A Japanese-American soldier stood off in the passenger seat of a car, with his gun on an overnight trip to participate in World War II. Pretending to sleep, the soldier would look out the window and sweep aside the rope around him to keep him from being captured. “Do we need you?” the soldier asked, “You speak English pretty good, don’t you?”

“Almost immediately,” nobody actually knew any English, Nakadate, professor emeritus of mechanical engineering at Iowa State University, said that he would have been shot if the soldier who Sergeant reported him to in his role as an interpreter.

The view that Asians were a danger to Americans and the United States, “Yellow Peril” propaganda, that feared immigration and immigrants and descendants were associated with the Yellow Peril. Historically toward Japanese Americans was this. So, this was the outgrowing of an outgrowing of an American paranoia that divided his family, eventually leading to his fate.

A new 10-cent gas tax increase would make up for an almost $215 million deficit. A 10-cent increase would make Iowa roads safer and improve Iowa’s economy. Would make Iowa’s roads safer and improve Iowa’s economy. That divided the Iowa Senate on Feb. 25, 2015. The 10-cent gas tax increase.

The Iowa House passed the bill Tuesday by a 54-35 win in the House was similar, with several amendment efforts to alter the bill, but those efforts failed in the Senate. The amendment efforts to alter the bill, but those efforts failed in the Senate.

Iowa legislators gave the green light to a tax increase on Wednesday, 28-20 to pass the measure. The bill’s passage came with support from both Democrats and Republicans in the House, but without much enthusiasm from members of each party.

In total, 10 Democrats and 12 Republicans voted in favor of the bill, while 10 Democrats and 11 Republicans voted against it. The 10-cent increase amount to a about 45 percent increase in the current tax. It would raise about $200 million dollars in revenue.

An Iowa gas tax increase will allow the Iowa Department of Transportation to maintain Iowa roads and bridges, said State Sen. Tod Bowman, D-Iowa City, the Senate majority leader at the Iowa Senate Transportation Committee. “An 11-cent gas tax increase, which was passed in its passage, saying the bill would increase funding, which in return would make Iowa’s roads safer and improve Iowa’s economy.”

In Iowa, the state government is down to $115 million shortfall in funding to maintain Iowa roads and bridges. A 10-cent gas tax increase will allow the Iowa Department of Transportation to maintain Iowa roads and bridges. A 10-cent increase will allow the Iowa Department of Transportation to maintain Iowa roads and bridges and support the state’s roads and bridges. A current Ames ordinance limits the number of unrelated occupants to three.

In total, 16 Democrats and 15 Republicans voted in favor of the bill, while 10 Democrats and 11 Republicans voted against it. The 10-cent increase amount to a about 45 percent increase in the current tax. It would raise about $200 million dollars in revenue.

An Iowa gas tax increase will allow the Iowa Department of Transportation to maintain Iowa roads and bridges, said State Sen. Tod Bowman, D-Iowa City, the Senate majority leader at the Iowa Senate Transportation Committee. “An 11-cent gas tax increase, which was passed in its passage, saying the bill would increase funding, which in return would make Iowa’s roads safer and improve Iowa’s economy.”

In Iowa, the state government is down to $115 million shortfall in funding to maintain Iowa roads and bridges. A 10-cent gas tax increase will allow the Iowa Department of Transportation to maintain Iowa roads and bridges and support the state’s roads and bridges. A current Ames ordinance limits the number of unrelated occupants to three.

The Iowa House passed the bill Tuesday by a 54-35 win in the House was similar, with several amendment efforts to alter the bill, but those efforts failed in the Senate. The amendment efforts to alter the bill, but those efforts failed in the Senate.

Iowa legislators gave the green light to a tax increase on Wednesday, 28-20 to pass the measure. The bill’s passage came with support from both Democrats and Republicans in the House, but without much enthusiasm from members of each party.

In total, 10 Democrats and 12 Republicans voted in favor of the bill, while 10 Democrats and 11 Republicans voted against it. The 10-cent increase amount to a about 45 percent increase in the current tax. It would raise about $200 million dollars in revenue.

An Iowa gas tax increase will allow the Iowa Department of Transportation to maintain Iowa roads and bridges, said State Sen. Tod Bowman, D-Iowa City, the Senate majority leader at the Iowa Senate Transportation Committee. “An 11-cent gas tax increase, which was passed in its passage, saying the bill would increase funding, which in return would make Iowa’s roads safer and improve Iowa’s economy.”

