Song of the Younger Bather

Abstract

nex’ time i’m borned...
IN THIS ISSUE WE PRESENT . . .

Beth Rocke's "Henceforward in Thy Shadow," which is, we think, one of the most mature pieces of prose we've had in a long time. . . .

A selection of poetry worthy of any liberal arts school, proving that Iowa Staters are indeed versatile. But don't take our word for it. Read, for instance, Carl Leiden's "The Quivering of the Rocky Moon" . . . .

A vivid, sensitive mood sketch entitled "All" by a freshman! Prospects are good for next year!

Also in this issue we present for the first time Ruth Midgorden, who not only finds time to edit the Daily Student, but writes love stories as well.

We regret that we could not print all of the fine material that was submitted. But all in all we are pleased. And it is our wish that you will be pleased too.

The Editors.

Song of the Younger Brother

Marilyn Baker

nex' time i'm borned
i'll be an ephelunt—
an' I'll squirt water through my nose like this—
pluba!
an' i'll pull down 'a cocanuts wi' my trunk an'
throw 'em at 'a moon—
an' hit it, too.
an' i'll wade in 'a water
all day
an' never put my rubbers on.

nex' time you're borned
what will you be?
