Because someone had an idea...

Consider the many different Norden pharmaceuticals — Filaribits®, Filaribits® Plus, Spanbolet® II, Calf Span®, Life-Guard®, to name a few. All uniquely different, yet all uniquely alike.

Because deep inside each is an idea. Something that sets the Norden pharmaceutical apart from all others. And makes it different. Special.

This compulsion to break with traditional concepts calls for a special group of research scientists. Along with a corporate willingness to provide the facilities and finances necessary to nurture their ideas, from laboratory to reality.

It's an investment and a commitment that each day becomes more significant at Norden. On our horizon are a host of new ideas in different stages of development: anthelmintics (both prophylactic and therapeutic), physiological modulators, antibacterials, ectoparasiticides, gastrointestinal medications other projects too numerous to mention.

Our research goal, as always, is to bring you not just a new product, but a new concept within that product. To provide the something extra that will make these new offerings distinctive, exclusive — better for you and the profession.
ADMISSIONS
POLICY CHANGE

For the past several years the College of Veterinary Medicine has not accepted applications from students who are residents of states with an accredited College of Veterinary Medicine. Effective with the current application cycle, we are accepting applications from all states, territories and U.S. dependencies. Iowa State University College of Veterinary Medicine has many associations with veterinarians in states with veterinary colleges, especially our neighboring states of Minnesota, Illinois, Kansas and Missouri. Inquiries about our College from students who are residents of these or other states with veterinary colleges should be directed to the associate dean's office.

Meeting of the ISUVMAA
Board of Directors

Editor's Note: The following report is published at the request of the Secretary-Treasurer of the Iowa State University Veterinary Medical Alumni Association.

Alumni Room, College of Veterinary Medicine, Ames; June 7, 1985

Members present: President William Hoefle, Cary Christensen, Marvin Johnson, Duke Wilgenbusch and Nolan Hartwig.

Absent: Jerry DenHerder

The treasurer's report, copy attached, was presented. Member response is positive and the financial condition of the alumni association is sound.

An ISUVMAA service award was discussed. Dr. Christensen moved, and Dr. Wilgenbusch seconded, a motion to name the award the ISUVMAA Distinguished Service Award. The motion carried. The award will be given to the ISU College of Veterinary Medicine faculty or staff member who demonstrates outstanding service to private practitioners, and will complement present teaching and research awards presented by the University and/or private companies. The award, in the amount of $1,000, will be presented at the annual luncheon of ISUV-
MAA during the IVMA convention. The award will only be presented in years when an outstanding candidate is identified. For the first year, the Board of Directors of ISUVMAA will serve as the awards committee.

Christensen moved (Johnson seconded) that, as of January 1, 1986, all Order of the Knoll and Sustaining Members of the ISU Veterinary Medicine Challenge Fund will automatically be lifetime members of the ISU Veterinary Medical Alumni Association. Motion carried unanimously.

Support of the 1986 ten-year recognition of the ISU Veterinary Medical Challenge Fund was discussed.

The secretary/treasurer reviewed the Alumni Reception and Stange awards dinner sponsored by ISUVMAA.

The 1986 annual meeting and luncheon of the Iowa State University Veterinary Medical Alumni Association was held at the Des Moines Club on January 28 in conjunction with the annual convention of the Iowa Veterinary Medical Association. Ed Banach, assistant wrestling coach at Iowa State was the featured speaker.

The 1985 treasurer's and secretary's report was accepted by the membership. The proposed 1986 annual budget was also approved, including a provision that Sustaining Members of the College of Veterinary Medicine Challenge Fund shall be lifetime members of the ISU Veterinary Medical Alumni Association. This allows the Alumni Association to recognize outstanding support of the College of Veterinary Medicine.

The Alumni Association, by action of the Board of Directors, established an Outstanding Service Award, to be presented to an ISU College of Veterinary Medicine Faculty Member who performs outstanding service to the profession, colleagues, alumni, and animal owning public. The award is a commemorative plaque and $1,000. It will not necessarily be given every year. The recipient of this years award was Dr. Paul G. Eness, ’63, Professor in the Department of Veterinary Clinical Sciences.

