10-8-2014

Iowa State Daily (October 8, 2014)

Iowa State Daily

Follow this and additional works at: http://lib.dr.iastate.edu/iowastatedaily_2014-10

Part of the Higher Education Commons, and the Journalism Studies Commons

Recommended Citation
http://lib.dr.iastate.edu/iowastatedaily_2014-10/7

This Book is brought to you for free and open access by the Iowa State Daily, 2014 at Iowa State University Digital Repository. It has been accepted for inclusion in Iowa State Daily, October 2014 by an authorized administrator of Iowa State University Digital Repository. For more information, please contact digirep@iastate.edu.
Student's drone provides new opportunity for company
By Sarah Muller
#wasundaydaily.com

Some may say it’s a bird or a plane, but senior Al McNeil can proudly claim it’s his drone. An employee of Peoples Company, a real estate company and landlord brokerage, McNeil built a quadcopter with a camera over various properties and areas of land. “The farmers” absolutely love me coming out there and flying over the farms,” McNeil said. He acquired the idea to create a drone for a similar platform that Reddit provides all the content, showcases what is new and popular on the internet. Users of Reddit can add their own events onto the front page. When the page is refreshed, links with new content are added to the top and the most votes remain at the top. “There are thousands of events on that page every day,” McNeil noted. After a career lift, McNeil approached the company about using that potential need for a drone, but it turned out they had already been investigating the feasibility of using one.

Up to that point, Peoples Company used planes to take aerial shots of the properties and had been considering using a drone since last spring. They asked McNeil to use them and he began his work with an internship immediately after classes finished in May. “It’s pretty cool to fly in the sky with an airplane, you don’t have to get pilot’s licenses and you can fly over it,” McNeil said. “You can get to locations that are difficult to access.”

In order for this app to be interactive, On the agricultural side, it allows farmers to view trails, waterways, gullies, erosion, and crop progression.

In order for this app to be -

Student's drone provides new opportunity for company
By Sarah Muller
#wasundaydaily.com

A new app will show ISU students which events they may want to attend.

Terhall/Iowa State Daily

The app is designed like Reddit and the three guys from Brown, who attended Brown University last year. “They developed this platform in their freshman year. It’s kind of a big success at Brown,” said Terhall. “My roommate from my summer internship this year know one of the guys who founded it, and told me about it. I talked and worked with the guys. Then, the end of the summer, worked with him pretty closely and developed it from there. In order for this app to be successful, you need to work with a lot of different people be involved in it.”

“We’re working mainly with the three guys from Brown,” McNeil said. “I’ve worked with people inside GH. I’m currently working with

I’ve worked with people inside GH. I’m currently working with

New student-made app keeps campus updated on events
By Oscar Alvarez
#wasundaydaily.com

Iowa State University.

“This is still an ongoing investigation,” she said. “As we are still in the process of gathering information and con-

Iowa State University.

“This is still an ongoing investigation,” she said. “As we are still in the process of gathering information and con-

Iowa State University.

“This is still an ongoing investigation,” she said. “As we are still in the process of gathering information and con-

Iowa State University.

“This is still an ongoing investigation,” she said. “As we are still in the process of gathering information and con-

Iowa State University.

“This is still an ongoing investigation,” she said. “As we are still in the process of gathering information and con-

Iowa State University.

“This is still an ongoing investigation,” she said. “As we are still in the process of gathering information and con-

Iowa State University.

“This is still an ongoing investigation,” she said. “As we are still in the process of gathering information and con-

Iowa State University.

“This is still an ongoing investigation,” she said. “As we are still in the process of gathering information and con-

Iowa State University.

“This is still an ongoing investigation,” she said. “As we are still in the process of gathering information and con-

Iowa State University.

“This is still an ongoing investigation,” she said. “As we are still in the process of gathering information and con-

Iowa State University.

“This is still an ongoing investigation,” she said. “As we are still in the process of gathering information and con-

Iowa State University.

“This is still an ongoing investigation,” she said. “As we are still in the process of gathering information and con-

Iowa State University.

“This is still an ongoing investigation,” she said. “As we are still in the process of gathering information and con-

Iowa State University.

“This is still an ongoing investigation,” she said. “As we are still in the process of gathering information and con-

Iowa State University.

“This is still an ongoing investigation,” she said. “As we are still in the process of gathering information and con-

Iowa State University.

“This is still an ongoing investigation,” she said. “As we are still in the process of gathering information and con-

Iowa State University.

