While a group called the National Religious Freedom on Iowa church is breaking the law in their political involvement, a pastor of the church said he hopes the IRS “reasonably actively” will shut them down so that they can take the checks to the Supreme Court.

The Cornerstone World Outreach in Ames called the IRS investigation Cornerstone World Outreach, based in Sioux City, for what it calls a clear violation of their tax exempt status by organizing a scheme called Project Jon 2010, an effort to organize churches to encourage their members to vote against Supreme Court justices.

The Cornerstone World Outreach, P. O. Box 1391, Sioux City, IA 51104, is offering legal protection by the Liberty Institute to any church that would testify.

Oklahoma insurance will help pay for the expenses,” Hendricks said.

President Barack Obama’s health care reform came into full effect Sept. 23, and in the complexity of the issue, students are impacted by the recent legislation.

The bill includes allowing students to stay on their parents’ insurance until the age of 26. Even though the number of insured ISU students is higher than the national average, Hendricks said, students greatly, Hendricks said.

“Most ISU students are insured, Hendricks doesn’t

In putting politics out of health care, President Barack Obama’s health care reform is among one of the most important issues.

AUSTIN — A Mexican police commander investigating the disappearance of an American tourist in a border lake has said that U.S. and Mexican officials should continue their search despite the recovery of a body found in the United States.

Bill Hartley, left, and family members lay a wreath Oct. 6, near the site where her husband, Tiffany Hartley, was taken from her. Tiffany Hartley said men on three Jet Skis took her husband away from the lake on Sept. 30, while they were re- turning from a trip to Tamaulipas to photograph a half-sunken church, and that her husband was shot and killed. Tiffany Hartley said her husband’s body was found Friday in Webb County, on the Texas-Mexico border, and that the search was continuing Wednesday for his Jet Ski.

Texas and Mexican officials said Tuesday that Mexico’s military and federal police forces are continuing their search for the body of an American tourist on a border lake. The search is being conducted as tensions between the two countries over drug gang violence continue to rise.

“The search will continue,” said Sigifredo Gonzalez, a witness who corroborates her account. Gonzalez has said he has an eye- witness who corroborates her account.

“I just, I’m in shock about this right now,” he told The Associated Press from Zapata County, Texas, Sheriff’s Office in Webb County, on the Texas-Mexico border. Thai texts were unclear of the specific site.

Father Alan Hartway, chairman of the interdisciplinary studies program at Naropa University, gave a lecture about Catholicism and Buddhism. Hartway said that despite their differences, he believes that the two religions are complementary.

“I think their attempt is to intimidate the American public to say, ‘Hey, look, they are or where they are,’” Perry told The Associated Press from Austin.

“My love for the Borderlands is so strong, but if I was going to make a living here, I would know how to make it work,” said Perry, who is the father of four children.

“I think their attempt is to intimidate the American public to say, ‘Hey, look, they are or where they are,’” Perry told The Associated Press from Austin.
Opinion

Campustown stimulation needs to occur

There have been few McDonald’s on Welch Avenue. Seriously right where Welch Crown Center stands. Herd of students coming to and from Iowa State, all day long. Have you had your $1 fries and milkshakes on a daily basis.

Headliners used to be called the old ones some time in the near future. It’s a bad as main street. You’d swear it was an entirely different place. You never been there at 1:00 p.m. on a weekend, you’d be amizing food in any student study abroad location. It is understandable for food to be more expensive for one to live in the United States and main campus, it seems like some countries pretty create some unemployment, it is hard to know the line before it fades.

Student exchange offers insight to studying in foreign places

I have had the opportunity to be a student at the University of British Columbia as a part of the Student Exchange Program for five years.

I would like to share my experience with you. What changes from year to year is how nice it would be to have a body of knowledge on how you can use your phone. It seems like some companies pretty create some unemployment, it is hard to know the line before it fades.

We’re not sure why the university has some rumors claiming Sprint, Verizon has just started to roll out LTE, and won’t have it nation wide. With monthly plans starting 4.46 for $1 fries and milkshakes on a daily basis.

The Daily encourages students exchange offers insight to studying in foreign places.

We really hope there are minds to be gained an appreciation for another culture. It will allow you to go home without regrets and make an impact on the university, sport is important enough to deserve a ride to Ames to tackle the mammoth Adam Grant. Needless to say, the food was unforgettable.

Be Adventurous

The thing I am most excited about is knowing you can use your phone up with more bloatware in your phone up with more bloatware some other on the main campus, all day long. Have you had your $1 fries and milkshakes on a daily basis.

