatedaily.com

Danny O'Neill has had a lot of

experiences, followed by some time in the corporate world,

which ended with him as a self-described "corporate dropout."

"It was a proper dream, coming to

America," he said. "Everything I was

expecting came from various films

from the past 40 years. I was expect-
ing a lot of different things, coming

from England." He clenched the piece of paper in his hands as his thoughts suddenly

rumbled somewhere behind his

"It was proper dream, coming to

America," he said. "Everything I was

expecting came from various films

from the past 40 years. I was expect-
ing a lot of different things, coming

from England."

One of the things he had not expected to do while in America was

his ball cap on, and his horse

Bailey Finn, recent graduate of

Iowa State's culinary science program, remembers their first conversation, or reflect argument. "It was silent," she laughed. "I was insisting that the best cheese in the world came from

Wisconsin. Then he kept calling me a home-country major. Even though

he came off a little bit of a jerk, it was an endearing way. I kind of already

liked him."

When they met up, Milligan received a proposal in a certain type of

engagement."

ISU alumni roasts up

school-inspired brew

By Katelyn McCollough

McCollough@iowastatedaily.com

Danny O'Neill has had a lot of

experiences, followed by some time in the corporate world,

which ended with him as a self-described "corporate dropout."

"It was a proper dream, coming to

America," he said. "Everything I was

expecting came from various films

from the past 40 years. I was expect-
ing a lot of different things, coming

from England." He clenched the piece of paper in his hands as his thoughts suddenly

rumbled somewhere behind his

"It was proper dream, coming to

America," he said. "Everything I was

expecting came from various films

from the past 40 years. I was expect-
ing a lot of different things, coming

from England." He clenched the piece of paper in his hands as his thoughts suddenly

rumbled somewhere behind his

"It was proper dream, coming to

America," he said. "Everything I was

expecting came from various films

from the past 40 years. I was expect-
ing a lot of different things, coming

from England." He clenched the piece of paper in his hands as his thoughts suddenly

rumbled somewhere behind his

"It was proper dream, coming to

America," he said. "Everything I was

expecting came from various films

from the past 40 years. I was expect-
ing a lot of different things, coming

from England." He clenched the piece of paper in his hands as his thoughts suddenly

rumbled somewhere behind his

"It was proper dream, coming to

America," he said. "Everything I was

expecting came from various films

from the past 40 years. I was expect-
ing a lot of different things, coming

from England." He clenched the piece of paper in his hands as his thoughts suddenly

rumbled somewhere behind his

"It was proper dream, coming to

America," he said. "Everything I was

expecting came from various films

from the past 40 years. I was expect-
ing a lot of different things, coming

from England." He clenched the piece of paper in his hands as his thoughts suddenly

rumbled somewhere behind his

"It was proper dream, coming to

America," he said. "Everything I was

expecting came from various films

from the past 40 years. I was expect-
ing a lot of different things, coming

from England." He clenched the piece of paper in his hands as his thoughts suddenly

rumbled somewhere behind his

"It was proper dream, coming to

America," he said. "Everything I was

expecting came from various films

from the past 40 years. I was expect-
ing a lot of different things, coming

from England." He clenched the piece of paper in his hands as his thoughts suddenly

rumbled somewhere behind his

"It was proper dream, coming to

America," he said. "Everything I was

expecting came from various films

from the past 40 years. I was expect-

}
“Things are going to be different this semester,” O’Neill said, who described the coffee as having a personal touch of how to do it. “We love it, and we’re behind it,” O’Neill said.

The room was created by O’Neill specifically for campus cafes for only $1 an ounce. It’s a fee that would be used at the installation events this week. President Steven Leath’s inauguration will not be the only one that is being sold, but it is the only way I could compete,” O’Neill said. “But I didn’t want to pay that; it’s too low,” O’Neill said. “We thought we were underpaying a dollar a pound,” O’Neill explained.

“I was always making Bailey [Flinn, middle] do American things with me,” said Flinn Milligan, former exchange student. “Getting a pretzel at the mall, going to a bowling alley and drinking a beer...” said Flinn Milligan, former exchange student. “I was always making Bailey [Flinn, middle] do American things with me,” said Flinn Milligan, former exchange student.

“Not being with her wasn’t an option for me,” O’Neill said. While a date for the wedding has yet to be finalized, they vow to keep her close. “I’ll love you,” O’Neill said.

“Not being with her wasn’t an option for me,” O’Neill said. While a date for the wedding has yet to be finalized, they vow to keep her close. “I’ll love you,” O’Neill said.

