Winter Comes On Many Feet

Winter comes on many feet:
Padding lightly, beautifully;
Trodding wantonly, lustily;
Sneaking stealthily, silently;
Stepping sharply, haughtily.

Each footstep brings a different face:
Snow is the gentle face of a virgin;
Wind wears the face of an overworked woman;
Fog shrouds a face of quiet mystery;
Ice bejewels the face of an heiress.

Each face is lovely.
