Poem

Michele Trankina*

*Iowa State University

Copyright ©1975 by the authors. Sketch is produced by The Berkeley Electronic Press (bepress).
http://lib.dr.iastate.edu/sketch
Poem
by Julia Corbett Journalism, Freshman

the likeness of your laughter sounding warm throughout the room plays softly with my memory but cruelly with my mood.

Poem
by Michele Trankina Zoology, Senior

He knows immediate pleasure as his fingers gently caress the lines of her smooth, curving body.
And, as she moans and whines in perfect time with his words—They become one.
She—numb in vibration—patiently waits then sighs and again they are one.

A man and his guitar.