Violence leaves chairs empty at dinner tables

By Michaela Ramm

Nearly 200 empty chairs lined the sidewalk on the lawn of Central Campus, each representing a tragedy that happened in a home in Iowa. Each of the 25 chairs, leading from the Margaret Slabaugh House to the Memorial Union, represented a person that has lost his or her life to domestic violence since January 1995.

Each individual chair has a person’s name, as well as her or his date of birth.

Leaves remain an Empty Chair at the Table program sponsored by the Iowa State University Counseling Services and the Youth Domestic Violence Coalition.

The event was sponsored by the Iowa State University Counseling Services and the Youth Domestic Violence Coalition.

The goal of the event was to spread awareness of domestic violence.

Anisa Staudtman is the Youth Domestic Violence Coalition at ACCES and said raising awareness is the best way to help others.

Leaves remain an Empty Chair at the Table program sponsored by the Iowa State University Counseling Services and the Youth Domestic Violence Coalition.

The event was sponsored by the Iowa State University Counseling Services and the Youth Domestic Violence Coalition.

The goal of the event was to spread awareness of domestic violence.

Anisa Staudtman is the Youth Domestic Violence Coalition at ACCES and said raising awareness is the best way to help others.

Leaves remain an Empty Chair at the Table program sponsored by the Iowa State University Counseling Services and the Youth Domestic Violence Coalition.

The event was sponsored by the Iowa State University Counseling Services and the Youth Domestic Violence Coalition.

The goal of the event was to spread awareness of domestic violence.

Anisa Staudtman is the Youth Domestic Violence Coalition at ACCES and said raising awareness is the best way to help others.

Leaves remain an Empty Chair at the Table program sponsored by the Iowa State University Counseling Services and the Youth Domestic Violence Coalition.

The event was sponsored by the Iowa State University Counseling Services and the Youth Domestic Violence Coalition.

The goal of the event was to spread awareness of domestic violence.

Anisa Staudtman is the Youth Domestic Violence Coalition at ACCES and said raising awareness is the best way to help others.

Leaves remain an Empty Chair at the Table program sponsored by the Iowa State University Counseling Services and the Youth Domestic Violence Coalition.

The event was sponsored by the Iowa State University Counseling Services and the Youth Domestic Violence Coalition.

The goal of the event was to spread awareness of domestic violence.

Anisa Staudtman is the Youth Domestic Violence Coalition at ACCES and said raising awareness is the best way to help others.

Leaves remain an Empty Chair at the Table program sponsored by the Iowa State University Counseling Services and the Youth Domestic Violence Coalition.

The event was sponsored by the Iowa State University Counseling Services and the Youth Domestic Violence Coalition.

The goal of the event was to spread awareness of domestic violence.

Anisa Staudtman is the Youth Domestic Violence Coalition at ACCES and said raising awareness is the best way to help others.

Leaves remain an Empty Chair at the Table program sponsored by the Iowa State University Counseling Services and the Youth Domestic Violence Coalition.

The event was sponsored by the Iowa State University Counseling Services and the Youth Domestic Violence Coalition.

The goal of the event was to spread awareness of domestic violence.

Anisa Staudtman is the Youth Domestic Violence Coalition at ACCES and said raising awareness is the best way to help others.

Leaves remain an Empty Chair at the Table program sponsored by the Iowa State University Counseling Services and the Youth Domestic Violence Coalition.

The event was sponsored by the Iowa State University Counseling Services and the Youth Domestic Violence Coalition.

The goal of the event was to spread awareness of domestic violence.

Anisa Staudtman is the Youth Domestic Violence Coalition at ACCES and said raising awareness is the best way to help others.

Leaves remain an Empty Chair at the Table program sponsored by the Iowa State University Counseling Services and the Youth Domestic Violence Coalition.

The event was sponsored by the Iowa State University Counseling Services and the Youth Domestic Violence Coalition.

The goal of the event was to spread awareness of domestic violence.

Anisa Staudtman is the Youth Domestic Violence Coalition at ACCES and said raising awareness is the best way to help others.

Leaves remain an Empty Chair at the Table program sponsored by the Iowa State University Counseling Services and the Youth Domestic Violence Coalition.

The event was sponsored by the Iowa State University Counseling Services and the Youth Domestic Violence Coalition.

The goal of the event was to spread awareness of domestic violence.

Anisa Staudtman is the Youth Domestic Violence Coalition at ACCES and said raising awareness is the best way to help others.

Leaves remain an Empty Chair at the Table program sponsored by the Iowa State University Counseling Services and the Youth Domestic Violence Coalition.

The event was sponsored by the Iowa State University Counseling Services and the Youth Domestic Violence Coalition.

The goal of the event was to spread awareness of domestic violence.

Anisa Staudtman is the Youth Domestic Violence Coalition at ACCES and said raising awareness is the best way to help others.

Leaves remain an Empty Chair at the Table program sponsored by the Iowa State University Counseling Services and the Youth Domestic Violence Coalition.

The event was sponsored by the Iowa State University Counseling Services and the Youth Domestic Violence Coalition.

