C O M F O R T A B L E, cozy evenins in front of a crackling, glowing flinch, with old friends and family. The Christmas spirit fills the air, and there's a certain magic in the way the world seems to slow down and come alive with new possibilities.

I wonder how many folks have once upon a time played Rook, Scroch, or Pig? Once upon a time played Rook, Scroch, or Pig? Even the most serious-minded person would be hard-pressed to resist the allure of the Christmas spirit.

For That Cold Christmas Evening

By GERTRUDE BROWN

I'm a little bit of a story teller, and I'm always on the lookout for new ideas to share with my readers. One of the most popular ideas I've heard lately is the idea of setting up a Christmas scavenger hunt. It's a fun way to get everyone involved in the holidays, and it's a great way to keep the kids busy while you're cooking dinner.

The scavenger hunt can be as simple or as complex as you want it to be. You could start with a list of items that everyone needs to find, or you could make it more challenging by having people hunt for a specific type of item, like a type of candy or a type of decoration.

The best part about a Christmas scavenger hunt is that it's a great way to get everyone involved in the holiday spirit. It's a fun way to spend time together, and it's a great way to make memories that will last a lifetime.

So go ahead and start planning your Christmas scavenger hunt today. It's never too early to start thinking about the holidays, and I'm sure your family will love every minute of it.
