Dr. Mark L. Morris
Fall Banquet
Addresses the Inspiring was the speech delivered by Dr. Mark L. Morris, AVMA President, at the thirteenth annual fall banquet attended by students and faculty of the College of Veterinary Medicine. Guests from other veterinary medical units in the area such as the new National Animal Disease Laboratory were also in attendance.

"The future of veterinary medicine is in your hands. The men in my era have made their contributions. Today's graduate is thinking beyond private practice as his life work. Many more graduates are going into research and teaching, which would have been unexpected 20 years ago. The future of veterinary medicine will cease to be efficient and the end result will be a vacuum that will be filled by someone else outside the veterinary medical field."

Good food and fine entertainment made the evening a success. Maarten Drost '62, was general chairman and master of ceremonies of the event held in the Sun Room of the Memorial Union, I.S.U. on October 5, 1961.

A special welcome went to the distinguished guests, Dr. J. A. Henderson and Dr. F. D. Wertman, president and secretary-treasurer of the I.V.M.A. respectively, as well as Dr. Mark L. Morris, Jr. Due to the evergrowing number of members of the veterinary family of Ames, the Veterinary Medical Staff was introduced by departments this year by Dean I. A. Merchant. The Dean also presented the $300 Borden Scholarship award to Gerald Crawley of the senior class. The award is given annually to the student who attains the highest scholastic standing at the end of his junior year in the college of veterinary medicine.

Dr. Morris received a miniature replica of Christian Peterson's statue, "The Veterinarian", a token of appreciation for his address.