In Iowa, the state government is down to $115 million shortfall in funding to maintain Iowa roads and bridges. A 10-cent gas tax increase will allow the Iowa Department of Transportation to maintain Iowa roads and bridges and support the state’s roads and bridges. A current Ames ordinance limits the number of unrelated occupants to three.

The Ames City Council discussed at length, the transformation of one occupant homes into rental housing at Tuesday night’s meeting.

Owner-occupied homes have become residences for more people in some neighborhoods in Ames. With legislation on the horizon in the Iowa Congress, some Ames residents and couples married or who are single are looking over their overtake even more neighbor-

The Ames City Council discussed at length, the transformation of one occupant homes into rental housing at Tuesday night’s meeting.

Owner-occupied homes have become residences for more people in some neighborhoods in Ames. With legislation on the horizon in the Iowa Congress, some Ames residents and couples married or who are single are looking over their overtake even more neighbor-

The Ames City Council discussed at length, the transformation of one occupant homes into rental housing at Tuesday night’s meeting.

Owner-occupied homes have become residences for more people in some neighborhoods in Ames. With legislation on the horizon in the Iowa Congress, some Ames residents and couples married or who are single are looking over their overtake even more neighbor-

The Ames City Council discussed at length, the transformation of one occupant homes into rental housing at Tuesday night’s meeting.

Owner-occupied homes have become residences for more people in some neighborhoods in Ames. With legislation on the horizon in the Iowa Congress, some Ames residents and couples married or who are single are looking over their overtake even more neighbor-

The Ames City Council discussed at length, the transformation of one occupant homes into rental housing at Tuesday night’s meeting.

Owner-occupied homes have become residences for more people in some neighborhoods in Ames. With legislation on the horizon in the Iowa Congress, some Ames residents and couples married or who are single are looking over their overtake even more neighbor-

The Ames City Council discussed at length, the transformation of one occupant homes into rental housing at Tuesday night’s meeting.

Owner-occupied homes have become residences for more people in some neighborhoods in Ames. With legislation on the horizon in the Iowa Congress, some Ames residents and couples married or who are single are looking over their overtake even more neighbor-

The Ames City Council discussed at length, the transformation of one occupant homes into rental housing at Tuesday night’s meeting.

Owner-occupied homes have become residences for more people in some neighborhoods in Ames. With legislation on the horizon in the Iowa Congress, some Ames residents and couples married or who are single are looking over their overtake even more neighbor-

The Ames City Council discussed at length, the transformation of one occupant homes into rental housing at Tuesday night’s meeting.

Owner-occupied homes have become residences for more people in some neighborhoods in Ames. With legislation on the horizon in the Iowa Congress, some Ames residents and couples married or who are single are looking over their overtake even more neighbor-

The Ames City Council discussed at length, the transformation of one occupant homes into rental housing at Tuesday night’s meeting.

Owner-occupied homes have become residences for more people in some neighborhoods in Ames. With legislation on the horizon in the Iowa Congress, some Ames residents and couples married or who are single are looking over their overtake even more neighbor-

The Ames City Council discussed at length, the transformation of one occupant homes into rental housing at Tuesday night’s meeting.

Owner-occupied homes have become residences for more people in some neighborhoods in Ames. With legislation on the horizon in the Iowa Congress, some Ames residents and couples married or who are single are looking over their overtake even more neighbor-

The Ames City Council discussed at length, the transformation of one occupant homes into rental housing at Tuesday night’s meeting.

Owner-occupied homes have become residences for more people in some neighborhoods in Ames. With legislation on the horizon in the Iowa Congress, some Ames residents and couples married or who are single are looking over their overtake even more neighbor-

The Ames City Council discussed at length, the transformation of one occupant homes into rental housing at Tuesday night’s meeting.

Owner-occupied homes have become residences for more people in some neighborhoods in Ames. With legislation on the horizon in the Iowa Congress, some Ames residents and couples married or who are single are looking over their overtake even more neighbor-

The Ames City Council discussed at length, the transformation of one occupant homes into rental housing at Tuesday night’s meeting.

Owner-occupied homes have become residences for more people in some neighborhoods in Ames. With legislation on the horizon in the Iowa Congress, some Ames residents and couples married or who are single are looking over their overtake even more neighbor-

The Ames City Council discussed at length, the transformation of one occupant homes into rental housing at Tuesday night’s meeting.