“The cause came when O’Neill felt that one of his farms in Madison opened for the coffee business was new to us all,” O’Neill said. “We were all happy to be able to fund a school lunch program, showers, hygiene classes and Internet access,” O’Neill said.

“Olivia’s Akvavit,” a coffee created by The Roasterie from their 1858 blend, is being sold at six different locations around campus, including a kiosk on each floor of Milligan Hall, the only building specifically for campus cafes.

“I think the door has opened for people to experience Irish coffee on many different levels,” Giles said. “We’re always focusing on only one element that is solid and fair and then diversify those opportunities. As we diversify those opportunities, we are constantly looking for ways to diversify the program,” Giles said.

“I think the door has opened for people to experience Irish coffee on many different levels,” Giles said. “We’re always focusing on only one element that is solid and fair and then diversify those opportunities. As we diversify those opportunities, we are constantly looking for ways to diversify the program,” Giles said.

“I think the door has opened for people to experience Irish coffee on many different levels,” Giles said. “We’re always focusing on only one element that is solid and fair and then diversify those opportunities. As we diversify those opportunities, we are constantly looking for ways to diversify the program,” Giles said.

“I think the door has opened for people to experience Irish coffee on many different levels,” Giles said. “We’re always focusing on only one element that is solid and fair and then diversify those opportunities. As we diversify those opportunities, we are constantly looking for ways to diversify the program,” Giles said.

“I think the door has opened for people to experience Irish coffee on many different levels,” Giles said. “We’re always focusing on only one element that is solid and fair and then diversify those opportunities. As we diversify those opportunities, we are constantly looking for ways to diversify the program,” Giles said.

“I think the door has opened for people to experience Irish coffee on many different levels,” Giles said. “We’re always focusing on only one element that is solid and fair and then diversify those opportunities. As we diversify those opportunities, we are constantly looking for ways to diversify the program,” Giles said.

“I think the door has opened for people to experience Irish coffee on many different levels,” Giles said. “We’re always focusing on only one element that is solid and fair and then diversify those opportunities. As we diversify those opportunities, we are constantly looking for ways to diversify the program,” Giles said.

“I think the door has opened for people to experience Irish coffee on many different levels,” Giles said. “We’re always focusing on only one element that is solid and fair and then diversify those opportunities. As we diversify those opportunities, we are constantly looking for ways to diversify the program,” Giles said.

“I think the door has opened for people to experience Irish coffee on many different levels,” Giles said. “We’re always focusing on only one element that is solid and fair and then diversify those opportunities. As we diversify those opportunities, we are constantly looking for ways to diversify the program,” Giles said.

“I think the door has opened for people to experience Irish coffee on many different levels,” Giles said. “We’re always focusing on only one element that is solid and fair and then diversify those opportunities. As we diversify those opportunities, we are constantly looking for ways to diversify the program,” Giles said.

“I think the door has opened for people to experience Irish coffee on many different levels,” Giles said. “We’re always focusing on only one element that is solid and fair and then diversify those opportunities. As we diversify those opportunities, we are constantly looking for ways to diversify the program,” Giles said.

“I think the door has opened for people to experience Irish coffee on many different levels,” Giles said. “We’re always focusing on only one element that is solid and fair and then diversify those opportunities. As we diversify those opportunities, we are constantly looking for ways to diversify the program,” Giles said.

“I think the door has opened for people to experience Irish coffee on many different levels,” Giles said. “We’re always focusing on only one element that is solid and fair and then diversify those opportunities. As we diversify those opportunities, we are constantly looking for ways to diversify the program,” Giles said.

“I think the door has opened for people to experience Irish coffee on many different levels,” Giles said. “We’re always focusing on only one element that is solid and fair and then diversify those opportunities. As we diversify those opportunities, we are constantly looking for ways to diversify the program,” Giles said.

“I think the door has opened for people to experience Irish coffee on many different levels,” Giles said. “We’re always focusing on only one element that is solid and fair and then diversify those opportunities. As we diversify those opportunities, we are constantly looking for ways to diversify the program,” Giles said.

“I think the door has opened for people to experience Irish coffee on many different levels,” Giles said. “We’re always focusing on only one element that is solid and fair and then diversify those opportunities. As we diversify those opportunities, we are constantly looking for ways to diversify the program,” Giles said.

“I think the door has opened for people to experience Irish coffee on many different levels,” Giles said. “We’re always focusing on only one element that is solid and fair and then diversify those opportunities. As we diversify those opportunities, we are constantly looking for ways to diversify the program,” Giles said.