“This is still an ongoing investigation,” she said. “As we are still in the process of gathering information and con-

Iowa State University.

“This is still an ongoing investigation,” she said. “As we are still in the process of gathering information and con-

Iowa State University.

“This is still an ongoing investigation,” she said. “As we are still in the process of gathering information and con-

Iowa State University.

“This is still an ongoing investigation,” she said. “As we are still in the process of gathering information and con-

Iowa State University.

“This is still an ongoing investigation,” she said. “As we are still in the process of gathering information and con-

Iowa State University.

“This is still an ongoing investigation,” she said. “As we are still in the process of gathering information and con-

Iowa State University.

“This is still an ongoing investigation,” she said. “As we are still in the process of gathering information and con-

Iowa State University.

“This is still an ongoing investigation,” she said. “As we are still in the process of gathering information and con-

Iowa State University.
Weather

Weather

WEDNESDAY Late night showers and partly cloudy throughout the day. 65 46

THURSDAY Partly cloudy. 60 39

FRIDAY Partly cloudy and cooler. 58 37

Weather provided by ISU Meteorology Club.

Police Blotter

Foul play.

Police Blotter

Wednesday Oct. 8, 2014

Weather

- Late night showers and partly cloudy throughout the day.
- Partly cloudy.
- Partly cloudy and cooler.

Weather provided by ISU Meteorology Club.

SNAPSHOT

Picnicking relax on Central Campus this week

Online Content

BIG 12

Power rankings

Week six of college football is in the books and the Big 12 season is well underway. The conference looks strong as usual but one surprising team has emerged in the form of the Oklahoma State Cowboys. The Cowboys have knocked off Big 12 powerhouses and currently sit at 5-0. This weekend they’ll face off against the Sooners in Oklahoma City. Check out the latest Big 12 Power Rankings online or on the app.

FOOTBALL

ISU secondary hitting its stride

The ISU secondary has picked off quarterback in three straight games, including two against Oklahoma State. Head coach Paul Rhoades credits maturity and the team’s ability to play the fundamentals on the rise of ISU’s secondary.

GOLF

Women take third place

The ISU women’s golf team took third place at its 18-team tournament in Illinois this week. The Cyclones were competing against four top-10 teams. Check out the sports section of the Daily’s website to read all five sports sections from the Daily.

OPINION

Celebrities who didn’t use their degrees

In his piece, columnist Mary configurations argues that students should be more realistic in their career goals because it’s not always possible to make it in Hollywood. He also mentioned a study that showed 50% of successful people didn’t use their degrees.

TOP 5 student made apps

A GB student got a new calendar app started for the ISU campus. After reading the Daily’s story, go online or check out the app because it’s a very useful tool.

Corrections

In Tuesday’s article “Deam’s stealth move ahead, with 6:2-12” the writer made an incorrect statement. The cheerleader cap was actually worn by a student, not by a football player.

© Copyright 2014 • Iowa State Daily Publication Board

Follow us for exclusive savings and specials!

lincoln center
drugstore
610 Lincoln Way 230-1961
500 Main Street 233-9850
west lincoln way
3800 West Lincoln Way 293-5943

IOWA STATE DAILY
The Who Needs Feminism campaign has made its way to Iowa State, and it is here to stay.

The campaign was started in 2012 at Duke University by 16 students in Professor Rachel Seidman’s course Women in the Public Sphere. The Margaret Sloss Women’s Center has been participating in the Who Needs Feminism campaign for nearly three years.

The campaign was brought to Iowa State shortly after coming into existence by graduate students at the Women’s Center.

The campaign features participants writing why they need feminism and taking a photo of themselves and their statement. The photo is then posted on social media.

By publicly stating why they need feminism, people have the ability to promote the movement in a passive yet positive manner.

The goal of the campaign is to debunk any misconceptions or stereotypes of feminism and promote the movement in a positive manner.

Ashley Maitland, graduate assistant at the Women’s Center, said it’s not just about promoting feminism, but it’s also about understanding it.

“People on campus or within the community can express what feminism means, and they can reveal very different and personal things for everyone,” Maitland said. “It’s more about hearing individual voices about [what] their personal feminisms are.”

Sindhuja Ram, senior in advertising, believes that feminism is necessary and that it shouldn’t be seen as a negative movement.

“I think women try to avoid being identified as a feminist because it’s always had negative connotations in the past,” Ram said. “But it’s 2014, and you’re not supposed to be submissive about common human rights.”

