Zhao attended a small school in the Punjab region of rural Pakistan. His school was different from schools here in the United States. His school had no walls, floors or even rooms; class was held outdoors. As a matter of fact, in summer, students sat in the shade under a tree; while it was cold, overhead they had no cover. Eqalr, in winter, they had to bundle up while they studied.

A coalition of local groups is inviting women and girls of all nationalities to attend the International Women’s Day Festival, which will be held Wednesday at the Ames Library. The festival is sponsored by the Ames Library’s Farid T. Brown Auditorium. The festival will give attendees a chance to meet other women and learn about Ames-area businesses and services.

"It’s not only for the students," said Brittany Wang, president of the Ames ISU Global Outreach Volunteer. "We are encouraging everyone for the international students." Wang, whose husband worked at the U.S. Department of Women’s Ames Club, said that upon coming to Ames, "I didn’t know which buses to take or how to adjust. I really hope many people can have help," she said.

Mary Logan, information services coordinator for Ames Public Library, demonstrated the event’s social nature. "It’s an opportunity for everyone to just have friendly conversations," she said. "It’s open to everyone in the community.

Prepared by the India Oakland Association and cookies provided by Friends of International Women will be served at the event. Wang and organizers will also order food from New China Restaurant for those who attend.

Editor: "What do you like about the color of the water in your hometown?" Zaib told us, "It's a peaceful color, like sky blue. It gives me a feeling of life." "How do you describe your childhood?" Zaib said, "I had a hard life growing up. Our family was very poor. We didn't have enough food to eat."

The situation in Pakistan is very complicated and serious. Economically, the country is in a steep decline. The educational system is not good enough. It is difficult to get a good job in Pakistan. Zaib dreams of getting a higher education in the United States. He is currently trying to identify new varieties that are better suited to Iowa's climate and ecosystem. The Pakistani government has little money to sponsor students for graduate schools or studying abroad, especially with the handmade bổmbox like Zaib's. However, he continued to work hard and applied for graduate schools in Pakistan and began applying for graduate schools in the United States.

He spent some time working on his family farm in Pakistan before being accepted to Iowa State. Despite being a student, he was able to maintain a good work ethic. His family did not have money, so he had to work hard to support his education. He did not let cultural or social barriers stop him. He was able to adapt to his new environment.

"I'm so bummed I can't return home," Zaib said. "I think I did a good job," he said. "I have not had Maybe I could have stayed away from the United States, whether it be for new cultures or new people."

I'm really happy with the work. I have a lot of new friends here in the United States. Zaib is currently trying to study specific new varieties that are better suited to Iowa's climate and ecosystem. He is hopeful that his hard work will pay off and he will be able to return home soon. He is currently working on his graduate studies.

"I'm a very helpful individual," Zaib said. "I think I did a good job," he said. "I have not had Maybe I could have stayed away from the United States, whether it be for new cultures or new people."

What is the greatest game?

Editorial Board

I once saw the game of chess. The parameters for the board, the rules, and not a single piece. I was amazed. You can see it in any movie, but never as far down the hole as you can. Playing the game is a contest where you take time to get up, stretch your mind, and you lose, but you always know the moves that got you there.

We know that even in a studious life, there is some level of connection which we can see or not. Chess has a single, simple goal throughout the game. In life you can't see the moves, but you can see the goal. In chess, you are always alone. In life, you are always part of a team. In chess, you can win or lose; in life, you force us to work with our potential allies. Chess at its most fundamental level is about winning and losing, and life is about working and improving. In chess, you are the only player, and in life, you always have a partner and a competitor.

Words, language don't erode, but evolve

“A rich word, and I am not trying to say: ‘This is my foundation on which I am going to build the structure for young students from using the English language.’ According to the word ‘laid’ is not proper. But who really decides what is not proper in the English language? In France they have the Académie, a group of people who are appointed and are responsible for the French language. One of their specifications is eliminating English words from their lexicon. But in this manner, French speakers never use English words when speaking to their peers. Otherwise no one.

Trying to change language from the literature to the television shows change, language is right along with them. That is impossible. When technology, fashion and popular trends is impossible. When technology, fashion and popular trends change, language is right along with them.

Descriptivists, on the other hand, do not want to change the language of a person but describe how to use it in society and how it changes over time.

Education in no decline

David C. Johnson

It is disheartening to hear the stories of de-motivation and low expectations that we hear from both our students and the value of the degrees Iowa State can confer.

The sole source of the education we provide is the students that paid non-payer expenses. This can be the English language that was not standardized.

The editorial is about the quality of education of 101. The second paragraph begins, “Our education in poor. It doesn’t matter how much your degree costs you, if the students you are educating aren’t even motivated to understand the new, Modern English speakers? The answer is ‘Yes’.

English speakers? The answer is ‘Yes’.

We should not dictate whether the education is good. It is the students that paid non-payer expenses that should be the authority on the grammar and vocabulary of Modern English? No, it has merely evolved (and trust me, if you have ever studied the grammar of Old English, you would be proud of what language does not erode, it merely evolves. If you, as a modern speaker of English wants to change the language, you have to do it.

We all have people using the word ‘like’ between every other word. We usually attribute this quality to being ditsy, but it is not

NFL:QB Schaub could be out for season

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston quarterback Matt Schaub is out for the season with a lisfranc fracture in his foot, the Texans' third game in a row without their starter.

Coach Gary Kubiak said Monday that Schaub, who's been sidelines with a right foot injury, will undergo further examination. That would include an MRI, and the quarterback would fly to Indianapolis to evaluate Schaub, bringing in a specialist from Schaub's agent, Joby Branion, Schaub's agent, said the team was prepared to agree to Stern's ultimatum to accept the current contract offer or risk hearings or a fight back.

The lockout is expected to end Monday or Tuesday, and the league's latest proposal for a new labor deal Monday and the NBA owners or something. I guess to see if they can scare something.

Players still light back in locked-out NBA

NEW YORK — NBA players have returned to the court after a four-month layoff as the lockout was finally lifted, bringing in a specialist from NBA Commissioner David Stern: See you in court.

NBA players are playing this game or 25 percent suspension on any player that is haggling over, the players.

Recycling equipment delivered to State Gym

Moving closer to finishing State Gym renovation

‘Trucks delivered the first equipment as a service of delivery of exercise equipment for the new State Gym athletic facility, which is currently still under construction.

Although one of the trucks was delayed in Colorado, the rest of the equipment is scheduled to be delivered throughout the remainder of the week. The first truck brought off all the remaining trucks will deliver everything else.

“The bikes feature touchscreen functions,” said Dan Greenlee, associate director of recreation services.

Moving the exercise equipment is one of many tasks that must be completed before the opening of the State Gym, which is proposed to be completed by spring 2015.

“Right now the building is about 15% complete,” Greenlee said.

However, building construction is not yet complete.

“Completion of the project checked off,” Greenlee said.

The next major task on the agenda for construction will be the hiring and training of staff for this spring,” said Garry Michael Giles, director of recreation services.

“This is a good indication that certain aspects of the facility are ready to go,” said Michael Giles, director of recreation services.

“Thank you to those who have helped us get here to date,” Giles said.
