Choose the graduation ceremony right for you

By Danielle DiBenedetto

Directly following senior day, they are going to walk or not. It’s a tough decision to make because there is a lot of elements that go into walking at a graduation ceremony.

There are expenses involved. Some things that are included are buying the cap, gown and tassel. These can all be bought at the ISU bookstore. It’s about $50 total to purchase all of the items.

Another thing to think about would be where on campus they’ll be allowed to come to the ceremony. Students need to think about what days before they choose to walk or not.

Also, many students choose on which graduation ceremony to participate. At Iowa State, a student graduating can walk in the all-ISU ceremony, their college Baccalaureate, and most of these ceremonies will take place on the following day during the morning and early afternoon.

If a student does not want to go to the entire 2011 commencement ceremony, they have the option of going to their own college ceremony. Agriculture and Life Sciences, Design, Engineering, Human Sciences, Liberal Arts and Sciences, and Veterinary Medicine all host their own ceremonies.

Most of these ceremonies will take place on the following day during the morning and early afternoon.

Some students decide to go to their college graduation ceremony because it may be farther than the all-ISU ceremony. Some students choose to go to the all-ISU graduation because that time works best for their family and friends to be there.

And some choose to go both. They pick the day and time, they might as well do it.

“I chose to walk in my college graduation [Human Sciences]. It’s makes it easier for me to feel more personal to me,” said Jessica Haugo, graduate in elementary education.

A student isn’t forced to attend a graduation ceremony. Usually it will run around two hours, depending on the number of graduates.

It’s your day. You deserve it. Choose the ceremony you want, because you’re the one that made it happen.

Ceremonies

The ISU ceremony that is in some way, shape, or form, is called.

Not all students may want to sit through the ceremony for the entire graduating class. Individual college ceremonies offer a shorter option for students. Look at the times and dates of each ceremony. There are many students each semester that chose not to walk in a graduation ceremony. There are a few hundred students that choose to walk in the graduation. Usually it will run two and a half hours, depending on the number of students.

If you choose to walk, but it makes you a bit more money and time, why wouldn’t you? Yes, it’s a bit more money to walk, but it makes you appreciate all of the hard work and money, why wouldn’t you? It’s your day. You deserve it.

Wardrobes offer additional chance to impress employers

By LindsaySchwark

This sounds cliché, but it always seems true—people you really only get one chance to impress somebody.” —Dave Schwark, manager of Moorman’s Clothiers

And so it turns out, the saying holds true.

Just as a polished cover letter introduces an experienced resume, prepared presentation can set the tone—and possibly the outcome—of a highly competitive job interview.

First impressions are highly visible, and a potential employer always requires formal professional attire. You must tailor your business to the interview environment.

For women, the interview uniform embraces simple, quality fabrics. It’s better to be present and professional than under dressed or undressed, for that matter.

“Tell young adults to stick to a dark-colored suit,” Schwark said.

“Tights should be black and navajo or grey and patternless. Avoid light, warm colors like tan or silver.”

In addition to formal clothing, job candidates should be aware of their body language.

“It’s like a job interview in itself, so you want to make sure you are putting your best foot forward,” Schwark said.

Some students who chose not to walk, felt more personal to me,” said Jessica Haugo, graduate in elementary education.