The goal of the event was to spread awareness of domestic violence.

Anisa Staudtman is the Youth Domestic Violence Coalition at ACCES and said raising awareness is the best way to help others.

Leaves remain an Empty Chair at the Table program sponsored by the Iowa State University Counseling Services and the Youth Domestic Violence Coalition.

The event was sponsored by the Iowa State University Counseling Services and the Youth Domestic Violence Coalition.

The goal of the event was to spread awareness of domestic violence.

Anisa Staudtman is the Youth Domestic Violence Coalition at ACCES and said raising awareness is the best way to help others.

Leaves remain an Empty Chair at the Table program sponsored by the Iowa State University Counseling Services and the Youth Domestic Violence Coalition.

The event was sponsored by the Iowa State University Counseling Services and the Youth Domestic Violence Coalition.

The goal of the event was to spread awareness of domestic violence.

Anisa Staudtman is the Youth Domestic Violence Coalition at ACCES and said raising awareness is the best way to help others.

Leaves remain an Empty Chair at the Table program sponsored by the Iowa State University Counseling Services and the Youth Domestic Violence Coalition.

The event was sponsored by the Iowa State University Counseling Services and the Youth Domestic Violence Coalition.

The goal of the event was to spread awareness of domestic violence.

Anisa Staudtman is the Youth Domestic Violence Coalition at ACCES and said raising awareness is the best way to help others.

Leaves remain an Empty Chair at the Table program sponsored by the Iowa State University Counseling Services and the Youth Domestic Violence Coalition.

The event was sponsored by the Iowa State University Counseling Services and the Youth Domestic Violence Coalition.

The goal of the event was to spread awareness of domestic violence.

Anisa Staudtman is the Youth Domestic Violence Coalition at ACCES and said raising awareness is the best way to help others.

Leaves remain an Empty Chair at the Table program sponsored by the Iowa State University Counseling Services and the Youth Domestic Violence Coalition.

The event was sponsored by the Iowa State University Counseling Services and the Youth Domestic Violence Coalition.

The goal of the event was to spread awareness of domestic violence.

Anisa Staudtman is the Youth Domestic Violence Coalition at ACCES and said raising awareness is the best way to help others.

Leaves remain an Empty Chair at the Table program sponsored by the Iowa State University Counseling Services and the Youth Domestic Violence Coalition.

The event was sponsored by the Iowa State University Counseling Services and the Youth Domestic Violence Coalition.

The goal of the event was to spread awareness of domestic violence.

Anisa Staudtman is the Youth Domestic Violence Coalition at ACCES and said raising awareness is the best way to help others.

Leaves remain an Empty Chair at the Table program sponsored by the Iowa State University Counseling Services and the Youth Domestic Violence Coalition.

The event was sponsored by the Iowa State University Counseling Services and the Youth Domestic Violence Coalition.

The goal of the event was to spread awareness of domestic violence.

Anisa Staudtman is the Youth Domestic Violence Coalition at ACCES and said raising awareness is the best way to help others.

Leaves remain an Empty Chair at the Table program sponsored by the Iowa State University Counseling Services and the Youth Domestic Violence Coalition.

The event was sponsored by the Iowa State University Counseling Services and the Youth Domestic Violence Coalition.

The goal of the event was to spread awareness of domestic violence.

Anisa Staudtman is the Youth Domestic Violence Coalition at ACCES and said raising awareness is the best way to help others.
Student cruises through campus with canine

Ambarish Jha, observer in emergence situation systems, said the dog fung in chases taken 52 degrees and nylon. Many students have been taking advantage of days when the weather is nice.

Weekend sports schedule

FRIDAY

Cross Country at Wisconsin. Adidas Invitational, 11 a.m.
Swimming, Diving vs. South Dakota State, 6 p.m.
Soccer vs. West Virginia, 7 p.m.
Women’s golf at Stanford Intercollegiate

SATURDAY

Volleyball at Texas Tech, 10 a.m.
Swimming, Diving vs. Nebraska, 10 a.m.
Men’s golf at Gold Medal Community College, 12 p.m.
Hilton Mahoney, 6 p.m.
Football at Texas, 7 p.m.
Women’s golf at Stanford Intercollegiate

“Do you plan to register and vote early this week?”

58% say “No”

VOTE HERE

Poll numbers

Senate race

Congressman Bruce Braley and state senator Joni Ernst had a debate on Thursday night. After reading the story, go online to find out more about the debate:

Stadiums and arenas community members were able to go to the Memorial Union to vote early over registration and voting.

Calendar

Disability Awareness Summit
8 a.m. - 9:30 a.m. in the Memorial Union
The event will allow students to learn more about accessibility and opportunity for people with disabilities.

