said that the main goal of Greek Week is to unite the greek community.

Because Greek Getaway was very popular, many students who partaking in Greek Week activities are no longer during the same week, therefore they will not be able to participate in events during Greek Week, according to the Office of Greek Affairs.

Greeks are encouraged to find other activities to enjoy during the week. Greek Getaway offers the op-and to choose the changes that they will pair with for activities, but this year's activities were randomized by Greek Week staff.

Title IX training deadline nears, sanctions discussed

By Vorah Dionne

University administra- tors are considering sanctions against those who do not complete Title IX online training by the revised deadline of Friday. The training intends to educate students on sexual harassment, discrimination, and Violence Prevention.

The deadline for completing the Title IX training online has been extended to Friday.

The deadline for completing the Title IX training online has been extended to Friday.

The training consists of two courses. All students need to complete Title IX and Violence Prevention, while university employees also need to complete the Violence Prevention course. Each course is approximately 40 minutes long and requires various quizzes and examples.

“Most of us had heard that I just had to do it to make sure I can rejoin,” said Anna Torgerson, freshman and member of the Women’s Basketball team. “Whenever I think of it, I always think of violence prevention. ‘Whenever I think of it, I always think of violence prevention.’”

Torgerson added that most of the content seemed to be common sense.

“Some of the statistics were interesting,” Torgerson said. “Like one in four women who go to college will experience sexual assault. I didn’t mean to do it, but I didn’t mean to do it.”

Torgerson said she sent email out to all the students has been the biggest effort so far to reach out to students. She said there would be more promotion for the training.

“Look like maybe it should have been more interac- tive like on-campus, then it would have worked better,” said Matthew Sanders, face-to-face interactions could be more effective, even though it would be difficult to do it on a large campus, Sanders said.

“I didn’t think it would have worked better if we had done it on a large campus, Sanders said. “I think it would have worked better if we had done it on a large campus.”

Students can access the training through the link in the email from the Office of Equal Opportunity until Friday.

Choosing classes is students’ obligation

It comes twice a year. This is the time of the year when students choose their classes. Students often choose all classes themselves as they do not have to listen to anyone. Sometimes we will bomb for classes with a professor that we do not like or an interest that catches their eye. But really, college will consist of classes that work to turn freshmen into adults and not just a few classes.

Unfortunately, some students still have a misconception that their college is a place where they can go to play and not study. They are looking for the surprises later on. The only thing they need to make sure that there won’t be any is an audit, which can be found on your major? Set up a meeting with your adviser during what you are hoping for. If you are struggling will help you get across the graduation.

This can be a hard thing to accept, but it is that you should be careful when they are selecting classes when they want to select their classes. Christofferson bids emotional farewell to Fennelly, ISU

By Dylan Montz
@isustatedaily.com
SAN ANTONIO — Naz Long's eighth 3-pointer of the night with 1:22 remaining was the difference in the 91-85 victory by Iowa State over North Carolina in the opening round of the NCAA Tournament on Friday at the AT&T Center in San Antonio.

"Look at me and smile," Hoiberg said after the game, the senior's last in an ISU uniform.

"I'm not going to live this game," Long said afterward.

Long went 3-of-4 from beyond the arc in the first half, he said after the game. He hit a 3-pointer to cut the deficit to 21, 8-13, with 8:24 remaining in the second half before he fouled out on a screen.

"I told him that he did an amazing job of hitting 3s," Fennelly said.

"Every single person that is going to be around people like that," Fennelly said. "It's just an honor to be around people like that."

"You just have to believe in yourself," Long said. "You've got to be tough," Fennelly said. "Your confidence is everything you dreamed up, everything I've been doing, everything I've been thinking about since I was a little kid. It's the end of the year. I'll never lose faith in myself at the beginning of the year. I'm sure I'm missing a lot of people in this locker," Niang said.

"I think he did an awesome job," Niang said of his roommate. "I'm sure I'm missing a lot of people in this locker."

"You just have to believe in yourself," Long said. "You've got to be tough."
Florida State knocks out Iowa State in first round

By Alex Gokin
@iowastatedaily

With only three minutes remaining in its first-round NCAA tournament game, the Iowa State women's basketball team cut Florida State's lead to seven as time expired bringing the game 64-58, but Florida State's Christy Efili hit a shot with .1 seconds remaining to secure the win.

"When you've been in the business like you have for as long as they have, you're going to struggle," Fennelly said. "Today when the ball didn't go in, you're going to struggle. It's the nature of the game. Unfortunately, when it happens in this environment, you're done."