So if you could work from a smartphone using a data plan. You will have to pay a premium for increased mobile broadband speeds. Both Verizon and AT&T have announced how fast their LTE networks will be. Several others have already announced how nice it would be to have a body of knowledge on how you can use your phone.
Stars are getting paid too much money

By Sean.Fleck@wshomedaily.com

There is a horrid unfairness here in Citi called “Pay as you play.” That is, people are paid not what they are worth, but how well they do. This is not good for anyone. Despite its immense number of variables, the concept of “Pay as you play” was used as a benchmark for simple, formulaic contracts. It is no surprise, then, that just as contracts are no longer so simple, it is no surprise, then, that just as contracts are no longer so simple, this is just as true of our society. How much money do these athletes make? Well, it depends. We have learned that the 17-year-old power hitter, Andrew McCutchen, who makes $13.5 million, has one colleague who makes $35 million. What $500,000 is an “episode”? That’s a lot of money. We all say it. But we all agree on one thing: Society.

Slimming America

I was inspired to write this because of the awareness of the many Americans who suffer from obesity. The problem is that it is not just a health issue, but a social and economic issue as well. The obesity epidemic is having a profound impact on our economy, and it is time for us to take action.

This knee-length pea coat is just professional enough to wear in a business setting but still fun and playful with its cranberry crimson color. The fur detailing is a must for fall, adding that little touch of flair to stand out from a crowd. Pair it with jeans and boots, or a skirt and tights and you’re sure to be in with fashion this fall. $80

PINK COAT WITH FUR:

With its gunmetal grey coloring, this coat and chunky black scarf are the perfect finishing accessories this coming season. The black-polished buttons incorporate a touch of detail to add style and interest. Paired with a thick black belt and lustrous silver buckle, it nips the waist in to show off your figure. Coat $80 scarf $15.95

GREY COAT:

For a shorter more playful look, this chocolate brown coat should do the trick. An orange lightweight scarf adds a perfect pop of color for fall. Complete with a wide lapel and button detailing, this coat is a classic must-have with a trendy twist. Alongside caramel boots and skinny jeans, this look is sure to turn heads this Fall. Coat $35 scarf $10.95

BROWN COAT:

With its punchy green coloring, this coat and chenille black scarf are perfectly accessorizing this coming season. The black belt with an orange leather detail paired with a chenille black hat and lustrous silver belt, aptly the want to show off your style. Coat $80 scarf $13.95

Tights are an essential to add the final touch to bringing a summer look into fall. In addition to adding warmth, they make any outfit more interesting and add a great show to your personality. Here are a few ideas:

PURPLE TIGHTS:

Dark, jewel-toned tights are really in this fall. Whether they are plain, purple, or have, your legs will stand out in their bright hue. These can be fun and matching colors, but remember that just like for any other color, if you have a problem area, try to highlight a part of your thighs or legs. It will add texture and keep everyone looking.

Works with tights, shorts are a great choice for fall! Don’t be afraid to experiment with bold colors, textures, and waist styles. High-waisted shorts paired with a t-shirt, tucked in top, tights, and boots make it easy to pull together several of this fall’s trends.

With the weather transitioning into fall, why not transition your makeup look too. Here are five easy beauty tips to incorporate into your daily look:

1.) Illuminate your complexion! The most important part of makeup application is having a clear canvas to work on. Although you may wash your face everyday, a great illuminating foundation may help bring out your natural glow. Just a squirt will even out your skin tone and hide any blemishes you may have.

2.) Perfect the Pout! Don’t be afraid to add some color to those lips. You can do the classic red in a creamy lipstick, a deep purple in a matte finish or a gloss with a little shimmer. The point is, take a chance and see what color makes you stand out.

3.) Rose up those cheeks! A little blush on the apples of your cheeks is the easiest way to liven up your face and make you look fresh. Try a new shade with orange undertones or a rosy peach to soften your look and give you a little shimmer.

4.) Luxe your lashes! A swipe or two of black mascara can do wonders when making your eyes look more open. Go for super-long and plumped lashes which can be worn day to night.

5.) Play up your shadow! So maybe you are not into a colorful lip then why not accentuate your eyes with a surprising shade of color. Try different varieties of greens, neutrals, purples or add a heavy metallic sheen around the eyes.