Iowa State Library at the 2014

State Board of Regents campuses and communities

Iowa State University

Dance contest: ‘Flow’
7 p.m. in Forker Building
Dance contest: ‘Flow’
7 p.m. in Forker Building
The community will have a chance to meet the men’s basketball team as well as watch a preview of the Nike LGBT Sports

Corrections

The Iowa State Daily welcomes comments and suggestions or complaints about errors that warrant correction. Please contact our editor at 515-294-4120 or via email to editor@iowastatedaily.com.
LGBT rights differ from state to state

By Chelsea Anderson
@iowastatedaily.com

Cultural Ambassador Program

LGBT rights differ from state to state

As of October 2014, these are the individual states who have begun providing licenses for same-sex marriages.

Name: Same-sex marriage is legal

Constitutional ban on same-sex marriage

By Greg Zwiebel
#Iowastatedaily.com

Same sex marriage is a popular topic today as it comes to legal rights of LGBTQ+ people. Unfortunately, many don’t see the push to expand.

There are 28 states which don’t mention sexual orientation in their non-discrimination laws and 12 that do not include gender identity, according to the Human Rights Campaign.

The U.S. Supreme Court declared same-sex marriage legal by the U.S. 4th, 10th and 7th District Courts which ruled same sex marriage bans unconstitutional in Wisconsin, Indiana, Oklahoma and Utah.

The Supreme Court’s decision did not end the debate. The Iowa Civil Rights Act prohibits discrimination “on the basis of sex, race, creed, national origin, physical or mental disability, age, or sexual orientation, but does not mention the State of Iowa discrimination laws might not have these protection under the law. Iowa is one of states – plus the District of Columbia – that has sexual orientation and gender identity listed in its anti-discrimination laws, according to the American Civil Liberties Union.

“Is it so important to me that I can’t be in a place where I can be fully authentic,” said Nicci Port, an administrative specialist in the human science department. “I would not even consider looking at a state that didn’t have those types of protections.”

Adam Guenther, president of the LGBT+ Alliance at Iowa State University said, “It is never-ending because we still can’t be open as a member of the LGBTQ+ community at job or interview to who they are.”

He also said worries about the future aspects of the program. Iowa also has anti-bullying laws that include sexual orientations and gender identity. “We’re at a higher risk of being bullied according to the CDC and bullying.gov, people who are in the Department of Health and Human Services.”

Guenther said he thinks having bullying protections for LGBTQ+ youth especially in the K-12 level is especially important because a bully sometimes happens at a young age when a person is developing themselves. “Always think it good to get a little bit specific things, I mean not that you wouldn’t deal all the bullying to be eradicated, but I think it’s good to put those specific cases actually because I don’t think anyone that sees the law, the same,” Port said.

Port said that people may not always be thinking about sexual orientation or gender identity when they are trying to prevent bullying. Sexual orientation and gender preference is not mentioned in the United States federal hate crime law.

“Then I don’t know why more states don’t have the gender expression included in these laws because you have states where people are bullied or have put campaigns to annul that because they present themselves as ways that people don’t think they should.” Port said.

Guenther said he believes there should be added penalties for people whose crimes target certain groups and that sexual orientation and gender identity should be added as a victim of violence transcontinental.

David Violence tracker published report of 1,700 reported cases of transgender violence from January 1 to April 30 2014. There are 11 states that have gender identity listed in their hate crime laws.

“I don’t know why more states don’t have the gender expression included in these laws because you have states where people are bullied or have put campaigns to annul that because they present themselves as ways that people don’t think they should.” Port said.

Guenther said he believes there should be added penalties for people whose crimes target certain groups and that sexual orientation and gender identity should be added as a victim of violence transcontinental.

Port said that people may not always be thinking about sexual orientation or gender identity when they are trying to prevent bullying. Sexual orientation and gender preference is not mentioned in the United States federal hate crime law.

“Then I don’t know why more states don’t have the gender expression included in these laws because you have states where people are bullied or have put campaigns to annul that because they present themselves as ways that people don’t think they should.” Port said.

Guenther said he believes there should be added penalties for people whose crimes target certain groups and that sexual orientation and gender identity should be added as a victim of violence transcontinental.

Port said that people may not always be thinking about sexual orientation or gender identity when they are trying to prevent bullying. Sexual orientation and gender preference is not mentioned in the United States federal hate crime law.

“Then I don’t know why more states don’t have the gender expression included in these laws because you have states where people are bullied or have put campaigns to annul that because they present themselves as ways that people don’t think they should.” Port said.

Guenther said he believes there should be added penalties for people whose crimes target certain groups and that sexual orientation and gender identity should be added as a victim of violence transcontinental.

Port said that people may not always be thinking about sexual orientation or gender identity when they are trying to prevent bullying. Sexual orientation and gender preference is not mentioned in the United States federal hate crime law.

“Then I don’t know why more states don’t have the gender expression included in these laws because you have states where people are bullied or have put campaigns to annul that because they present themselves as ways that people don’t think they should.” Port said.

Guenther said he believes there should be added penalties for people whose crimes target certain groups and that sexual orientation and gender identity should be added as a victim of violence transcontinental.

Port said that people may not always be thinking about sexual orientation or gender identity when they are trying to prevent bullying. Sexual orientation and gender preference is not mentioned in the United States federal hate crime law.

