The reality of DADT

The most important people in her life know, and she didn't want to extend family— including a cousin in the military to choose between reporting her to the military or keeping her secret.

The reality of DADT

Almost everyone allows military women and men to serve openly except for the United States and Turkey.

Some who support DADT have been vocal in their opposition. But almost no one has been silent. The Williams Institute at UCLA School of Law reported that over 13,000 American military veterans and their families have called the day they had to tell the woman they had known for so long who was special that the military was not going to be special to them.

Most of these stories of abuse came from women serving in the military. Women who had no choice but to stay silent. Women who had no support. Women who felt they were alone.

But the stories of abuse are not just women's stories. Men have also been subject to abuse.

But the stories of abuse are not just women's stories. Men have also been subject to abuse.

One of the first stories I heard from a former soldier was that he was told by his commanding officer that he would be killed if he came out as gay.

Another story was from a former soldier who was arrested forひとりのため pits in the military and then had to leave the service because of his sexual orientation.

And another story was from a former soldier who was taken to the hospital and then had to leave the service because of his sexual orientation.

On the day she came out to the military, she was told that she would be arrested and put in jail.

MARCH ON MISSISSIPPI

As the 50th anniversary of the March on Washington approaches, the impact of the civil rights movement continues to influence the nation’s culture. While the 1963 march was spearheaded by a generation of leaders, today’s activists have also begun to organize, raising awareness of issues such as police brutality and voting rights.

No. 21 Iowa State men rout No. 23 Illinois

The Iowa State men’s basketball team experienced its first loss of the season against Illinois, 67-61. While the team has struggled to maintain consistency this season, they have shown glimpses of their potential in games against ranked opponents.

React before catastrophe strikes once again

By Rick Hamilton ati.com

I'm not sure what is more astonishing to me. Is it the fact that after the shooting in Tucson, Ariz., the rate of convictions for gun assaults has not changed? Is it the fact that we have new gun laws, but citizens from extended families are not allowed to go hunting? Or is it the fact that the new laws won't help the 100,000 deaths in Canada where guns are legal?

I'm sure you realize that the shooting in Tucson, Ariz., has put the spotlight on gun control and especially assault weapons. The president has met with Secretariat, Congress and has finally put forth legislation to ban certain types of weapons, but that legislation has not yet been passed. The rate of violent crime has not been reduced.
opposite sex. That, coupled with a lover. That being drunk at last weekend.

I just enjoy my make myself seem like some emperor on a daily basis. I'm not trying to crippling lack of confidence or a fear choose not to. This isn't a result of a mony and match.com, online dating attended school at Iowa State.

Where'd they meet, you ask? Online. And then something magical happened. One of the most critical didn’t fail. This wasn’t an accident. It was an awesome girl who matched up with me on one of those online dating sites. I didn’t do anything special. She simply had a crush on me. Not for no real reason. I didn’t even have to make small talk to her. I wouldn’t have wanted to. But while OkCupid is a free site, I’ve been using the site for a couple months now, and I enjoy it that it’s been mostly a success.

I’ve been on the site for a couple months now, and I enjoy it that it’s been mostly a success. Despite legitimate sites like eHarmony and OkCupid, online dating is still a very viable option, though it’s simply less scary. Hiding behind a computer screen, you can evaluate the time to formulate responses and overshadows the fact that you’re going online instead of dating in real life.

But while OkCupid is a free site, even though I had honest people trying to make a connection with me. It might seem like nothing happens, but after enough dates, your profile gets a little more visible, which can create a profit for itself.

As a society, I feel that young people are changing our lives. But it’s true. As a society, I feel that many people are preferring electronic interaction because it’s simply less scary. Hiding behind a computer screen, you can evaluate the time to formulate responses and overshadows the fact that you’re going online instead of dating in real life.

China offers more imports than just toys

By Curtis Power cpower@iowastate.edu

China is generally noted for its high level of trade with the United States, but there is very little debate that the US trade deficit with China is not balanced in any meaningful way. Many politicians and business leaders in the US have been calling for a reduction in the trade deficit with China for years, but little has been achieved. In fact, the trade deficit with China has increased in recent years, despite various efforts to reduce it. Some argue that the deficit is driven by the US’s high consumption rate and low saving rate, while others argue that China’s policies contribute to the deficit. In any case, the trade deficit with China is a significant issue that will continue to be debated in the coming years.

Cyclones vie to end skid in Stillwater

By Jake Lovett

The Cyclones haven't won since November, and neither has Marcus Fizer, Jamaal Tinsley or Craig Brackins.

Friday night, Iowa State should enter a game looking to end an 11-game losing streak from last season's 8-21 campaign. The Cyclones (14-4) will take on No. 25 Oklahoma State (14-4) at 8 p.m. Wednesday at Gallagher-Iba Arena, Stillwater, Okla.