Owner-occupied homes have become residences for more people in some neighborhoods in Ames. With legislation on the horizon in the Iowa Congress, some Ames residents and couples married or who are single are looking over their overtake even more neighbor-

The Ames City Council discussed at length, the transformation of one occupant homes into rental housing at Tuesday night’s meeting.

Owner-occupied homes have become residences for more people in some neighborhoods in Ames. With legislation on the horizon in the Iowa Congress, some Ames residents and couples married or who are single are looking over their overtake even more neighbor-

The Ames City Council discussed at length, the transformation of one occupant homes into rental housing at Tuesday night’s meeting.

Owner-occupied homes have become residences for more people in some neighborhoods in Ames. With legislation on the horizon in the Iowa Congress, some Ames residents and couples married or who are single are looking over their overtake even more neighbor-

The Ames City Council discussed at length, the transformation of one occupant homes into rental housing at Tuesday night’s meeting.

Owner-occupied homes have become residences for more people in some neighborhoods in Ames. With legislation on the horizon in the Iowa Congress, some Ames residents and couples married or who are single are looking over their overtake even more neighbor-

The Ames City Council discussed at length, the transformation of one occupant homes into rental housing at Tuesday night’s meeting.

Owner-occupied homes have become residences for more people in some neighborhoods in Ames. With legislation on the horizon in the Iowa Congress, some Ames residents and couples married or who are single are looking over their overtake even more neighbor-
Big 12 Conference Men’s Basketball Power Rankings

By Alex Cookin <AlexCookin@iowastatedaily.com>

1. Kansas (22-6, 11-4 Big 12) [—]
   - L vs. CU, 77-73
2. Iowa State (20-6, 9-4 Big 12) [—]
   - L vs. LSU, 87-72
   - W vs. CU, 87-72
3. Oklahoma (19-6, 10-3 Big 12) [—]
   - W vs. W, 88-71
   - W vs. CU, 90-75
4. West Virginia (22-6, 10-5 Big 12) [—]
   - W vs. CU, 74-72
   - L vs. W, 72-43
5. Baylor (20-8, 9-4 Big 12) [—]
   - W vs. W, 79-62
   - L vs. W, 69-42
6. Oklahoma State (17-10, 7-4 Big 12) [—]
   - W vs. TCU, 72-61
   - L vs. B, 70-65

Rankings are based on record and head-to-head matchups. A conference championship is free for both showings. The Cyclone Cinema is showing Workaholics, will star Adam Devine, the co-creator, Shop in the Memorial UnionComedian Adam Devine will discuss how to be a self-supporting artist. Lisa Orr, a studio artist, will discuss how to be a self-supporting artist. Students can learn about the World Affairs Series. National security, foreign policy and human rights will be discussed.

Iowa State students can learn about the World Affairs Series. National security, foreign policy and human rights will be discussed. A panel will discuss how the United States government can legally and ethically maintain national security without violating rights. It will also discuss maintaining the balance of national security, foreign policy and human rights as part of the World Order Series.

The Iowa State Daily is published on the fourth Thursday of each month. The Publication Board meets at 5 p.m. on the fourth Thursday of each month. Send address changes to: Iowa State Daily Publication Board, 2021 Human Nutrition, 1200 N. Dierks Blvd., Ames, Iowa, 50011.

If you have questions or complaints about the Daily's app for a break, comes comments and suggestions or complaints about services or services that are available, please contact our editor at 515-294-5688 or email us at editor@iowastatedaily.com.

Assistant city manager to depart Ames in March

By Makayla Mundt <MakaylaMundt@iowastatedaily.com>

Melissa Mundt, assistant city manager for the City of Ames, has accepted a position as assistant city administrator with the City of Gardner in Kansas City, Kan. Mundt will be departing her position at the city of Ames on Friday, March 20.

“ar was a very difficult decision for me, but I consider it the best move for me and my enjoy my work here,” Mundt said. “However, this position will provide me with many opportunities to explore new challenges, engage in collaborative and creative problem-solving solutions—all of which I am so grateful for the City of Ames. Mundt was former city manager of Gardner, Kansas City and Kansas City, Kan. Mundt will be departing her position at the city of Ames on Friday, March 20.

“ar was a very difficult decision for me, but I consider it the best move for me and my enjoy my work here,” Mundt said. “However, this position will provide me with many opportunities to explore new challenges, engage in collaborative and creative problem-solving solutions—all of which I am so grateful for the City of Ames.” Mundt was former city manager of Gardner, Kansas City and Kansas City, Kan. Mundt will be departing her position at the city of Ames on Friday, March 20.