“Then I don’t know why more states don’t have the gender expression included in these laws because you have states where people are bullied or have put campaigns to annul that because they present themselves as ways that people don’t think they should.” Port said.

Guenther said he believes there should be added penalties for people whose crimes target certain groups and that sexual orientation and gender identity should be added as a victim of violence transcontinental.
Thank you Obamacare

By Michael Glawe
@iowastatedaily.com

I thought all of this could be attributed in the fact that I have ulcerative colitis (UC), a condition I was diagnosed with in high school. It’s a severe and potentially life-threatening condition that put me at a much greater risk for colon cancer. Oh, and I will stick with me for the rest of my life.

I had been off medication for a few years, which I believed was thorough research on my part. I decided I was just going to put myself on the medication, all of my problems would be solved.

My doctor ordered up some blood tests, reviewed my prescription and sent me on my way. For those who don’t know, Lialda, a common medication for UC, costs approximately $159 to $199. And that will just get me by for one month. I take pause here to encourage the reader to support any legislation that seeks to aid people who are stricken with severe health complications, think insurance companies from denying someone like me the adequate coverage to stay alive. Tens of millions of uninsured and underinsured people who have entered the exchanges can now live a safer and more secure life because of Obamacare. Premiums are much lower than expected, our deficits are projected to decline post-2016 and most importantly, people’s access to adequate care.

I had fractured my foot somehow in my hometown to consult in Ames diagnosed me Stage IV Chronic Kidney Disease (CKD). It was then that I found the subject, at least for the foreseeable future, to be all of my health problems. The pain, fatigue, the constant bettle and weight loss. A week later, I was moving my body around 150 lbs in high school. Now I am hungry and my weight had dropped from around 160 lbs. I have had no appetite for years (which was thoroughly researched). I was failing it. I was failing it. The reader to support any legislation that seeks to aid people who are stricken with severe health complications, think insurance companies from denying someone like me the adequate coverage to stay alive. Tens of millions of uninsured and underinsured people who have entered the exchanges can now live a safer and more secure life because of Obamacare. Premiums are much lower than expected, our deficits are projected to decline post-2016 and most importantly, people’s access to adequate care.

I was the constant fatigue. I was always tired, even after taking a nap – my body just wanted to sleep. Still, when I didn’t sleep, I had to take a break on the landings because I got lightheaded. People who are close to me know that I love reading and write, but I couldn’t do that either. I had fractured my foot somehow and it simply wasn’t healing.

Worst of all was the constant breathing. Because of the fatigue, I was always tired, even after taking a nap – my body just wanted to sleep. Still, when I didn’t sleep, I had to take a break on the landings because I got lightheaded. People who are close to me know that I love reading and write, but I couldn’t do that either. I had fractured my foot somehow and it simply wasn’t healing.

I felt that my body was failing me. Or, perhaps conversely, I was failing it.

I thought all of this could be attributed in the fact that I have ulcerative colitis (UC), a condition I was diagnosed with in high school. It’s a severe and potentially life-threatening condition that put me at a much greater risk for colon cancer. Oh, and I will stick with me for the rest of my life. The pain, fatigue, the constant bettle and weight loss. A week later, I was moving my body around 150 lbs in high school. Now I am hungry and my weight had dropped from around 160 lbs. I have had no appetite for years (which was thoroughly researched). I was failing it. I was failing it. The reader to support any legislation that seeks to aid people who are stricken with severe health complications, think insurance companies from denying someone like me the adequate coverage to stay alive. Tens of millions of uninsured and underinsured people who have entered the exchanges can now live a safer and more secure life because of Obamacare. Premiums are much lower than expected, our deficits are projected to decline post-2016 and most importantly, people’s access to adequate care.

I had fractured my foot somehow and it simply wasn’t healing.

Worst of all was the constant fatigue. I was always tired, even after taking a nap – my body just wanted to sleep. Still, when I didn’t sleep, I had to take a break on the landings because I got lightheaded. People who are close to me know that I love reading and write, but I couldn’t do that either. I had fractured my foot somehow and it simply wasn’t healing.

I felt that my body was failing me. Or, perhaps conversely, I was failing it.

I thought all of this could be attributed in the fact that I have ulcerative colitis (UC), a condition I was diagnosed with in high school. It’s a severe and potentially life-threatening condition that put me at a much greater risk for colon cancer. Oh, and I will stick with me for the rest of my life. The pain, fatigue, the constant bettle and weight loss. A week later, I was moving my body around 150 lbs in high school. Now I am hungry and my weight had dropped from around 160 lbs. I have had no appetite for years (which was thoroughly researched). I was failing it. I was failing it. The reader to support any legislation that seeks to aid people who are stricken with severe health complications, think insurance companies from denying someone like me the adequate coverage to stay alive. Tens of millions of uninsured and underinsured people who have entered the exchanges can now live a safer and more secure life because of Obamacare. Premiums are much lower than expected, our deficits are projected to decline post-2016 and most importantly, people’s access to adequate care.

I had fractured my foot somehow and it simply wasn’t healing.