“I think the door has opened for people to experience Irish coffee on many different levels,” Giles said. “We’re always focusing on only one element that is solid and fair and then diversify those opportunities. As we diversify those opportunities, we are constantly looking for ways to diversify the program,” Giles said.

“I think the door has opened for people to experience Irish coffee on many different levels,” Giles said. “We’re always focusing on only one element that is solid and fair and then diversify those opportunities. As we diversify those opportunities, we are constantly looking for ways to diversify the program,” Giles said.

“I think the door has opened for people to experience Irish coffee on many different levels,” Giles said. “We’re always focusing on only one element that is solid and fair and then diversify those opportunities. As we diversify those opportunities, we are constantly looking for ways to diversify the program,” Giles said.

“I think the door has opened for people to experience Irish coffee on many different levels,” Giles said. “We’re always focusing on only one element that is solid and fair and then diversify those opportunities. As we diversify those opportunities, we are constantly looking for ways to diversify the program,” Giles said.

“I think the door has opened for people to experience Irish coffee on many different levels,” Giles said. “We’re always focusing on only one element that is solid and fair and then diversify those opportunities. As we diversify those opportunities, we are constantly looking for ways to diversify the program,” Giles said.

“I think the door has opened for people to experience Irish coffee on many different levels,” Giles said. “We’re always focusing on only one element that is solid and fair and then diversify those opportunities. As we diversify those opportunities, we are constantly looking for ways to diversify the program,” Giles said.

“I think the door has opened for people to experience Irish coffee on many different levels,” Giles said. “We’re always focusing on only one element that is solid and fair and then diversify those opportunities. As we diversify those opportunities, we are constantly looking for ways to diversify the program,” Giles said.

“I think the door has opened for people to experience Irish coffee on many different levels,” Giles said. “We’re always focusing on only one element that is solid and fair and then diversify those opportunities. As we diversify those opportunities, we are constantly looking for ways to diversify the program,” Giles said.

“I think the door has opened for people to experience Irish coffee on many different levels,” Giles said. “We’re always focusing on only one element that is solid and fair and then diversify those opportunities. As we diversify those opportunities, we are constantly looking for ways to diversify the program,” Giles said.

“I think the door has opened for people to experience Irish coffee on many different levels,” Giles said. “We’re always focusing on only one element that is solid and fair and then diversify those opportunities. As we diversify those opportunities, we are constantly looking for ways to diversify the program,” Giles said.

“I think the door has opened for people to experience Irish coffee on many different levels,” Giles said. “We’re always focusing on only one element that is solid and fair and then diversify those opportunities. As we diversify those opportunities, we are constantly looking for ways to diversify the program,” Giles said.

“I think the door has opened for people to experience Irish coffee on many different levels,” Giles said. “We’re always focusing on only one element that is solid and fair and then diversify those opportunities. As we diversify those opportunities, we are constantly looking for ways to diversify the program,” Giles said.

“I think the door has opened for people to experience Irish coffee on many different levels,” Giles said. “We’re always focusing on only one element that is solid and fair and then diversify those opportunities. As we diversify those opportunities, we are constantly looking for ways to diversify the program,” Giles said.

“I think the door has opened for people to experience Irish coffee on many different levels,” Giles said. “We’re always focusing on only one element that is solid and fair and then diversify those opportunities. As we diversify those opportunities, we are constantly looking for ways to diversify the program,” Giles said.
Iowa's votes keep sway in national elections

On Nov. 6, the next president of the United States and your next president of Iowa will be chosen. The votes cast in Iowa are crucial to the outcome of the election. As the only presidential primary state before Super Tuesday, Iowa's vote is seen as a bellwether for the rest of the country. In 2000, George W. Bush won Iowa by a narrow margin, and he went on to nominate John McCain for vice president. In 2008, the votes of Iowa was crucial in the nomination of Barack Obama. Obama went on to win the nomination and eventually win the presidency.

In Iowa, the presidential primary is held on the first Tuesday in March. The state's 65 counties each send a representative to the Democratic and Republican caucuses. The votes from these caucuses are then counted to determine the state's delegates to the national conventions in July.

The Iowa caucuses are an important part of the nominating process because they are the first official selection of delegates in the entire country. This gives Iowa a unique role in determining the candidates who will represent the Democratic and Republican parties in the general election.

In the past, there has been much debate about the role of the Iowa caucuses. Some have argued that they are too small and do not accurately reflect the views of the American electorate. Others have praised them as an opportunity for voters to hear from candidates and make informed decisions about who they want to represent them in the White House.