One popular myth about feminism is that it is only meant for women. Maitland says that is not true, and the campaign works to fix that stereotype.

“We’ve had many identities involved with this,” Maitland said. “There are many identities involved with our campaign, as well as a lot of different racial identities.”

The Women’s Center does not promote the campaign but rather gives it an undemanding presence on campus.

“We won’t have a program dedicated to it,” Maitland said. “It’s just more passively involved in everything that we do.”

Maitland said that Iowa State’s involvement so far has been small, but the results have been encouraging.

William Huskisson, sophomore in industrial design, sees the campaign as a positive one.

“I think it should be moved forward,” Huskisson said. “[Women feel] pressure by men’s standards then that should end.”

Huskisson says he has not been well-informed on the issue.

Ram said she believed there should be more widespread promotion on the campaign to better inform people.

“I think if you educate rather than preach at people, it would get a positive result,” Ram said. “Especially on college campuses, since it’s the prime spot to get women involved before they venture out into the world.”

Maitland hopes that there will be a greater involvement by the student body in years to follow and encourages people to reach out.

“This campaign is open for anyone who wants to have their voice be heard,” Maitland said.

Students can participate in the campaign by going to the Women’s Center or by signing up on its website.
Rick Stewart is trying to break into the political conversation in Iowa one tweet at a time.

"The reason for the bike is that you're trying to create a brand. We've done extremely well," said Stewart.

"It's a marketing tool," said Hanna.

The bikes would be a way for Stewart to create a brand for his message. "There is a need to add more money to the Capital Improvement Plan for the Industrial Expansion of Ames and surrounding areas," said Dan Culhane with the Ames Economic Development Commission.

"It seems that there is a need for some kind of prioritization services from the police officers that may be due to the fact that we have more crimes taking place near the downtown area," said Donna Lourenco.

"We are able to pick up on trends that have been identified in other college towns in terms of student housing construction that has been poorly done," said Guber.

"The college gives them financial aid for $5,000, and then from the college you pay only $1,000," said Stewart.

"It's a very strange sandbox game," said Stewart. "I slacked off in my college, I slacked off in my business, when he had an opportunity, he went out and did something else. Business is business, when he had an opportunity, he went out and did something else."

"Here's an example: a student comes and talks to the city council and says, 'we need more inspectors for traffic in Ames.'"}

"Parents and students have to pay as much as they can. That's a very eccentric way of getting what you want. You can't jaywalk across all 99 counties during the winter."

"It's a very strange sandbox game," said Stewart.

"I entertain myself easily and have a lot of free time for Stewart was a chair, instead of on the ballot."

"It's a political campaign. Stewart has taken to the 'sandbox game' on Twitter. He has worked hard to ask friends and relatives to follow him on the social media website. It is where they have concentrated their group energy, believing that it could work."

"Maybe the independent candidate, the third party, the environmental candidate, the non-fanatic candidate, the pro-bicycle candidate, the pro-something else candidate, the non-voter candidate, the anti-establishment candidate, the non-voter candidate, the anti-anything else candidate, the anti-anything-else candidate, the anti-establishment candidate, the anti-establishment candidate."

"The reason for the bike is that you're trying to create a brand. We've done extremely well," said Stewart.

"That's not something that can be ignored," said Hanna.

"It's a political campaign. Stewart has taken to the 'sandbox game' on Twitter. He has worked hard to ask friends and relatives to follow him on the social media website. It is where they have concentrated their group energy, believing that it could work."

"Biking is a great, quirky way to meet people," said Stewart. "Most candidates are on a bus or a limo. This will get people and the media to take on the political conversation in a different way."

"Parents and students have to pay as much as they can. That's a very eccentric way of getting what you want. You can't jaywalk across all 99 counties during the winter."
LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Re-elect du Bruanstad, Reynolds

By Jon Lynch, chairman

Iowa State Daily

Students’ education degrees prove to be about much more than their field of study

By Sean McGuire

We take all of the aptitude tests available, as well as our likes and dislikes. We then choose which college to go to, knocking at the door. We had something to belong to. We're all familiar with the feeling of being part of something larger than yourself that you can’t have a good time in, about enjoying your time in. One friend of mine wrote that college made climate change and health care insurance.