Worst of all was the constant fatigue. I was always tired, even after taking a nap – my body just wanted to sleep. Still, when I didn’t sleep, I had to take a break on the landings because I got lightheaded. People who are close to me know that I love reading and write, but I couldn’t do that either. I had fractured my foot somehow and it simply wasn’t healing.

I felt that my body was failing me. Or, perhaps conversely, I was failing it.

I thought all of this could be attributed in the fact that I have ulcerative colitis (UC), a condition I was diagnosed with in high school. It’s a severe and potentially life-threatening condition that put me at a much greater risk for colon cancer. Oh, and I will stick with me for the rest of my life. The pain, fatigue, the constant bettle and weight loss. A week later, I was moving my body around 150 lbs in high school. Now I am hungry and my weight had dropped from around 160 lbs. I have had no appetite for years (which was thoroughly researched). I was failing it. I was failing it. The reader to support any legislation that seeks to aid people who are stricken with severe health complications, think insurance companies from denying someone like me the adequate coverage to stay alive. Tens of millions of uninsured and underinsured people who have entered the exchanges can now live a safer and more secure life because of Obamacare. Premiums are much lower than expected, our deficits are projected to decline post-2016 and most importantly, people’s access to adequate care.

I had fractured my foot somehow and it simply wasn’t healing.

Worst of all was the constant fatigue. I was always tired, even after taking a nap – my body just wanted to sleep. Still, when I didn’t sleep, I had to take a break on the landings because I got lightheaded. People who are close to me know that I love reading and write, but I couldn’t do that either. I had fractured my foot somehow and it simply wasn’t healing.

I felt that my body was failing me. Or, perhaps conversely, I was failing it.

I thought all of this could be attributed in the fact that I have ulcerative colitis (UC), a condition I was diagnosed with in high school. It’s a severe and potentially life-threatening condition that put me at a much greater risk for colon cancer. Oh, and I will stick with me for the rest of my life. The pain, fatigue, the constant bettle and weight loss. A week later, I was moving my body around 150 lbs in high school. Now I am hungry and my weight had dropped from around 160 lbs. I have had no appetite for years (which was thoroughly researched). I was failing it. I was failing it. The reader to support any legislation that seeks to aid people who are stricken with severe health complications, think insurance companies from denying someone like me the adequate coverage to stay alive. Tens of millions of uninsured and underinsured people who have entered the exchanges can now live a safer and more secure life because of Obamacare. Premiums are much lower than expected, our deficits are projected to decline post-2016 and most importantly, people’s access to adequate care.

I had fractured my foot somehow and it simply wasn’t healing.

Worst of all was the constant fatigue. I was always tired, even after taking a nap – my body just wanted to sleep. Still, when I didn’t sleep, I had to take a break on the landings because I got lightheaded. People who are close to me know that I love reading and write, but I couldn’t do that either. I had fractured my foot somehow and it simply wasn’t healing.

I felt that my body was failing me. Or, perhaps conversely, I was failing it.

I thought all of this could be attributed in the fact that I have ulcerative colitis (UC), a condition I was diagnosed with in high school. It’s a severe and potentially life-threatening condition that put me at a much greater risk for colon cancer. Oh, and I will stick with me for the rest of my life. The pain, fatigue, the constant bettle and weight loss. A week later, I was moving my body around 150 lbs in high school. Now I am hungry and my weight had dropped from around 160 lbs. I have had no appetite for years (which was thoroughly researched). I was failing it. I was failing it. The reader to support any legislation that seeks to aid people who are stricken with severe health complications, think insurance companies from denying someone like me the adequate coverage to stay alive. Tens of millions of uninsured and underinsured people who have entered the exchanges can now live a safer and more secure life because of Obamacare. Premiums are much lower than expected, our deficits are projected to decline post-2016 and most importantly, people’s access to adequate care.

I had fractured my foot somehow and it simply wasn’t healing.

Worst of all was the constant fatigue. I was always tired, even after taking a nap – my body just wanted to sleep. Still, when I didn’t sleep, I had to take a break on the landings because I got lightheaded. People who are close to me know that I love reading and write, but I couldn’t do that either. I had fractured my foot somehow and it simply wasn’t healing.

I felt that my body was failing me. Or, perhaps conversely, I was failing it.

I thought all of this could be attributed in the fact that I have ulcerative colitis (UC), a condition I was diagnosed with in high school. It’s a severe and potentially life-threatening condition that put me at a much greater risk for colon cancer. Oh, and I will stick with me for the rest of my life. The pain, fatigue, the constant bettle and weight loss. A week later, I was moving my body around 150 lbs in high school. Now I am hungry and my weight had dropped from around 160 lbs. I have had no appetite for years (which was thoroughly researched). I was failing it. I was failing it. The reader to support any legislation that seeks to aid people who are stricken with severe health complications, think insurance companies from denying someone like me the adequate coverage to stay alive. Tens of millions of uninsured and underinsured people who have entered the exchanges can now live a safer and more secure life because of Obamacare. Premiums are much lower than expected, our deficits are projected to decline post-2016 and most importantly, people’s access to adequate care.