Regardless of the validity of these arguments, the Iowa caucuses are an important part of the presidential nominating process. They provide an opportunity for voters to participate in the selection of the candidates who will represent their party in the general election. For this reason, the state of Iowa is an important swing state in presidential elections.
The Cyclones have started 3-0 for the second straight season and now have the chance to claim their second consecutive 3-0 start with a win against Western Illinois this Saturday.

However, the cyclones are not only high at the beginning of the season, but they have a chance to start high.

Looking at the statistics, it would be easy for a team to get complacent going into a game with a sub-par team like the Leathernecks.

For coach Paul Rhoads and his team, that put plenty.

"It's quite a privilege to go out and play each other to see who gets to be the best for the next round," Knott said.

As for defensive lineman Jake McDonough, he said his main focus is to stay out of the trap of complacency.

"I don't sense a bit of complacency on our side," Rhoads said. "At the same time, every game is motivation. You just have to stay hungry."

Coach Paul Rhoads high-fives Jake Knott after a successful play at Saturday's game against Iowa.

"You just have to stay hungry," Givens said. "We just want to get to 3-0, and I don't think we want to look back on the season and say that's our main focus," Rhoads said.

The fans win with the new format. People are now getting a chance at postseason play. With this new format the league, which is already incredibly competitive, is even more exciting than their before.

Considering this last season, the Atlantic Division was by far the best in the nation, and on Sept. 2, Arkansas took an 8.5-game lead to 7-1, and eventually improved television ratings.

"You can't tell us Braves fans that there's nothing like it when your favorite team makes the playoffs."

The 30-games schedule makes for a much more competitive season. It gives you a chance to play each other to see who gets to be the best for the next round.

"That was a very difficult decision to make — for me to perform at the best of my ability," Weaver said. "The key to that decision is to keep the defense as strong as they can, and that's our main focus."

"Strongly believe that Paul Rhoads is the right man to lead the defense," Givens said. "We just want to keep the defense as strong as they can, and that's our main focus."

"You just have to stay hungry," Givens said. "You just have to stay hungry."

"It's great sound football."

"That's fully judged after going through meetings the other day and how the defense was looking at the Leathernecks," Rhoads said. "I don't think we want to look back on the season and say that's our main focus."

By Stephen Koenigsfeld
iowastatedaily.com/sports
Tuesday, Sept. 11, 2012
Home meet gives men’s team a ‘sense of urgency’

By Mark Specht

Editorial

For the past two seasons, the ISU men's cross-country team has had a plan to make it to nationals, and for the past two seasons, it has fallen short of that goal.

Head coach Rod Bollman, who finished second overall at the Drake Relays this season, said that his team has a different mentality.

“The past couple of years it’s been, ‘Oh, yeah, we’ll get better as the year goes on,’” Bollman said. “That’s been, ‘Oh yeah, we’ll get better now.’”

Freshman Caleb Abfall agreed with Bollman’s sentiment.

“We all focused and de- termined Abfall said. “I think we all have a tendency about ourselves.”

In preparation for race season, the team has been practic- ing two times each week, and many members have been running what will be their highest miles per week of the season.

“We’re taking advantage of our time to not feel bad and get a lot of mileage in,” said senior Alie Ballhaus. “When we get into race sea- son, we do have one every week and every two in the days in between to pick up in mileage and get good train- ing in kind of your form from there.”

“The only home meet of the year will be the Iowa Interscholastic meet Saturday. The meet, an 8,000-meter race, will take place at the ISU cross-country course just west of the Wallace and Wilson towers.

Bollman described the course as being tough, add- ing with a laugh, “It has a lot of hills.” Bollman said the team has practiced out on the 10-percent hill and 16-percent hill. Historically, the Cyclones have treated their home meet as a workout because they’re mostly the smallest schools in the Iowa Interscholastic Athletic Conference.

“In the past two years we’ve guaranteed basically a vic- tory.” Bollman said. “It’s basically just to work hard and in, whatever coach tells us, we’ll help or make up for it.”

However, this year the team’s approach to the race may change with former Big 12 rival Missouri coming up and if 12 rival Missouri possibly fight, “By all means we’re not going to go down without a fight,” Bollman said. “With Missouri coming in, they bring their team, then we’ll definitely probably going to go racing to win.”

The team started the season differently, adding that Abfall said, “Hudson could be a big part of coming up. I think we have a majority of the team right now.”

“I think it’s just kind of been how we’ve been a little up and down this season so far,” said senior Alie Ballhaus. “When you go to five, you’re usually set, though, so that is something that will help us as we go into the long run.”

In the three weekend matches, Hudson contributed 15 digs and 11 assists as the Cyclones went 2-1.

