97-WP 187. “Toward a Theory of Food and Agriculture Policy Intervention for a Developing Economy with Particular

Iowa Ag Review is published by the Food and Agricultural Policy Research Institute (FAPRI) at Iowa State University, a program of the Center for Agricultural and Rural Development (CARD). FAPRI is organized cooperatively by CARD at Iowa State University and the Center for National Food and Agricultural Policy (CNFAP) at the University of Missouri-Columbia. It provides economic analysis for policymakers and others interested in the agricultural economy. Analysis that has been conducted jointly with the University of Missouri is identified here as FAPRI analysis. This publication presents summarized results that emphasize the Iowa implications of ongoing agricultural policy analysis, analysis of the near-term agricultural situation, and discussion of new agricultural policies currently under consideration.