Sure, ideally everyone should be informed about the candidates to vote for, and the political platforms with which they agree. However, an independent voter may vote for a candidate that agrees with their views. This is a very common practice in Iowa. In the 2012 study done by the Pew Research Center asked Democrats, Republicans and Iowans to name one or more reasons they believe that they are better qualified than the other two candidates to speak in Iowa. In

The Daily encourages discussion but does not guarantee its accuracy. Feedback posted online is eligible for print in the Iowa State Daily. Online feedback may be used if first name and last name, major and year in school are included in the post. Feedback posted

Students are lucky to have Governor Branstad and Governor Reynolds in office; two candidates running for election who have a lot of supporters and have made Iowa stronger. The number of most independent voters is large, and we all like our options. We take all of the aptitude tests available, as well as our likes and dislikes. We then choose which college to go to, knocking at the door. We had something to belong to. We're all familiar with the feeling of being part of something larger than yourself that you can’t have a good time in, about enjoying your time in. One friend of mine wrote that college made climate change and health care insurance.
Soccer coach Tony Minatta stands with his dog tags and Navy achievement medal at the Cyclone Sports Complex on Tuesday. Minatta served in the Marines before taking the coaching job at Iowa State.

Minatta’s leadership translates through coaching

By Tony Alessio
W@iowastatedaily.com

“With uncertainly out of high school, Tony Minatta didn’t know what he wanted to do after he graduated. As a kid, Minatta always enjoyed playing with army men and building ‘tents’ with the other children in Fort Collins, Colo. He was always drawn to the military. “I ended up in a very roundabout way,” Minatta said. “I was to train my team to go on and fight in combat, so I served as an Infantry Marine, 13 months of which he spent at sea. When Minatta got back to America, his father, who was the head of the soccer club at Fort Collins, asked if he was interested in coaching. Minatta said yes, and went to the Marine Corps the spring after my senior year of high school.”

Minatta said he spent four years as an infantry Marine, 13 months of which he spent at sea. “For me, I missed the camaraderie and the leadership of being in the Marine Corps,” Minatta said. “I was given kind of an obstacle, so there was a focus on regimented. Minatta taught me how to remain in a leadership role. He said one thing that and problem solving as a team. I really enjoyed it.”

Sophomore Madi Ott said Minatta’s military background affects his coaching in a positive way. “He’s tough and hard on us, which you’d expect out of a Marine, but he knows the right buttons to push to bring us together — the ones to motivate,” Ott said. “We all have a lot of respect for the things he did while he was in the Marine Corps.”

Willer and Ott are both from Fort Collins, Colo., so they have been associated with Minatta for a long time, and they both have been shaped as soccer players through his leadership. “Minatta’s truthfulness in really what has helped me grow — honesty about what I am, if I played well or if I didn’t and knowing that and not being afraid to bare it all,” Ott said.

Minatta still teaches some military techniques that he learned in boot camp on his practices. He said it’s a lot about discipline, structure and being regimented. “He’s someone who has that and problem solving as a team. I really enjoyed it.”

Minatta’s military background affects his coaching in a positive way. “He’s tough and hard on us, which you’d expect out of a Marine, but he knows the right buttons to push to bring us together — the ones to motivate,” Ott said. “We all have a lot of respect for the things he did while he was in the Marine Corps.”

Willer and Ott are both from Fort Collins, Colo., so they have been associated with Minatta for a long time, and they both have been shaped as soccer players through his leadership. “Minatta’s truthfulness in really what has helped me grow — honesty about what I am, if I played well or if I didn’t and knowing that and not being afraid to bare it all,” Ott said.

Minatta still teaches some military techniques that he learned in boot camp on his practices. He said it’s a lot about discipline, structure and being regimented. “He’s someone who has
Breakfast of champions

Eat breakfast to stay fit, focused, and healthy.

STUDYING Breakfast of champions

NUTRITIONIST Elizabeth Bernal, senior in dietetics at Iowa State University, said breakfast is the most important meal of the day because it maintains a healthy calorie burn and fills your body with nutrients you need for your brain to function properly.

“Skipping breakfast is not an effective way to achieve weight loss because it leads to longer eating later in the day,” Bernal said.

1. Whole-grain bread, such as wheel biscuits, muffins or bran
2. Oatmeal or bran flakes
3. Cereal with milk or juice
4. Smoothie
5. Yoghurt or fruits

HEALTHY BREAKFAST IDEAS

• Whole-wheat loaf or whole-grain bread
• Muffins, scones, bran
• Muesli, bran flakes, oats
• Yoghurt with fruits and nuts

FACTS ABOUT BREAKFAST

• Breakfast breaks the overnight fast, replenishing your supply of glucose and other essential nutrients.
• Skipping breakfast reduces energy levels. Those who skip breakfast are significantly heavier than those who eat breakfast.
• Skipping breakfast can increase chances of developing diabetes.
• Breakfast is the single most important meal for performance.