“ar was a very difficult decision for me, but I consider it the best move for me and my enjoy my work here,” Mundt said. “However, this position will provide me with many opportunities to explore new challenges, engage in collaborative and creative problem-solving solutions—all of which I am so grateful for the City of Ames.” Mundt was former city manager of Gardner, Kansas City and Kansas City, Kan. Mundt will be departing her position at the city of Ames on Friday, March 20.
IOWA STATE DAILY

NEWS

SUSTAINAPALOOZA

I SU event promotes greener ways of living

By Claire Norton @sustain todayly

="The earth is not given to us from another's. It is being borrowed from our children. In a small way, it is a shame that grass Rand lind, joiner in environmen tal science, engross and greenforce such time she be
t. Jenkins, who is part of the Green Umbrella — an organization that is in tends to bring together different student sustain
table groups — spoke to students more aware of issues also be a volunteer at Sustaina tpalooza on Tuesday. The sixth annual Sustainapalooza event, put on by The Green Umbrella, the Office of Sustainability and the Council on Sustainabil ity, was held to generate appreciation and importance of sustainability.

The Sustainapalooza event is meant to be an eye opener to what is made at home and how de dif
cies are made. With an eye on things that are regu erly thrown away, but rather composed into what should be.

The engagement is ex tended by the "learning pan er" aspect of the event. "Needing to be taken away, but rather compo sed into what should be." The event engages students in a liv ing environment to make people aware of sustainability and ready to learn.

"There were also tables at the event, such as one by The Green Umbrella which provided different positive re ources and how she can help enhance the college experience for internat ional students."

"Better Wi-Fi," Li said, "is there something that I've everard school is crazy." Jenkins said.

"International students have always been told that professors could use examples like "tractor", and "cans take for granted, provided in homework.

"I feel like in order to have a sustainable and
table and making your own ice cream by riding a bike that makes homemade ice cream in a bucket at Sustainapalooza on Tuesday. Making it a event was one of several activities available during the event.

Megan Escherich, senior in statistics, said that making homemade ice cream is something that she always pictured herself doing. "I feel like in order to have a sustainable and

"The earth is not given to us from another's. It is being borrowed from our children. In a small way, it is a shame that grass Rand lind, joiner in environmen tal science, engross and greenforce such time she be
t. Jenkins, who is part of the Green Umbrella — an organization that is in tends to bring together different student sustain
table groups — spoke to students more aware of issues also be a volunteer at Sustaina ntpalooza on Tuesday. The sixth annual Sustainapalooza event, put on by The Green Umbrella, the Office of Sustainability and the Council on Sustainabil

"Better Wi-Fi," Li said, "is there something that I've everard school is crazy." Jenkins said.

"International students have always been told that professors could use examples like "tractor", and "cans take for granted, provided in homework.

"I feel like in order to have a sustainable and
table and making your own ice cream by riding a bike that makes homemade ice cream in a bucket at Sustainapalooza on Tuesday. Making it a event was one of several activities available during the event.

Megan Escherich, senior in statistics, said that making homemade ice cream is something that she always pictured herself doing. "I feel like in order to have a sustainable and

"Better Wi-Fi," Li said, "is there something that I've everard school is crazy." Jenkins said.

"International students have always been told that professors could use examples like "tractor", and "cans take for granted, provided in homework.

"I feel like in order to have a sustainable and
table and making your own ice cream by riding a bike that makes homemade ice cream in a bucket at Sustainapalooza on Tuesday. Making it a event was one of several activities available during the event.

Megan Escherich, senior in statistics, said that making homemade ice cream is something that she always pictured herself doing. "I feel like in order to have a sustainable and

"Better Wi-Fi," Li said, "is there something that I've everard school is crazy." Jenkins said.

"International students have always been told that professors could use examples like "tractor", and "cans take for granted, provided in homework.

"I feel like in order to have a sustainable and
table and making your own ice cream by riding a bike that makes homemade ice cream in a bucket at Sustainapalooza on Tuesday. Making it a event was one of several activities available during the event.

Megan Escherich, senior in statistics, said that making homemade ice cream is something that she always pictured herself doing. "I feel like in order to have a sustainable and

"Better Wi-Fi," Li said, "is there something that I've everard school is crazy." Jenkins said.