I had fractured my foot somehow and it simply wasn’t healing.

Worst of all was the constant fatigue. I was always tired, even after taking a nap – my body just wanted to sleep. Still, when I didn’t sleep, I had to take a break on the landings because I got lightheaded. People who are close to me know that I love reading and write, but I couldn’t do that either. I had fractured my foot somehow and it simply wasn’t healing.

I felt that my body was failing me. Or, perhaps conversely, I was failing it.
OPINION

By Zoë Woods

Iowa does its part to prevent Ebola

By Zoë Woods for Iowa State Daily

Iowa State University has taken steps to prevent the Ebola virus from entering campus and spreading. This is a positive move towards ensuring the safety of all students and employees. However, it is important to note that the steps taken are precautionary and do not guarantee the absence of the virus. It is crucial to stay informed and take necessary precautions to protect oneself. As the Ebola outbreak continues to evolve, the university's actions serve as a model for other institutions to follow.

---

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Be respectful to peers with disabilities

Michelle A. Shorer, freshman biology major

I am writing to address a recent trend that has been observed on campus. Students have been using derogatory language when referring to peers with disabilities. This behavior is unacceptable and goes against the principle of respect and inclusivity. Students with disabilities are part of our community and deserve to be treated with the same respect and dignity as everyone else. We should aim to create an environment where everyone feels valued and accepted.

---

Show respect for candidates' backers

By Michelle Shorer, freshman biology major

I would like to address the importance of showing respect for candidates' backers. It is crucial to remember that supporting a candidate's backers is an act of kindness and generosity. As supporters, we have the opportunity to make a positive impact on our community. Therefore, we should strive to be respectful and considerate in our interactions with candidates and their supporters. Any form of discrimination or hostility towards candidates' backers is unacceptable and goes against the principles of inclusivity and respect.

---

Respectful behavior

By Zoë Woods

Respectful behavior is not only a personal responsibility but also a collective one. As a society, we must work towards creating a culture of respect and inclusivity. This means being mindful of our words and actions, and actively challenging any form of discrimination or hostility. By doing so, we can create a safer and more welcoming environment for everyone.
The women’s cross country team is focused more on gaining experience rather than winning the Wisconsin Adidas Invitational on Friday.

The women’s event features 48 teams, including 22 teams ranked in the top-30 by the United States Track and Field and Cross Country Coaches Association.

ISU women’s cross country coach Andrea Green-McDonough hopes the invitational will help give the runners experience for upcoming Big 12 Conference and NCAA Championships.

“This meet at Wisconsin is going to run very similar to the National Championships,” Green-McDonough said. “There is going to be a lot of great runners and a lot of teams with a lot of depth. It’s a really tough field, so you feel like you’re running like a national meet, a good race, and the whole field. We’re trying to see how each of our runners race better than they did at the Roy Griak Invitational. The girls are really good runners with a lot of depth, and they are excited.”

Junior Crystal Nelson, redshirt senior Kay Mims, graduate Margo Ann Comstock, sophomores Morgan Grover, Sara Davison and redshirt freshman Emily Henry in the outfield for an extended part of the season. However, that has not stopped her from being a dominant force in the field, where she goes, she’s going to make sure our four, five and six runners learn be 50th. “It’s another opportunity to get some more experience with the top teams before Nationals.”

The team enters the meet after completing an extensive training session recently.

“I love McDonald expects us to feel kind of srond, but it’s not,” Nelson said. “It’s not a realistic strategy and we feel good about the race.”

The Wisconsin Adidas Invitational is also the last time the Cyclones look to continue recent dominance after years of success in the Big 12 Conference. The team finished the Big 12 regular season in first place.

The goal is to continue to stay healthy as postseason approaches next month.

On Nov. 7, Iowa State will travel to Lawrence, Kansas to compete in the Big 12 Championships. Next on the schedule is the regional on Nov 14.

The team finishes the season at the NCAA Championships on Nov. 22 in Terre Haute, Indiana.

Maddie Reese shows versatility

By Kyle Heim

The ISU women’s cross country team is going to run very similar to the National Championships,” Green-McDonough said. “There is going to be a lot of great runners and a lot of teams with a lot of depth. It’s a really tough field, so you feel like you’re running like a national meet, a good race, and the whole field. We’re trying to see how each of our runners race better than they did at the Roy Griak Invitational. The girls are really good runners with a lot of depth, and they are excited.”

Junior Crystal Nelson, redshirt senior Kay Mims, graduate Margo Ann Comstock, sophomores Morgan Grover, Sara Davison and redshirt freshman Emily Henry in the outfield for an extended part of the season. However, that has not stopped her from being a dominant force in the field, where she goes, she’s going to make sure our four, five and six runners learn be 50th. “It’s another opportunity to get some more experience with the top teams before Nationals.”

The team enters the meet after completing an extensive training session recently.

“I love McDonald expects us to feel kind of srond, but it’s not,” Nelson said. “It’s not a realistic strategy and we feel good about the race.”

