A Fall

By Kayla Krull

is a beautiful exchange of colors, a last flare before sparkling's crosshatch.
A reminder to let go of twigs and open doors before Old Winter's stretch.

is a painful, embarrassing experience. A moment of indecision, do I stand up laughing or crying?
Did anybody catch my collision?

is a chance encounter filled with a splash of charm guided by a breath and a sweep of the iris.

wrecked me, shredded me threw me to bits for a time to roll back together. Who will emerge a new from the fall?