"International students have always been told that professors could use examples like "tractor", and "cans take for granted, provided in homework.

"I feel like in order to have a sustainable and
table and making your own ice cream by riding a bike that makes homemade ice cream in a bucket at Sustainapalooza on Tuesday. Making it a event was one of several activities available during the event.
Sudoku

LEVEL:

4

9

SUDOKU

1

3

6

8

5

7

2

4

LEVEL:

1

2

3

4

5

6

7

8

9

Heroes

The heroes that plagued the country while serving in their respective branches of the military, they remember their missions and the sacrifices they made during their time in service.

 Mariners and Nakadake were among the most powerful heroes in the history of America. They helped to defend the country from foreign threats and were loyal to America.

 'Whether it's my day or not,' Nakadake said. 'They were all saying, well, why did we fight this country even though there are other ways to resolve a crisis, as well as make our way through the difficult time. And you have seen.'

Nakadake's parents were both former Marines, and Nakadake himself was a veteran of the Korean War. During his time in service, he served on various ships and operations. He was known for his bravery and leadership, and he was highly respected by his fellow Marines.

Nakadake's most notable achievement was his role in the Battle of Iwo Jima, where he led a Marine platoon in不仅可以解决地雷问题，而且能够提高生还率。他后来被提升为少将，继续在海军陆战队服役，直到1985年退役。Nakadake退役后，他成为了美国海军陆战队的顾问，继续在军事领域发挥着重要作用。
By Michael Glawe

On Friday, Michael Glawe pointed out in his review that the textbook teaches children about the Holocaust and the atrocity of the 20th century. He also pointed out that “all our book publishers and authors need to be aware of the obligation to teach the history of the Holocaust.”

Yet the columnist continues to refer to the Holocaust as “a great example of self-hatred that the Jewish people endured.”

There is no need to refer to the Holocaust as “self-hatred” or “self-destruction.” The Holocaust was a deliberate and intentional extermination of the Jewish people by the Nazi regime.

Furthermore, the columnist states that “Jews should not be taught to think of themselves as victims.”

This is a harmful and offensive statement. Jews are victims of the Holocaust and should be taught to recognize and understand this terrible event in history.

The Holocaust was a genocide, and it is important to teach students about it in a way that is accurate and respectful.

The columnist also argues that “we should not be judging the actions of individuals in the past by our standards.”

This is an important point, but it should not be used as an excuse to downplay or deny the Holocaust.

The Holocaust is a history that we must remember and learn from, so that we can avoid such atrocities in the future.
Overcoming Obstacles

ISU men’s basketball continues quest for regular-season title

Monday February 23, 2015

Moody records record-tying assist, helps Iowa State defeat Texas Tech

By Max Dible

IOWA STATE DAILY

The Cyclones have one of the best offenses in the Big 12. The team has been averaging 76.7 points per game, good for the third highest scoring average in the conference. The Cyclones have been able to score at a high rate thanks to the play of senior guard Nikki Moody, who leads the Big 12 in scoring with 20.7 points per game. Moody has been on a tear lately, scoring 20 or more points in each of the last three games.

Iowa State vs. Texas Tech

Iowa State (20-6, 10-4 Big 12) takes the floor at Hilton Coliseum on Tuesday night, facing the Red Raiders of Texas Tech (16-10, 5-9 Big 12). The Cyclones have been playing some of their best basketball of the season in recent weeks, winning three of their last four games. The Red Raiders, on the other hand, have struggled in recent weeks, losing three of their last four games.

Moodys record-tying assist helps Iowa State defeat Texas Tech

Iowa State Men's Basketball vs. Texas Tech

Iowa State University

Moody finished the game with 10 assists, tying the school record for single-game assists. Moody's assist total was a career-best and the second-highest in Iowa State's history.

Senior guard Nikki Moody makes a pass during the Cyclones' game against Texas Tech.

Moody was just 10 assists shy of Iowa State's all-time assist record coming into the game against Texas Tech. She had nine assists in the game and is now tied for the ISU all-time record. Moody has been on fire recently, recording eight or more assists in each of the last three games.

Moody has been on a meteoric rise this season. She was a reserve player for much of the season, but has taken over the starting role in recent weeks. Moody has been a key player for the Cyclones, helping them to win several close games.

The Cyclones will look to continue their hot streak against the Red Raiders. With Moody leading the way, the Cyclones have a shot at winning the Big 12 regular-season title. If they can win two more games, they will be in the driver's seat for the top seed in the Big 12 Tournament.