Officers for 1986 are:
- President, Cary Christensen
- Vice President, Jerry Den Herder
- Secy/Treas, Nolan Hartwig

Board members are Bill Hoefle, immediate past president, Loras Wilgenbush, and Wendell Davis, new board member from Lake Park, Iowa.

1985 ACTIVITIES OF ISUVMAA

The past year was a busy one for the Alumni Association.

Receptions were held at the AVMA in Las Vegas, the AASP, AAHA, and other national meetings. These receptions are popular and well-received by our alums scattered around the country.

The association sponsored the Stange Awards Dinner in 1985, honoring Drs. Clarence Bierschval, Roger P. Link, and Melbourne B. Tiegland.

Student awards of $667.00 were given, as well as $1,000 to the Student Chapter of AVMA to help defray travel expenses to the annual meeting held in Columbus, Ohio.

Homecoming was another major event and was a success. Students and the Student Auxiliary were most helpful in sponsoring this event. In 1986, Homecoming will include celebration of the 10th anniversary of the Iowa State University Veterinary Medicine Challenge Fund.

Subscription to the I.S.U. Veterinarian and the Gentle Doctor accompanies all members' due. Active membership is steady at about 1,700.

The association is in excellent financial condition and endeavors to serve all alumni of the College of Veterinary Medicine. Please contact us with your suggestions.

AUDITING COMMITTEE'S REPORT

January 10, 1986

We, the Auditing Committee of the Iowa State University Veterinary Medical Alumni Association, have examined the Treasurer's Report for 1985 and find that the assets as of December 31, 1985, are consistent with the income and disbursement listings for 1985. We hereby recommend that this report be approved.

Murray Fowler (ISU '55), of the University of California at Davis, is editor of the second edition of Zoo and Wild Animal Medicine.

Alumnus Revises Zoo and Wildlife Textbook

Today's veterinarian is more likely than ever before to encounter exotic animals in his practice, whether as domestic pets or as part of a captive or free-living wild group.

Whether the problem is hoof-trimming for zebras, avian nutrition, infections of reptiles or feeding of invertebrates kept as pets or study animals, it is covered in the second edition of Zoo and Wild Animal Medicine, published by W. B. Saunders.

Edited by Murray E. Fowler, D.V.M., professor of zoo medicine and wildlife diseases at the School of Veterinary Medicine, University of California, Davis, the volume contains contributions from 86 specialists from North American, England, Europe and Australia. Morris Animal Foundation, Englewood, Colorado, sponsored the 1100-page book, which sells for $85.

The first volume, published in 1979, was the first zoo and wild animal medicine book written in English. The second edition was in production five years and is completely updated and reformed. Selections include an introduction and overview with articles on wildlife medicine, preventive medicine, stress, restraint, and anesthesia. Special medicine sections are included for amphibians and reptiles, birds, mammals and invertebrates, with detailed appendices.

UCD Veterinarian Honored

The American Association of Veterinary Anatomists (AAVA) honored Dr. Ralph L. Kitchell, professor, department of anatomy, University of California, Davis School of Veterinary Medicine, with their Achievement Award.

This award, the first of its kind ever presented, recognizes a member who has achieved distinction in teaching, research, service, and contributions to the recipient's home institution and to veterinary anatomy as a discipline.

A charter member of the AAVA, Kitchell served the organization in 1951–52 as a secretary-treasurer and as president in 1954–55. In addition, he has chaired numerous committees and commissions for the organization.

Kitchell has received four awards for teaching, including selection by the veterinary class of 1987 as their teacher of the year and the UCD Distinguished Teacher Award in 1981. He also received the Norden Distinguished Teacher Award in 1978 at UCD and at the University of Minnesota in 1964.

In 1985, Kitchell was a recipient of the Ralston Purina Small Animal Research award for his studies in neurology.

Kitchell is a 1943 graduate of Iowa State University School of Veterinary Medicine, and prior to coming to UCD, he served as dean of the College of Veterinary Medicine at Kansas State University (1964–1966) and at Iowa State University (1966–71). He has been a member of the faculty at UCD since 1971.

He is well known for his research in the fields of somatosensory physiology, taste perception, and pain perception in animals, having authored or co-authored more than 84 articles in these fields.
