Dawn

David T. Hoopes*

*Iowa State University

Copyright ©1959 by the authors. Sketch is produced by The Berkeley Electronic Press (bepress). http://lib.dr.iastate.edu/sketch
Dawn

a cobweb strung with dewy jewels of night stays briefly,
diamond lacework against the blue piled depth of sky, each drop retaining within its fragile shell a single spear of early morning light.

David T. Hoopes, Sc. & H. Grad.

Twilight

as fading light melts distinctness into shadowed, shapeless form, the still gold tips of hills create a broken crown about the head of dusk.
while stillness yet caresses the memory of day, night sounds
begin to whisper in the dark.

David T. Hoopes, Sc. & H. Grad.