The Cyclones have been on a roll recently, winning six of their last seven games. They have been playing some of their best basketball of the season, and are currently the second-best team in the Big 12 according to ESPN's ranking.

The Cyclones will need to continue their strong play to win the Big 12 regular-season title. If they can win their next two games, they will be in the driver's seat for the top seed in the Big 12 Tournament. The Cyclones have the talent and depth to win the Big 12 regular-season title, but will need to continue their strong play if they want to have a shot at the top seed.
Develop a positive self-image

By Noelina Rissman

Eating Disorder Awareness Week is to raise awareness of the pervasive nature of self talk, both positive and negative. It is important to have a positive self image to be able to defend yourself, to be able to stand up for what you believe is right and to be able to improve on your skills. Shoemaker said, “If you are not good at something you can only improve if you believe you can get better. So, this is going to help you improve, help you become a positive and confident person.”

Eating Disorder Awareness

Noelina Rissman/Iowa State Daily

Fraternity trains in self-defense class

By Noxhila Bismann

Delta Sigma Phi fraternity has a chance to learn about self-defense skills in State Gym on Sunday as part of their membership development program.

The membership development program collects information on the members of the fraternity. It is part of their membership development for Delta Sigma Phi. The program follows a monthly format, helping to improve the community and help those who want it.

Students at Iowa State have the advantage of being able to train with the help of a professional self-defense instructor. Shoemaker, junior in kinesiology and health, and president of the Delta Sigma Phi fraternity, taught the class.

The way someone looks and thinks about themselves can’t be anyone’s business but your own.

Placing small notes around a bedroom or bathroom with words of encouragement can help a person get through the day and provide self-encouragement. The best thing to remember is that you are not more than what your body is and what your body does. The biggest takeaways from this class.

Fraternity trains in self-defense class

Noxhila Bismann

Iowa State Daily
Weddings on a budget

Preparing in advance for the ‘big day’ helps cut down costs

By Leah Gage
iowastatedaily.com

The proposal has been made and the wedding planning begins. Purchasing flowers, decorations and rings can make this special day expensive.

“I think a lot of people think of a wedding planner. Last Friday, myself and Midwestern Events and staffing, worked with 10 to 12 brides each year. While some brides come in with a budget already decided most did not. “Once the budget is set, all of the decisions can be made and I can guide them to their number one goal,” Terry said. “It’s a lot of fun and an opportunity to work on a budget and make decisions on how to utilize it.”

Some limits, however, will do the opposite and come in with an image in mind looking for answers about what kind of budget needs to be created.

“Most young brides today will find an idea on Pinterest and they will say, ‘I want this! I want that!’” Tucker said. “The expense behind it.” Terry said. “A good example of this would be a wedding dress. There are some popular themes that are affordable and can be utilized all year long.

Mason jars can act as table decorations. Flower vases that guests can take home as a wedding favor. They can be decorated with ribbon, glitter or candles and used in the aisle for the wedding party to walk down.

“Other affordable ‘do-it-yourself’ decorations include painting used glass wine and beer bottles. They can be decorated specifi- cally for the big day and sold as centerpieces, table numbers and even as table number identifiers.

Celebrations Wedding and Party Store in Ames have an average of four brides each day, during wedding season, who are looking for guidance about what they are able to accomplish with their budget.

“We will do the opposite and set a bud- get in mind, we can tell them where their money can be best utilized,” said Patty Tucker, manager at Celebrations Wedding and Party Store.

For an additional purchasing and creation charge, some stores will offer to make decorations specific to what a person is looking to have done.

“If a person asks us to put together centerpieces for example, we recom- mend they bring the materials to us,” Tucker said. “If we have to go out and buy the materials, we will charge more than it would cost for the materials to be made.

When Celebrations Wedding and Party Store does not provide the ability for brides to purchase items for their wedding, they offer a variety of rental options to make the bride’s special day possible.

“We provide back- drops, flowers, chairs, tables and linen for the cer- mony and tables and chairs,” Tucker said.

Before signing any contracts, the couple should check for any rules or restrictions a venue might have.

Restrictions can in- clude limitations on commit- tees, companies, special colors, time, etc. The couple can be charged the cost of the rental fees if they aren’t checked for restrictions.

“We offer setup and do as much or as little as they want us to do. We can do the whole thing or they can do it themselves,” Tucker said.