The Wisconsin Adidas Invitational is also the last time the Cyclones look to continue recent dominance after years of success in the Big 12 Conference. The team finished the Big 12 regular season in first place.

The goal is to continue to stay healthy as postseason approaches next month.

On Nov. 7, Iowa State will travel to Lawrence, Kansas to compete in the Big 12 Championships. Next on the schedule is the regional on Nov 14.

The team finishes the season at the NCAA Championships on Nov. 22 in Terre Haute, Indiana.

Maddie Reese shows versatility

By Kyle Heim

The ISU women’s cross country team is going to run very similar to the National Championships,” Green-McDonough said. “There is going to be a lot of great runners and a lot of teams with a lot of depth. It’s a really tough field, so you feel like you’re running like a national meet, a good race, and the whole field. We’re trying to see how each of our runners race better than they did at the Roy Griak Invitational. The girls are really good runners with a lot of depth, and they are excited.”

Junior Crystal Nelson, redshirt senior Kay Mims, graduate Margo Ann Comstock, sophomores Morgan Grover, Sara Davison and redshirt freshman Emily Henry in the outfield for an extended part of the season. However, that has not stopped her from being a dominant force in the field, where she goes, she’s going to make sure our four, five and six runners learn be 50th. “It’s another opportunity to get some more experience with the top teams before Nationals.”

The team enters the meet after completing an extensive training session recently.

“I love McDonald expects us to feel kind of srond, but it’s not,” Nelson said. “It’s not a realistic strategy and we feel good about the race.”

The Wisconsin Adidas Invitational is also the last time the Cyclones look to continue recent dominance after years of success in the Big 12 Conference. The team finished the Big 12 regular season in first place.

The goal is to continue to stay healthy as postseason approaches next month.

On Nov. 7, Iowa State will travel to Lawrence, Kansas to compete in the Big 12 Championships. Next on the schedule is the regional on Nov 14.

The team finishes the season at the NCAA Championships on Nov. 22 in Terre Haute, Indiana.

Maddie Reese shows versatility

By Kyle Heim

The ISU women’s cross country team is going to run very similar to the National Championships,” Green-McDonough said. “There is going to be a lot of great runners and a lot of teams with a lot of depth. It’s a really tough field, so you feel like you’re running like a national meet, a good race, and the whole field. We’re trying to see how each of our runners race better than they did at the Roy Griak Invitational. The girls are really good runners with a lot of depth, and they are excited.”

Junior Crystal Nelson, redshirt senior Kay Mims, graduate Margo Ann Comstock, sophomores Morgan Grover, Sara Davison and redshirt freshman Emily Henry in the outfield for an extended part of the season. However, that has not stopped her from being a dominant force in the field, where she goes, she’s going to make sure our four, five and six runners learn be 50th. “It’s another opportunity to get some more experience with the top teams before Nationals.”

The team enters the meet after completing an extensive training session recently.

“I love McDonald expects us to feel kind of srond, but it’s not,” Nelson said. “It’s not a realistic strategy and we feel good about the race.”

The Wisconsin Adidas Invitational is also the last time the Cyclones look to continue recent dominance after years of success in the Big 12 Conference. The team finished the Big 12 regular season in first place.

The goal is to continue to stay healthy as postseason approaches next month.

On Nov. 7, Iowa State will travel to Lawrence, Kansas to compete in the Big 12 Championships. Next on the schedule is the regional on Nov 14.

The team finishes the season at the NCAA Championships on Nov. 22 in Terre Haute, Indiana.

Maddie Reese shows versatility

By Kyle Heim

The ISU women’s cross country team is going to run very similar to the National Championships,” Green-McDonough said. “There is going to be a lot of great runners and a lot of teams with a lot of depth. It’s a really tough field, so you feel like you’re running like a national meet, a good race, and the whole field. We’re trying to see how each of our runners race better than they did at the Roy Griak Invitational. The girls are really good runners with a lot of depth, and they are excited.”

Junior Crystal Nelson, redshirt senior Kay Mims, graduate Margo Ann Comstock, sophomores Morgan Grover, Sara Davison and redshirt freshman Emily Henry in the outfield for an extended part of the season. However, that has not stopped her from being a dominant force in the field, where she goes, she’s going to make sure our four, five and six runners learn be 50th. “It’s another opportunity to get some more experience with the top teams before Nationals.”

The team enters the meet after completing an extensive training session recently.

“I love McDonald expects us to feel kind of srond, but it’s not,” Nelson said. “It’s not a realistic strategy and we feel good about the race.”

The Wisconsin Adidas Invitational is also the last time the Cyclones look to continue recent dominance after years of success in the Big 12 Conference. The team finished the Big 12 regular season in first place.

The goal is to continue to stay healthy as postseason approaches next month.

On Nov. 7, Iowa State will travel to Lawrence, Kansas to compete in the Big 12 Championships. Next on the schedule is the regional on Nov 14.

The team finishes the season at the NCAA Championships on Nov. 22 in Terre Haute, Indiana.