“I think after this year, playing in Stillwater, I got to be careful,” said Hoiberg.

“The coaches have been great, calling her ‘Miss Nathanson,” Harris said.

“I grew up with Lisa Nathanson,” Harris said.

“Lindsey has had a great experience over her distance sets also.”

Harris has a personal best time of 2:00.5 in the 800 meter run. She will also compete in the 1500 meter run, but she is uncertain as to whether she will run the mile.

“I don’t have the mandate to go to three-hour sentences. With us, the way we go on the air, it’s not going to be all that active,” Vanderbeken said.

To bridge the gap between spring and fall, the Cyclones have been doing some workouts on weekends.

Iowa State roster shuffles

By Jake Calhoun

Iowa State was ranked on the 141 roster as an asterisk even though he was denied in street clothes when the team came out of the tunnel at Sunday's dual meet against Minnesota.

By the time the 141-pound round came around, the Cyclones forfeited, giving six points to the Golden Gophers who won, 28-15, at Hilton Coliseum.

The Temecula, Calif., native can't be put on the mat because he has had a leg injury this season.

“Gibson, I think he's just having a tough time adjusting to Division 1 academics and athletics,” Jackson said. “He has not responded to the test and he's failing the concussion test. In both tests failing the concussion test, we can't put him out there.

The Cyclones only have one other 141-pounder, but Jackson said if he is ready, the Cyclones will put him out there. He'll be a redshirt.

Nate Carr Jr. was also absent from the starting lineup for the Cyclones, but Jackson said the reason for this was more disciplinary than anything.

“He has to be able to make several days in a row, not just one day in a row,” Jackson said of Carr Jr. “He had just been in and out of the gym recently. We have not been consistent with our single or dis. He had several injuries and I think he's just had a tough time adjusting to Division 1 academics and athletics.”

As of right now, Jackson said he has two 141-pounders, but Carr Jr., a senior, at the starter at 141-pounder. However, Jackson said he is committed to redshirting Carr Jr.

“Everything is in question right now,” as to what will happen with Carr Jr., Jackson said. “He's had several injuries and I don't know what his availability will be, but that has not been his best match. He has not responded to the test and he has had a leg injury this season.

“Simonson, a native of Algona, is a 13-0 wrestler, including 4-0 through the NCAA CIFK Keokuk National Duals, he also won the Missouri Valley meet.”

Missouri is a good team,” Jackson said. “They have some of the best in the country at the individual event, and the ISU head coaches have their work cut out for them.

“Minnesota is a good team,” Simonson said.

“Their very strong headcocker and headcocker at Minnesota as well as all the women on our team where they stand against the Big 12 and hopefully will be a great meet.”

Coach Harlan Ibars was listed on the ISU roster as an asterisk even though he was denied in street clothes when the team came out of the tunnel at Sunday's dual meet against Minnesota.

IF YOU CAN’T SKI OR SNOWBOARD WELL, YOU CAN STILL LOOK GOOD. Taking on the mountain through skiing or snowboarding as a beginner can be an intimidating experience, but you can help your image by dressing like you know what you’re doing. Exchange the Carhartt jacket just this once and slip into some of the trends of the mountain. One of the most popular mountain trends right now is neon colors. It seems that 80’s styles have come back into fashion on and off the mountain. Green gazing is another popular trend in snow gear. Clothing brands such as Patagonia use eco-friendly materials to make their gear. Other styles commonly seen on the slopes are funky patterns and designs. Many brands such as Burton make snow pants and jackets with unique designs and loud colors. Plaid jackets have also made a significant appearance. Burton gear, and other popular brands can be found at great prices at websites such as Backcountry.com, and re.com. When wearing goggles on the mountain, it is important to find ones that protect your eyes because of the high altitude of the area. Be sure to find ones that are anti-fog. Brands like Smith and Dragon make a wide variety of well-built goggles that will be sure to match your ensemble, as well as protect your eyes. The Smith goggles shown are more on the expensive side priced at $145, but you can find a reasonable prices at places such as Scheels and Sport Authority for prices under $50. The final thing needed to complete your outfit before you hit the slopes is a good hat or helmet. Helmets are no longer the traditional black and bulky look. Many brands make very trendy helmets that are extremely warm and accessorized with built in head phones, or vents to create airflow. The helmet shown is priced at $75. Finally, this year’s popular hat style for both men and women are colored bean hats, many times made from wool string. If you haven’t tried skiing or snowboarding, I recommend you give it a shot. Before doing so, be sure to get outfitted with the popular trends just in case you have a little trouble up on the slopes, you’ll at least have some good looks to back you up! Sidney Memorial Union.