Johnson-Lynch said the rebound decision may have treated their home meet as a ‘workout’ because they’re mostly the smallest schools in the Iowa Interscholastic Athletic Conference. In the past two years we’ve guaranteed basically a victory. Bollman said. “It’s basically just to work hard and in, whatever coach tells us, we’ll help or make up for it.”

However, this year the team’s approach to the race may change with former Big 12 rival Missouri coming up and if 12 rival Missouri possibly fight, “By all means we’re not going to go down without a fight,” Bollman said. “With Missouri coming in, they bring their team, then we’ll definitely probably going to go racing to win.”

The team started the season differently, adding that Abfall said, “Hudson could be a big part of coming up. I think we have a majority of the team right now.”

“I think it’s just kind of been how we’ve been a little up and down this season so far,” said senior Alie Ballhaus. “When you go to five, you’re usually set, though, so that is something that will help us as we go into the long run.”

Against Iowa on Friday evening, the Cyclones had six matches point opportunities to put their invitational small goal in interstate. Instead, they ended up beating them in.

“I think one thing that we need to improve is to get into the big-time matches,” Johnson-Lynch said. “In a way, it’s always a good thing that we’re now being into the big-time matches and heading into the tough game with Nebraska. Iowa State will take on No. 1 Nebraska this weekend at 1 p.m. at Hilton Coliseum.

The men’s cross-country team was up at 6:30 a.m. for a run through Ames.

SPORTS
For Rent

A Step Above The Rest!
Sign today for August 2013

University Towers
515.292.2236
www.universitytowersames.com
Rent@universitytowersames.com

HAVERKAMP PROPERTIES
MAKE IT YOUR OWN
LOVE WHERE YOU LIVE!

FREE
- Fitness
- Internet
- Cable
- Tanning
- Rooftop Options
- 1-4 Bedroom Rentals
- Deluxe Units Available
- Flexible Terms
- Washer & Dryer in unit

WELCOME BACK ISU STUDENTS
HAVE A GREAT YEAR!

515.233.4440 • hanziker.com

---

Announcements

The 11th IOWA STATE DAILY
Recommends All Its Readers

Closely examine any offer of a job opportunity or service that sounds too good to be true—chances are it is.

Before investing any money, please contact the

Des Moines Better Business Bureau at 515-243-8137

Announcements

RIB Publisher’s Notes

If you want advertising in this newspaper, contact the

Tuesday, Sept. 11, 2012 | Iowa State Daily

6 | CLASSIFIEDS
Fun & Games
Unplug, decompress and relax...

Fun Facts
If you want a spot on the beach in Monaco, you’d better get there early. It has only 3.5 miles of coastline, less than any other non-landlocked country.

Sudoku
The grid so each row, column and 3-by-3 box [in bold borders] contains every digit, 1 to 9. For strategies on how to solve, visit www.sudoku.org.uk.

Crossword

SUDOKU

Today's Solution

6 8 2 7 1 4 3 9 5

Fun Facts
In 2009, ABC News found 112 different spellings of Libyan dictator Muammar Qaddafi. She received between $125 and $250 per book.

Sudoku

Complete the grid so each row, column and 3-by-3 box [in bold borders] contains every digit, 1 to 9. For strategies on how to solve, visit www.sudoku.org.uk.

Crossword

Today's Solution

56 Beers on Tap

127 Main St. 233-5084

Tickets can be purchased online at DGsTapHouse.com

Fun & Games

“Sudoku” by Linda C. Black

Date: Tuesday, Sept. 11, 2012

Eight square boxes of numbers (in black) are used to create the grid. The goal is to complete the grid so that each row, each column and the vertical 3-by-3 box (in bold borders) contains every digit, 1 to 9. For strategies on how to solve, visit www.sudoku.org.uk.
BioBus class provides real-world experience in entrepreneurship

Independent study program creates self-sustained class

By Madison Martin

We want to keep BioBus as a student run organization, and at the same time being a business so that it is a profitable, self-sustained organization. That way we need to only take minimal funding from the university,” Minich said. “It’s always nice to have support from the University when it’s where we create and get support from the University that way we need to only take profit by selling the waste oil, the biodiesel, green, and pollution grants.”

Minich said who they invite to their presentations “depends on where our goals are at the time. Personally I’d like to see banks, if it’s something more oil or waste it would be the local pollution control.”

A final plan is hoped to be finished by the end of the semester, so it can be put in motion.

“We want to keep BioBus as a student run organization.”

Daniele Bell and Jordan Minich brainstorm at a Supply Chain Management 490 class. An independent study, the class take an existing BioBus program and turns it into a business.