Kelsey Cummings
is a junior in English and a master at quoting movies everyone’s probably forgotten by now. She hopes her time at Sketch will one day catapult her into literary success at a book publishing company in a city with a long history of charm.

Kallie Yearick
is a senior majoring in psychology with a minor in English. When she’s not analyzing people, she loves creative writing, and she’s been a part of Sketch since freshman year.

Brenda Tyrrell
is an English and classical studies double major with a minor in film studies. She has been part of Sketch for a year and loves reading the variety of submissions from talented ISU students!

Annamarie Bellegante is a recent graduate with a BA in English and minors in journalism, technical communication, and performing arts. Anna is currently seeking a job as an editor or writer for a publishing company or advertising agency. When she isn’t job hunting, Anna is most likely reading, writing, drinking tea, or any combination of the three. As this is her final issue, Anna would like to thank the artists, staff, and Christiana Langenberg for enriching her adventure at Iowa State.

Monika J. Sharma
is a senior is Graphic Design with a minor in English and Digital Media. When she’s not in the design building, she can usually be found doing something dance related or napping with her dogs.
