Dr. Lassen Voted Instructor of the Year

Dr. Duane Lassen was the recipient of the Norden Distinguished Teacher of the Year Award at the 1977 spring SCAVMA banquet. In addition to being honored by his students and peers, Dr. Lassen received a $400 cash award and a memorial plaque, both contributions of Norden Laboratories, Lincoln, Nebraska.

The recipient is selected by each veterinary student voting for an individual he or she has had for an instructor. The votes are then tallied by the Norden Award Committee, consisting of past recipients and chaired by the previous year's winner. Thus, Dr. Lassen will succeed Dr. George Beran as the committee chairman. Following tabulation of the votes, the committee makes its recommendation to Dean Pearson who presents the award at the annual Spring Banquet.

Dr. Greve Noted for Outstanding Service

During the annual SCAVMA awards banquet in May, 1977, Dr. John H. Greve received the outstanding service award from the student chapter of the AVMA. This was the first presentation by the chapter of this award. This award is given to honor any faculty member, selected by the students, who has performed outstanding services and made outstanding contributions to students above and beyond their normal duties.

Dr. Greve received his DVM from Michigan State University in 1958, then spent five years at Purdue University prior to joining the faculty at ISU in 1963. He holds the rank of Professor in the department of Veterinary Pathology and is teaching veterinary parasitology.

Dr. Greve is a member of the AVMA and IVMA, American Association of Veterinary Parasitologists, Scouts of America program at the district level and has held several executive positions, including chairman and finance chairman with the scouting organization.

Several of the activities qualifying Dr. Greve for the award include: advisor to the OTS professional fraternity, in which he is an honorary member; sophomore class academic advisor from 1965 to 1976; and ISU Veterinarian faculty advisor since 1967. He has also served on the admissions committee of the ISU College of Veterinary Medicine since 1972. Other awards received by Dr. Greve include the Norden Distinguished Teacher Award in 1965, and ISU Outstanding Teacher Award in 1972.
