The International Pig Veterinary Society (IPVS) will hold its fourth Congress at Iowa State University, Ames, Iowa, on June 22-24, 1976. Dr. Norman E. Hutton, D.V.M., secretary of the Congress, expects 500-700 United States registrants and 300-500 foreign registrants for the Congress, the first to be held in this country. Simultaneous interpretation will be available for the official Congress languages: English, French, German and Spanish.

To date, more than 300 papers have been received, with almost half of these from 33 foreign countries. The papers cover such topics as disease, surgery, nutrition, genetics, management and reproduction. Besides practitioners, speakers include animal scientists, nutritionists, engineers, toxicologists, drug company personnel and others associated with the swine industry.

The IPVS, according to Dr. Hutton, is a rather "loosely-structured organization", the purpose of which is to "encourage the international exchange of knowledge and ideas related not only to the prevention and control of swine diseases but also to the broadly-related areas of nutrition, reproduction and management."

The first Congress, with 350 registrants, was held at the University of Cambridge, England, in June, 1969. The second Congress, held at Hanover, Germany, in 1972, attracted 678 registrants, a much larger group from many more countries. The most recent Congress was held in 1974 at Lyon, France, with 531 in attendance.

Anyone desiring additional information on the program, housing or registration for the fourth Congress should contact Dr. Hutton, College of Veterinary Medicine, Iowa State University, Ames, Iowa 50010.