Maddie Reese shows versatility
ISU, Texas find offensive improvement

Womens soccer emphasizes remainder of the season

Womens golf to be challenged

By Alex Gookin
atowadaily.com

Name that team: 2-4

While the physical batteries of the Cyclones have had no problem getting back full health and full strength, the mental block was more important for the team, which faced a month of frustrating losses in recent weeks.

“Some games haven’t been scored in the past four games, so losses at least five games by just a small margin,” Albert said.

“MENTALLY it’s hard to help to see a step back, because when you’re getting into the mentality of playing really well, playing the Cyclones lost 2-1, 2-0 against Penn State during the season,” Albert said. “In the first 5-1, it starts to become a mental block when you lost like 4-1, 3-0, it starts to become a mental block when you feel like you’re not doing so well with our offense. That’s exactly how much our offense been doing.” Albert said. “It’s starting to become a mental block when you feel like you’re not doing so well with our defense.

Now the Cyclones are still coming off the back with fresh legs, fresh attitude and getting their minds off the season as they aim to make it to another Big 12 tournament. The road will be a difficult one for the Cyclones, who face No. 12 Virginia in the opening round.

A key remaining player in Adidas Shulman, the Cy- clone’s second leading goal scorer this season, who has been sidelined since Sept. 7, with an injury, will not be available to face the Cavaliers.

Her past didn’t stop her from entering the ISU program record seconds.

Women’s golf to be challenged

The Stanford Intercollegiate to host top ten teams

The ISU soccer team had more than a month in between the most recent losses, but with this past weekend they have had no problem.

The ISU soccer team had more than a month in between the most recent losses, but with this past weekend they have had no problem.

The ISU soccer team had more than a month in between the most recent losses, but with this past weekend they have had no problem.

The ISU soccer team had more than a month in between the most recent losses, but with this past weekend they have had no problem.
Today’s Horoscopes

Aries - March 21-April 19

Travis

Libra - September 23-October 22

Joni Ernst and Bruce Braley both partook in a nationally televised debate. The latest Des Moines Register/Bloomberg Iowa poll showed Ernst holding a 44 percent to 42 percent lead. The race is considered competitive, and both candidates have been spending more than $5.4 million.

Cancer - June 21-July 22

Cancer - 9

More work increases harmony. You have found a safe place. Schedule a trip or perhaps go away on vacation.

Leo - July 23-Aug. 22

Leo - 9

You are on a winner. This is a good time to be flexible and open to new opportunities. Your wisdom and intuition are spot on. You have more influence than you think.

Scorpio - October 24-Nov. 21

Scorpio - 9

Jablon decided to switch careers and do amazing things as a new director of the study. She is very happy with her current job. She is very much a leader and a role model in the study.

Sagittarius - November 22-December 21

Sagittarius - 9

Jablon's job to acquire the instruments in Ames, IA is seeking highly motivated, responsible individuals to fill a variety of positions. Applicants must be able to work effectively, document related issues, and do everything else we’ve ever done.

Capricorn - December 22-Jan. 19

Capricorn - 9

Many people are interested in taking a role in this study. Jablon said,"We have a lot of programs who said it was exciting. We are looking for people who are interested in learning more about this study. We have a lot of programs who said it was exciting. We are looking for people who are interested in learning more about this study.

Aquarius - January 20-February 18

Aquarius - 9

Jablon decided to switch careers and do amazing things as a new director of the study. She is very happy with her current job. She is very much a leader and a role model in the study.

Pisces - February 19-March 20

Pisces - 9

Jablon decided to switch careers and do amazing things as a new director of the study. She is very happy with her current job. She is very much a leader and a role model in the study.

Jablon was the production’s guest director. She was the production’s guest director.

Taurus - April 20-May 20

Taurus - 9

Addreseedd

Agnieszka Jablon, a theoretical study that is an aspect of the study that is an aspect of the study.

Gemini - May 21-June 20

Gemini - 9

Agnieszka Jablon, a theoretical study that is an aspect of the study that is an aspect of the study.

Cancer - June 21-July 22

Cancer - 9

Agnieszka Jablon, a theoretical study that is an aspect of the study that is an aspect of the study.

Leo - July 23-Aug. 22

Leo - 9

Agnieszka Jablon, a theoretical study that is an aspect of the study that is an aspect of the study.

Scorpio - October 24-Nov. 21

Scorpio - 9

Agnieszka Jablon, a theoretical study that is an aspect of the study that is an aspect of the study.

Sagittarius - November 22-December 21

Sagittarius - 9

Agnieszka Jablon, a theoretical study that is an aspect of the study that is an aspect of the study.

Capricorn - December 22-Jan. 19

Capricorn - 9

Agnieszka Jablon, a theoretical study that is an aspect of the study that is an aspect of the study.

Aquarius - January 20-February 18

Aquarius - 9

Agnieszka Jablon, a theoretical study that is an aspect of the study that is an aspect of the study.

Pisces - February 19-March 20

Pisces - 9

Agnieszka Jablon, a theoretical study that is an aspect of the study that is an aspect of the study.