“Into the Field will give students a broader vision of what we do in the ag world... It’ll give us well rounded agronomists that will take the industry into the next 50 years.”

Amy and Harlan Asmus of Asmus Farm Supply have established the Into the Field Fund to provide support for sharpening the diagnostic, critical-thinking and communication skills of agronomy graduates.

Amy and Harlan Asmus recently hosted members of the agronomy faculty, including department chair Kendall Lamkey (right), to discuss strategies to strengthen field experiences for undergraduates.