PILL ABUSE HAUNTS STUDENTS’ STUDY HABITS

STUDYING

By Emily Engh

Pill abuse haunts students’ study habits

Students are suggested to eat a healthy and successful breakfast, even if it’s just a fast bowl of cereal leftover, expired or unused in the classroom.

By doing so, your body will have plenty of glucose which will help you keep your energy levels up and metabolism active. Also, by eating breakfast, you will be combing your biological clock with the body’s natural rhythm. Morning reduces the risk of glucose.

Not only may a healthy breakfast each morning reduce the risk of contracting common illnesses, but breakfast will help combat low mental performance and help you succeed in the classroom.

Where the body is pushing out its blood sugar, mentally and physically, the immune system is stressed and found incapable of fighting off illness and therefore keep energy levels up.

To take the extra few minutes in the morning to do a small thing that will help preserve your health, take time for breakfast every morning to eat a well-balanced and healthy diet.

All of this is possible by starting your day with breakfast each morning.

COMMON REASONS FOR DRUG ABUSE

• To get focused or to help them pull all nighters this upcoming week and continue to fight off illness and therefore keep energy levels up.
• To avoid common illnesses.
• To help you succeed in the classroom.

FACTS ABOUT BREAKFAST

• Breakfast breaks the overnight fast, replenishing the supply of glucose and other essential nutrients.
• Skipping breakfast reduces energy levels. Those who skip breakfast are significantly heavier than those who eat breakfast.
• Skipping breakfast can increase chances of developing diabetes.
• Breakfast is the single most important meal for performance.

DEALING WITH ADDICTION

1. Microsizing prescriptions for OXI approved
2. Verifying prescriptions
3. Only filling prescriptions for a friend, may have a problem with prescription drugs should seek out help through local drug prevention programs and school counseling centers.

ADDERALL

- Brings sense of concentration and motivation
- Can be abused by high, lowercase and makes one feel invincible
- Can lead to death without getting out from

COCAINE

- Quick high
- Fast action
- More than 40,000 deaths from

Facts about breakfast

By Emily Engh

Pill abuse haunts students’ study habits

Students are suggested to eat a healthy and successful breakfast, even if it’s just a fast bowl of cereal leftover, expired or unused in the classroom.

By doing so, your body will have plenty of glucose which will help you keep your energy levels up and metabolism active. Also, by eating breakfast, you will be combing your biological clock with the body’s natural rhythm. Morning reduces the risk of glucose.

Not only may a healthy breakfast each morning reduce the risk of contracting common illnesses, but breakfast will help combat low mental performance and help you succeed in the classroom.

Where the body is pushing out its blood sugar, mentally and physically, the immune system is stressed and found incapable of fighting off illness and therefore keep energy levels up.

To take the extra few minutes in the morning to do a small thing that will help preserve your health, take time for breakfast every morning to eat a well-balanced and healthy diet.

All of this is possible by starting your day with breakfast each morning.

COMMON REASONS FOR DRUG ABUSE

• To get focused or to help them pull all nighters this upcoming week and continue to fight off illness and therefore keep energy levels up.
• To avoid common illnesses.
• To help you succeed in the classroom.

FACTS ABOUT BREAKFAST

• Breakfast breaks the overnight fast, replenishing the supply of glucose and other essential nutrients.
• Skipping breakfast reduces energy levels. Those who skip breakfast are significantly heavier than those who eat breakfast.
• Skipping breakfast can increase chances of developing diabetes.
• Breakfast is the single most important meal for performance.

DEALING WITH ADDICTION

1. Microsizing prescriptions for OXI approved
2. Verifying prescriptions
3. Only filling prescriptions for a friend, may have a problem with prescription drugs should seek out help through local drug prevention programs and school counseling centers.

ADDERALL

- Brings sense of concentration and motivation
- Can be abused by high, lowercase and makes one feel invincible
- Can lead to death without getting out from

COCAINE

- Quick high
- Fast action
- More than 40,000 deaths from
Today's Birthday

[...]

Your friends are about to be your true friends. Today's Total Solar Eclipse provides a perfect opportunity to show your friends what they've been missing. This eclipse (1912) is an opportunity to express yourself. Don't be afraid to let your true self shine through. This eclipse supports your vision and encourages you to follow your dreams. Keep your eye on the prize and...