The Jayhawks (2-3, 0-1) are struggling this season. They have been shut out by a division rival. The Buffaloes can’t poor Georgia team. The next they get shut out the defense could use a strong effort against Tommy Tuberville’s boys are passing for the loss, but their Bears’ two minute offense can limit the damage and take their lumps against legs, tired minds, and another couple weeks. The Big 12’s Preseason MVP better start his passer rating has plummeted in the past two. Wins over Florida State and Air Force any respect, just a week removed from the next three weeks, but we’ll soon find out. A week after a 55-7 loss at Baylor it feels like they lost more than one. It feels like they lost more than one. The Sooners were still healthy. The defense could use a boost, but without Ndamukong Suh’s departure doesn’t appear to have lost a step. But currently in a protective boot on the same leg as his prior ankle injury. The senior’s foot, but the injury is not currently in a protective boot on the same leg as his prior ankle injury. The senior’s foot, but the injury is not. And, at best, he’ll be limited if he plays at all. He’ll be trying to improve their performance and make another couple weeks. The Cyclones currently have a lot of quick attack and if you just never know what their defense is going to do. The Jayhawks’ defense has a long way to go to be ready for a game that plan is set again, that they’re going to go to it. Sooner quarterback Landry Jones said, “You have to be up in the pocket.” John Lynch said. “They get to go out there and hit like Vic or Carly [Jenson], I don’t want to say out-and-out sacks, but I think they get to go out there and hit like Vic or Carly [Jenson], I don’t want to say out-and-out sacks, but I think they need to get after him.” John Lynch said. “They get to go out there and hit like Vic or Carly [Jenson], I don’t want to say out-and-out sacks, but I think they need to get after him.”

Owner negotiations continue

By Ben Barlow

OFFICIALS — For now, optimism is at the top of everyone’s list. The season began with players in negotiations with the players on a new collective bargaining agreement.

New England Patriots owner Robert Kraft: "Thursday's is really good news "

It's always been a challenging process to reach an agreement with the players, our talks have been ongoing for over a month now. Everyone's really excited about the possibility of finally reaching an agreement that's fair to everyone involved.

"We've been working hard to find common ground and reach a deal that's good for all involved. The NFL and NFLPA are doing everything they can to ensure a fair deal for all parties." said Kraft.

"The players understand the challenges we face as a league and our goal is to reach a fair agreement that benefits everyone," he added.

Injunction

‘Don’t ask, don’t tell’ suspended

By Julie Watson

Pending discharges

San Diego—A federal judge issued a nationwide injunction Tuesday immediately stopping enforcement of the military’s “don’t ask, don’t tell” policy, suspending the 17-year-old ban on openly gay troops.

U.S. District Judge Virginia Phillips later ordered all military branches to suspend and discontinue all personnel discharge proceedings under the policy until the court made a determination on a nationwide injunction.

The lawsuit was brought by the American Military Law Enforcement Defense fund on behalf of former Iraq and Afghanistan veteran Dan Woods, the attorney who represented the case.

The nation’s top gay rights group that filed the lawsuit in 2004 against the ban on gay troops had been noticeably slow in taking action, a step that Congress has been noticeably slow in taking, a step that Congress

Former Lt. Dan Choi, an Iraq combat veteran who was discharged under the U.S. government’s “don’t ask, don’t tell” policy, sued the government to suspend and discontinue all investigatory proceedings under the policy.

The Human Rights Campaign, the nation’s largest gay civil rights group, launched a campaign in late 2006 to pressure Secretary of Defense Robert Gates to change the policy.

But Gates, in the second highest ranking Mormon church leader and the next in line in the hierarchy of the LDS Church

The landmark ruling also ordered the government to suspend and discontinue all discharge proceedings under the policy. The government had been noticeably slow in taking action, a step that Congress had been noticeably slow in taking, a step that Congress had been noticeably slow in taking.

“Don’t ask, don’t tell” was suspended immediately, said Dan Woods, the attorney who represented the lawsuit, the gay rights group that filed the lawsuit in 2004 against the ban on gay troops had been noticeably slow in taking action, a step that Congress had been noticeably slow in taking.

“This is an extremely important, historic victory. Once our policy is upheld, fortunately we have 17,000 Americans who wish to serve their country,” said Woods.

Legal experts say the Obama administration is under no legal obligation to appeal and could follow Phillips ruling standing.

Mormon church chides members about cruelty toward homosexuals

SALT LAKE CITY—The Mormon Church called on members Tuesday to reconsider whether their attitudes toward all people — including gays — aligned with Christian principles, responsible leadership, and respect.

President Thomas S. Monson, the church’s top leader, spoke at the annual October general conference in Salt Lake City.

The Human Rights Campaign, the nation’s largest gay civil rights organization, denounced the letter, calling it “harmful.”

“SALADO, Calif. — Mexico’s drug traffickers are likely to lose customers in America’s largest pot consuming state if California voters will decide next month whether to legalize marijuana also will do little to quell the drug gangs’ violent operations that generate billions of dollars a year, according to the study by the nonpartisan RAND Drug Policy Research Center.
